GRANDI, MACDONALD SILENT ON MEETING

British Reported Hopeful of Accord Between Italy and France.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Prime Minister Andre Tardieu of France will not return to London this week-end, as he suggested when he left here that he would do, to resume negotiations on behalf of his government at the Five-Power Naval parley, it was definitely learned tonight.

When Foreign Minister Aristide Briand left here for Paris this morning, one of his parting remarks was that there was no use in his sitting in his hotel looking out into the street, but that he would come back when there was something for him to do.

M. Jacques-Louis Dumesnil, French minister of marine, who now heads what is left of the French delegation, proclaims that he has no power to negotiate about anything.

Franco-Italian Deadlock Unbroken.

These definite facts, coupled with dispatches from Paris and Rome indicating that no end of the Franco-Italian deadlock is in sight, stand out tonight before naval conference circles in which the paramount question of the moment is "are the French coming back?"

Two answers are confidently returned to that query. One is that hints from Paris have convinced the British that M. Tardieu and M. Briand will not return unless they receive satisfactory assurances as to the Italian attitude.

The other is that French statesmen have no intention of leaving Great Britain, the United States and Japan here to complete a three-power treaty among themselves.

Situation in Commons.

Whatever the next development in the present critical situation may be, it is now clear that no attack on the coal mines bill, now in its committee stage, will topple the MacDonald government from office while the naval conference continues.

The Liberal party formally announced today that it will take no part in moving or supporting amendments to the bill. Two conservative amendments to the bill were defeated in the House of Commons shortly after this announcement, the first by a vote of 274 to 229 and the second by a vote of 267 to 220.

The only conference event today was a half-hour meeting between Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in the latter's office in the House of Commons. No statement was made either by British or Italian spokesmen after this conversation. It is gathered, however, that Mr. MacDonald did not mention Italian figures, warmly denied reports that an appeal was made by the British and American statesmen in Rome to Premier Mussolini over Signor Grandi's head, gave Signor Grandi his version of the talk with M. Tardieu at Chequers last Sunday and permitted Signor Grandi to understand, without saying so, that the purpose of his visit to M. Briand last night was to try to persuade the French foreign minister not to leave London.

Attitude of MacDonald.

It is also gathered that the prime minister told Signor Grandi that he is a neutral chairman of the conference, anxious to promote agreement, but determined to take no sides between Italy and France. While the British have actually given up hope of a five-power treaty being negotiated here, efforts to break the Franco-Italian deadlock have not yet been formally abandoned.

Yesterday's session of the British and American chiefs, it is learned today, discussed tables of French and Italian ships, showing those actually built which are not yet obsolete and those now building, excluding all old ships and all appropriated for and projected. The experts found a difference in combatant craft considered on this basis of only 56,000 tons, excluding battleships.

While I was at Italian headquarters tonight a suggestion based on these figures and having the blessing of the British and Americans was received from the American delegation. Its contents were known in advance by the Italians and considered unacceptable by them as the basis for

Foreign Envoys Tell Traffic Rules Stand

MICHAEL MACWHITE. E. DIEZ DE MEDINA.

Following the publication of an editorial Wednesday on diplomatic immunity, especially with regard to District traffic regulations, The Post has solicited opinions of the various foreign ambassadors and ministers in Washington on the privilege and on The Post editorial and has asked for any suggestions the envoys care to make on the maintenance of cordial relations between the foreign residents and the residents of the National Capital. The issue was revived when Paul Edward Hammond, young railway clerk, was critically injured by a collision between his car and that of Juan Polich, Chilean naval attache.

Below are the responses from two ministers:

Irish Minister Asserts Immunity Should Be Curb in Itself.

Diplomatic immunity does not permit representatives of foreign governments to violate the traffic regulations of the District of Columbia; rather it imposes an additional responsibility upon them to be circumspect in their observance of these ordinances, in the opinion of Michael MacWhite, Minister of the Irish Free State.

The Irish Minister made it plain, however, that his view was in no way a denouncement of Commander Polich, as he was not familiar with the facts in the case.

"Diplomatic immunity is a restriction rather than a liberty in that it should make a foreign representative more careful not to violate the trust," Mr. MacWhite said. "It certainly does not permit the disregard of local

The belief that diplomatic immunitiesmunities "bind those who enjoy them to be especially scrupulous in the observance of the official regulations" of the country extending them is expressed by E. Diez de Medina, Minister of Bolivia.

His letter in reply to the query by The Post follows in full:

"In my opinion, the immunities enjoyed in all civilized countries by members of the Diplomatic Corps, universally granted—not by a determined government or country—but by international law, bind those who enjoy them to be especially scrupulous in the observance of the official regulations and rules of the country inviting it shospitality.

Names of 'John' and 'Henry' Discounted by Chicago Authorities.

Miami, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Six men arrested after a liquor raid tonight at the palatial Palm Island winter estate of Al Capone, Chicago gangster, were released under cash bond at a special session of Circuit Court tonight. Bond was for their appearance tomorrow morning at hearing on applications for writs of habeas corpus.

Two of the men gave their names as John and Albert Capone. Police said they were brothers of the gangster. Information from Chicago, however, was that Capone has only two brothers, Mimi, 36, and Ralph, who operates a night club in Cicero, Ill. Local reports during the winter have been that three brothers of the Chicago gang chieftain were in business here.

The man who gave the name of John Capone was held, with Frankie Newton, said to be caretaker of the Capone winter home, under charges of illegal possession of liquor. Bond of $500 cash was made by both.

Liquor Is Seized.

The men known to police as Albert Capone and James Vincent, Louis Cowen and L. J. Brennan were released under cash bond of $250 each on charges of vagrancy. The hearing was before Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson.

The raid, in which a quantity of liquor was seized, was made on a capais issued by Judge E. C. Collins, of Dade County Criminal Court of Record. The capias was based on affidavits of deputies that they saw liquor in the Capone home two weeks ago when they went there in search of Roy "Crane Neck" Nugent, wanted in Ohio on charges in connection with several killings. Raiding officers said they saw no trace of Al Capone at the house.

Officers on the raid on the Capone residence found ten sacks and three bottles of liquor in a bathroom connected with Capone's suite. In the kitchen refrigerator deputies found an iced bottle of champagne, and in a closet off the kitchen two bottles of champagne and a bottle of wine, they said.

BORAH SWITCH BLOCKS TARIFF LEVY ON SHOES

Idaho Senator Strikes Grundy Hard Blow in 36-to-35 Vote.

HIDES AND LEATHERS ALSO ON FREE LIST

SOFT LUMBER DUTY IS PASSED, 39 TO 38

Reason Why Democrats Did Not Prevent Rate Is Seen as Mystery.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

With his coalition ship sinking under him Senator Borah made one last stand for "principles" last night, and in so doing dealt his enemy, Senator Joe Grundy, a most severe blow.

It was the most dramatic incident in the long-drawn-out consideration of the tariff. The Senate had voted 36 to 35 to place a tariff on hides, leathers and shoes when the senator switched his vote and placed them on the free list again.

It was the fourth time the matter had been considered and the last. Senator Borah and his fellow coalitionists want a duty on hides but the question was whether to accept the offsetting compensatory duties which the East demanded on shoes. The question came up suddenly last night upon a motion to reconsider the Oddie amendment placing a 4-cent duty on raw hides, 8 cents on dried, 6 per cent ad valorem on sole leather, 14 per cent on all shoes except women's and 20 per cent on those.

Grundy Casts Deciding Vote.

The vote was nip and tuck all down the line, the coalition, including Senator Borah, apparently having decided to accept the bargain. At the end of the roll call it was 35 and 35 when Grundy entered the chamber to make it 36 to 35 for the amendment.

This was too much for the Idaho senator. Reluctant to accept the bargain in the first place, yet wanting to get something for the farmers on hides he had voted "aye." But it was as if Senator Grundy's deciding vote recalled the whole picture of what has transpired in the past few weeks, how this man has come into the Senate and wrecked the Borah coalition, transformed the bill from a coalition written one for the farmers to a Grundy one for industry.

Borah Changes Vote.

Senator Borah was heard by his fellow senators to remark that as badly as he wanted the duty on hides he would not permit his vote to place the proposed duties on shoes. He jumped up and changed his vote to "nay," whereupon the hide and shoe duty was again voted down.

Figures previously placed in the record by Senator Hawes, of Missouri, purported to show that the farmers would have received $31,000,000 by the

SWORTZELL AND GIRLS ARE FREED ON BOND

Congressional Action Is Indicated if Sufficient Cause Is Seen.

A congressional investigation of the "shakedown" scandal in the Police Department was threatened late yesterday, as charges of attempted extortion—a felony under the District laws—were preferred against a policeman and two civilians, and two girl inmates of a disorderly house and two men, one a policeman, were held as Government witnesses.

The situation has developed out of the shooting early Wednesday of James Crotts, young bricklayer and carnival motordrome rider, by Policeman S. F. Gravely, of the Third Precinct, who apparently was "on duty" outside his own bailiwick without the knowledge or consent of any of his superior officers.

According to a comparison and summarization of the many garbled and complicated stories which have come to the police, Crotts was shot when he attempted to escape after a girl had complained to Gravely and Detective W. F. Burke, also of the Third Precinct, that Crotts, Policeman Ardie C. Swortzel of the Fourth Precinct, and another man, John C. Elgin, had attempted to "shake her down" for $30 in a disorderly house where she and another girl were staying.

Hearing Due Today.

The charges of attempted extortion were filed against Grotts, Swortzel and Elgin early last night, and the latter two are to be given a preliminary hearing in Police Court today. Crotts is near death in Casualty Hospital, where physicians last night stated that he has a slight chance to recover.

Swortzel, who has been held a prisoner at the Third Precinct since the shooting, was released last night when bond of $1,000 was posted for him by Pat O'Connor, a professional bondsman. Rose Marie Foster and Frances O'Brien, the two girls, were also released from the House of Detention when bonds of $2,000 and $1,000, respectively, were posted for them by Edward Buckley, another professional bondsman.

Lieut. Ed Kelly, chief of the homicide squad, and Headquarters Detective Arthur T. Pihelly visited Crotts last night in the hospital and gave orders there that the patient is to be held incommunicado, and that not even his parents are to be permitted to see him.

Crotts Called Robber.

According to police, James Whitely, of Massachusetts avenue, near Thirteenth street northwest, assistant engineer at the Wardman Park Hotel, yesterday identified a picture of Crotts published in The Post as that of a man he said held him up at the point of a pistol Saturday night.

The police incidental report made at the Second Precinct, quoted Whitely as saying that he had been accosted on K street, near Twelfth, by the man who stuck a gun in his ribs and ordered him to "grab for the stars." Crotts lives in that block.

Whitely said he refused to "stick 'em up" and that thereupon the gunman lost his nerve and fled. He is to be taken to the hospital today to verify his identification.

The release of Swortzel and the two girls leaves five men still in custody.

LABOR PARTY WINS IN COAL BILL VOTE

VISITORS ARE EJECTED

London, March 20 (A.P.).—With the Liberal party officially taking no part in moving or supporting amendments to the government's coal mines bill in its committee stages, the Labor government tonight defeated two Conservative amendments to it.

The vote on the first amendment was 274 to 229, and 267 to 230 on the second. On neither occasion did the Conservatives muster their full voting strength of 260.

A week ago tonight's debate loomed up ominously in Prime Minister MacDonald's path. Then political observers feared that the Liberals would, as they had done only recently, join the Conservatives and defeat the government.

This feeling of tension vanished several days ago when the Liberal parliamentary party decided in view

YOUTH AND WOMAN DISCOVERED KILLED

HUSBAND FINDS BODIES

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 20.—Thomas Howerton, 19, and Mrs. W. L. Stone, 46, were found dead this afternoon at a small filling station near Carlyle on the highway between here and Martinsville. The woman's head was fractured and mutilated, while Howerton had a pistol bullet through the left ear.

The discovery was made by Mrs. Stone's husband, who left the store an hour previously to run an errand to Martinsville. Upon his return he found the two bodies. The store was in confusion, indicating a struggle.

Sheriff J. M. Davis was unable to arrive at a definite conclusion over the double killing, for in Howerton's pocket was a note in which he said that since he could not live with "my girl, Bettie Sizemore, now in Martins-

12 Held in Smuggling Of Arms Into Mexico

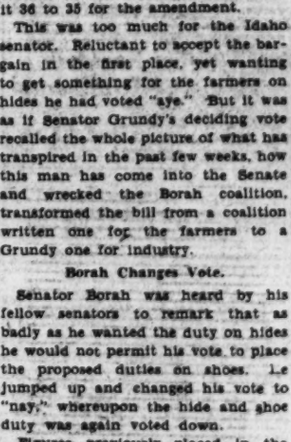
Gen. Escobar Is Sought In Round-Up of Alleged Munitions Runners.

Tucson, Ariz., March 20 (A.P.).—The roundup of an alleged ring of munition smugglers who organized a conspiracy during the rebellion which swept Mexico a year ago was disclosed here today by John Gung'l, United States district attorney. The Government charged Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, commander in chief of the Mexican revolutionary forces during the two-month campaign, was the leader of the illicit operations. Of his alleged assistants, Gung'l said twelve had been arrested and six persons, including Escobar, are sought.

Two members of the alleged ring were indicted here recently by the Federal grand jury for conspiring to smuggle munitions of war into Mexico from the United States for use by revolutionary forces, an act constituting violation of the neutrality agreement between Mexico and this country.

The accused include both Americans and Mexicans and the arrests thus far made occurred in the United States and Europe. Those arrested are free on bond. It is likely, Gung'l said, they would be tried jointly here this fall.

They are Ignacio Moran, former Mexican Ambassador to Germany, arrested in New York; Salvador Ateca, arrested in Spain; Glenn N. Carr, arrested in Albuquerque, N. Mex.; Capt.



GEN. JOSE G. ESCOBAR.

R. H. Polk, American aviator, arrested in Nashville, Tenn.; Phillip "Red" Mohun, American aviator arrested here; Augustine Gallo, arrested at Las Cruces, N. Mex.; Adrian Enriquez, arrested in Chicago, and Antonio G. Maquero, Vincente de Andreas, Gen. Augustine de La Vega, Albino Frias, Salvador Franco Uria, all arrested at El Paso, Tex.

With the exception of Escobar the names of the alleged conspirators still at large were kept secret. Escobar fled to the United States after the collapse of the rebellion and unverified rumors are that he is in China.

Paris, March 20 (A.P.).—The Monacan high court today pronounced a separation of Prince Pierre and Princess Charlotte of Monaco, whose domestic troubles have been causing difficulties in the little principality.

The judgment was based on an arbitration agreement proposed by Raymond Poincare, who acted in his capacity of private lawyer. Vernal Equinox to Bring Chill Winds, Weather Bureau Asserts.

Old Vernal Equinox, which sounds like something for which you should have an operation, but which in reality is nothing but the spring season of the year, is with us again.

Accompanied by the Weather Bureau's prediction of much colder tonight, old Vernal Equinox arrived at 3:30 o'clock this morning. No shrieking sirens or clanging bells greeted the arrival, as is the case when a New Year makes its appearance, but in the hearts of 100,000,000 people "hope sprang eternal."

For the arrival of old Vernal Equinox is generally accepted as the signal for getting out the golf clubs, oiling up the baseball gloves, replacing ball bearings in the roller skates and (in the case of husbands and fathers) digging deep for cash to adorn his family with the latest in finery.

$6,500,000 Appropriation for Museum Asked in Reed Bill.

The natural history building of the National Museum, the dome-surmounted structure at Tenth and B streets, would be enlarged to twice its present size, under a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah.

The bill authorizes an appropriation of $6,500,000, which would be used to lengthen the two wings of the building.

Dr. C. G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, which administers the National Museum, said last night that the natural history building is as crowded as a woman traveler's trunk.

Not only are the cases containing specimens of animals, minerals and the like chock-a-block in the building, he said, but there is an acute lack of room for scientists and others who are at work there.

including Crotts and Policeman Gravely, who has been "requested" by Capt. William G. Stott, commander of the Third Precinct, to remain there until further notice.

All Are Listed.

Those now held include Elgin and Crotts, against whom the attempted extortion charges stand; Hugh C. Hummel, of Plainfield, N. J., a "customer" in the disorderly house on First street northwest near Thomas street and in frontof which the shooting occurred; Gravely, who is to face the Police Trial Board next Wednesday o na charge of misusing his service revolver, and John C. Cornell, who was arrested by Burke in a hotel here shortly after the shooting and is held for investigation in connection with a reported hold-up of the same First street house early Sunday morning. In that robbery, jewelry valued at $1,655 and $165 in cash was reported stolen from eight men and four girls by three gunmen.

It was to find Cornell that Burke, assigned to the task by Lieut. Ed Kelly, chief of the homicide squad, had gone to the First street address with Gravely Tuesday night. As they arrived there in a police automobile, they were hailed by the Foster girl who told them that Swortzel, Crotts and Elgin had attempted to "shake her down" for $30.

Inspector Thaddeus Bean, who is investigating the affair, yesterday turned the spotlight upon the possibility that Burke's connection with the case might have been founded upon something more than a mere casual speaking acquaintance with the proprietor and inmates of the disorderly house, which is located in the Eighth Precinct.

Report Is Mystifying.

One question still unanswered is why Della Greathouse, landlady, should have gone to Burke, a Third Precinct policeman, to report the Sunday morning robbery, instead of to the Eighth Precinct or direct to headquarters.

In her affidavit given to Inspector Bean Wednesday, the Foster girl stated that she had met Burke and Gravely while she was formerly in the Third Precinct, and that it was because of her previous acquaintance with the two policemen that she had recognized them and told them of the attempted extortion. The extent and duration of this acquaintance is another point which Inspector Bean feels should be straightened out.

It is expected that the Police Trial Board will reach the cases of Policemen Swortzel, charged with prejudicial conduct, and of Gravely by next Wednesday. Whether an extortion charge will be brought against Crott, Swortzel and Elgin, whether any charges will be prosecuted against Gravely by the district attorney, and whether Trial Board action will be taken against Burke, are questions which have not yet reached the point of answer.

Girl Faces Charge.

In addition to being held as a witness, the Foster girl also is under arrest under bond of $1,500 on a charge of operating a disorderly house, the result of a raid staged in the Third Precinct last November 18. This warrant was served on her by the First Precinct after she was lodged in the House of Detention Wednesday.

Senator Robsion (Republican), of Kentucky, chairman of the police and fire subcommittee of the Senate District committee, announced that he would call a meeting early next week to decide on a course of action.

Whether the subcommittee investigates, he said, will depend on what has been done by other agencies, including the district attorney's office and the Police Department itself. If these have acted in a way that satisfies the subcommittee, Senator Robsion said, then probably nothing will be done about the matter at the Capitol.

Outcome of Wound Awaited.

District Attorney Leo A. Rover said yesterday that if Crotts does not survive his wound, Gravely will be arrested and held for the coroner's jury. If Crotts lives, the probability is seen that Gravely may be brought into court on a charge of assault. In addition to the criminal charge against Swortzel, which is to be aired in Police Court, he also will go before the Police Trial Board next Wednesday on a charge of conduct prejudicial to the reputation and good order of the Police Department.

Mr. Rover yesterday reiterated his statement that Burke was not working for his office at the time of the shooting, his last job for the District attorney's office being a raid staged Saturday night on a disorderly house on U street, around the corner from the scene of Tuesday night's affair.

The District attorney stated that Gravely never had done any work for his office. About three weeks ago, however, Assistant District Attorney R. F. Camalier, under whose direction Burke had worked when on such duty, personally accompanied both Burke and Gravely on a raid at a disorderly house operated by a negro woman on French street northwest.

CARBIDE FIRM HEAD CITED IN LOBBY QUIZ

Haggerson and Huston Aid to Testify Today in Muscle Shoals Inquiry.

CHAIRMAN WON'T QUIT

(Associated Press.)

Two new witnesses were summoned yesterday by the Senate lobby committee in its inquiry into a New York brokerage account maintained by Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, and to obtain additional information concerning testimony by Huston that he had sold maps and charts belonging to the Tennessee River Improvement Association to the Union Carbide Co., for $36,100.

Fred H. Haggerson, president of the Union Carbide Co., and W. E. Moore, personal representative of Huston, were directed to appear today. They will be questioned about the $36,100 which Huston testified was given him by Haggerson and deposited with his brokers in the name of Moore.

Charles A. Krickl, a member of the brokerage firm of Blyth & Bonner, testified Wednesday that $14,100 of the amount had been used as margin for the purchase of stock. Huston denied knowledge of the transactions.

$36,100 for Maps.

Huston told the committee yesterday that he had made an oral agreement with Haggerson to turn over to the Union Carbide Co. maps and charts of the Tennessee River, which were prepared by the Tennessee River Improvement Association, when the organization ceased to function, in consideration of the $36,100 payment.

"What right did you have to sell the property?" asked Chairman Caraway.

"I was president of the association," Huston replied.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, inquired whether chambers of commerce and other organizations had contributed money to the association which had been used partially in preparing the maps and charts.

"That is correct," Huston said.

Huston previously had testified that the money was contributed by the Carbide Co. for use in the work of the association. He explained yesterday that the cost of preparing the maps and charts had been estimated at $36,100, and that this amount had been turned over to him by Haggerson.

Denies He Will Quit.

Questioned by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, Huston said the Union Carbide Co. was interested in the proposal of the American Cyanamid Co. to lease Muscle Shoals, which has been supported by the Tennessee Association. The Carbide Co., he explained, had a contract to obtain part of the power if the Cyanamid offer were accepted.

"They understood that your association was going to forward the project and promote that legislation?" asked Walsh.

"Unless some better were presented, yes," Huston replied.

Before Huston testified yesterday, he denied published reports that he would resign as chairman of the Republican national committee. This has been rumored since his name was mentioned frequently in the lobby committee's investigation of persons interested in Muscle Shoals.

Court Rules Girl Must Return Ring

Engagement Band Was Gift Conditional on Marriage, He Says.

Philadelphia, March 19.—An engagement ring is a conditional gift. If the girl who gets one refuses to marry the purchaser of the ring she can be forced legally to return it.

This epochal decision was reached by the supreme court when it reversed the court of common pleas on the suit brought there against Pauline Hornung by Ernest Ruehling. The lower court had granted a compulsory nonsuit after hearing Ruehling charged that he had given an $800 diamond ring to Mis Hornung upon her promise to marry him.

At the trial Ruehling produced a manufacturing jeweler who testified that Miss Hornung had called at his establishment with Ruehling and had helped him choose the engagement ring. The jeweler also testified that the girl had ordered him to engrave her own and Ruehling's initials in the ring. Three months later she returned with the ring and ordered him to remove the initials because she had decided not to marry Ruehling, the jeweler testified.

Yet the court of common pleas threw Ruehling's case out of court on the ground that a gift was a gift. In the decision handed down on Ruehling's appeal, Judge Gawthrop, who wrote the opinion, said the gift was conditional on the girl's carrying out her marriage promise. The opinion established a precedent in such matters for this State. Judge Gawthrop said he based the opinion on decisions made in similar cases in other States.

None of the men, he said, had complained of anything unusual around the Carter home. There have been no loiterers around the vicinity who might be "gunmen" out for business, and the watch itself, as one of the privates expressed it, is getting a little "tiresome."

No notices of any "black hand" letters or warnings of any kind have been received recently at the Carter home so far as he knows, Capt. Sheets said yesterday.

BEGAN STUDY AS YOUTH

Wilmington, Del., March 20.—A hobby which began when he was a youth and has continued with unceasing zeal for years has earned for Joseph Wigglesworth, of Hillcrest, the reputation of being an authority on Indian relics and a collection that is the envy of every enthusiast who has seen it.

One day when Wigglesworth was about 15 he took a walk with his father across a field. Suddenly a piece of stone, carved like the tip of an arrow, caught his eye.

"What is it, father?" he asked, picking it up and examining it curiously.

"It's an Indian arrowhead, son," his father replied, and told him a little bit of its history. That was enough to set the youngster's mind working and he then resolved to look into the subject on his own hook and to make a complete study of it.

"Den" Is Miniature Museum.

The result is a large room, or "den," which he has built in his home, containing some of the most valued bits of Indian relics in the world. The room is really a miniature museum, with showcases containing row upon row of relics neatly displayed and marked with the names of the places from which they were unearthed.

When he was younger, Mr. Wigglesworth used to leave home for long periods of time and spend months with archeological expeditions or with other enthusiasts interested in following this occupation. The time was spent in digging the earth on farms where traces of Indian habitations were found by farmers in plowing their fields. At the present time he is still in touch with farmers scattered in numerous States, and every summer he spends some time on their farms, with their permission, in his search for more objects of interest.

Has 30,000 Arrowheads.

In his private museum Mr. Wiggleworth has at present more than 30,000 Indian arrowheads of all shapes, sizes and colors, made out of flint, jasper or quartz and all other hard substances or minerals. They were collected from Delaware, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and many other States. The larger of these were fastened to spears by the Indians to be used in their hunt for game. The smaller heads were used either to hunt birds or in warfare by painting the tips with some poisonous substance, which when injected into the body proved fatal.

Stone Axes Described.

Among the other objects of interest are grooved axes, which take an important place among the stone implements used by the Indians. He has a large collection of them found in this State and attributes their origin to the Leni-Lenape Indians who were the original denizens of Delaware. The usual form of such an ax is that of a thick wedge with an encircling groove near the top for securing the handle.

Pestles, deer bone needles, little objects of stone fashioned and decorated in a most remarkable manner considering the limited means of tools possessed by the Indians, and mounted pottery, are included in the collection in his home.

He has many pieces of pottery, some of which were unearthed in perfect stages of preservation. They are usually found in mounds, Mr. Wigglesworth explains, and a great many of them were taken from the State of Delaware.

Many Objects Found in Mounds.

A mound is merely an artificial hillock made by the Indians from 4 to 18 feet high and to several hundred feet in length. The Indians used them to bury their dead along with the decorative objects which were thought to bring the departed good luck and help their souls across the "River Styx."

Some of the places in this State that have been excavated by Mr. Wigglesworth are located at Crane Hook, Briar Hill, as well as about twelve other villages along the Christian River. A spot at Edge Moor also offered facilities for excavation, as does the territory along Naaman's Creek.

Eventually Mr. Wigglesworth hopes to place his collection in some museum where it may be seen by the public.

$2,500 Broken Nose Verdict Is Sustained

Memphis, Tenn., March 19.—A three-year court battle, outgrowth of a much shorter fistic encounter, ended when the State Supreme Court denied a writ of certiorari in the case of Bernard Patton and Fred Montesi.

Patton was awarded $2,500 for a broken nose and a lacerated head by a third circuit court jury. He sued Montesi for $10,000, charging that Montesi had assaulted him without cause. Montesi contended that Patton, young filling station attendant, provoked the attack by throwing a soda bottle at his small son. In the first trial Patton was allowed $25, but a new trial was granted and the amount materially increased. Montesi then appealed.

INSURANCE SPLITS AUTO CLUB GROUPS

Members of Some Favor Strictest Compulsory Protection.

MANY AGAINST ANY FORM

Members of motor clubs, both those which are in the insurance business and those which are not, are of different minds on the subject of compulsory automobile insurance in its mildest or most drastic form. This is revealed in a questionnaire sent to member clubs of the American Motorists Association in connection with the organization's annual meeting for a discussion of national policies.

Response to the questionnaire, officials of the organization point out, indicates that some clubs are openly for compulsory liability insurance in its most drastic form. Others are opposed to all such legislation regardless of the temperate mold in which it may be cast.

The organization, by its questionnaire, essayed to actually determine member sentiment on the issue rather than to prescribe any one variety of enforced protection as "best."

In connection with the questionnaire, a survey of the major clubs affiliated with the American Motorists Association showed that a high percentage of all club members voluntarily carried some form of insurance protection.

Numerous other items of national concern to motorists will come before the annual meeting, which will be held next week in New York. They include such subjects as highway safety, Federal aid, gasoline taxes, gradual elimination of grade crossings, a universal automobile driver's license law, uniform traffic signals and opposition to toll bridges on Federal aid highways.

More than 100 representatives of member clubs are expected to attend the sessions.

Boy Teacher Scolded Hangs Self in School

Buffalo, N. Y., March 20 (A.P.).—Eight-year-old Firard Lyons, public school pupil, was banished to the cloatroom by his teacher today for being unruly.

A half hour later when the other children were dismissed they shrieked in terror as they found the boy hanging by his necktie attached to a pair of coat hooks on the wall. Efforts to revive him failed.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 11 a. m. and recessed at 9:55 p. m. to 11 a. m. today.

Continued debate on the tariff bill, approving a duty on soft wood lumber, rejecting for the fourth time, proposed duties on hides, leather and shoes, and adopting an amendment providing for the suspension of duties on all commodities in which monopolies are found to exist.

Authorized payment of $25,000 each to William S. Vare and William B. Wilson to cover expenses of their contest for a seat in the Senate from Pennsylvania.

Lobby committee received testimony from Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, that he had sold maps prepared by the Tennessee River Improvement Association to the Union Carbide Co.

Senator Johnson, chairman of the commerce committee, advised Postmaster General Brown not to feel obliged to wait any longer in letting ocean mail contracts, after the committee failed to reach a vote on the White bills.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, requested that the Port of New York Authority be given an opportunity to rule in the sale of Government-owned piers at Hoboken.

HOUSE.

Met at 12 noon and adjourned at 4:55 to 12 noon today.

Representative Garner (Democrat), Texas, demanded that when the tariff bill comes back from the Senate it be considered on the floor of the House rather than in a conference committee.

Daniel C. Roper, former internal revenue commissioner, appeared before the judiciary committee and suggested that President Hoover call a council of governors and prominent citizens to work out a plan of prohibition observance.

Chairman Hawley, of the joint commission on internal revenue legislation, defended Secretary Mellon for the Treasury Department's methods of handling tax refunds.

Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Army chief of staff, appeared before the military committee declaring that awards and decorations for World War service should be "jealously guarded."

Representative Purnell (Republican), Indiana, introduced a bill incorporation an international society "uniting in fraternal bonds the men who served in the Philippines."

Representative Esterly (Republican), Pennsylvania, appeared before the library committee with five residents of Berks County, Pa., urging approval of his bill providing for the erection of a marker at Weiser Park commemorating the services of Conrad Weiser to the United States in prerevolutionary days.

POMERENE SCOFFS AT DOHENY'S STORY

CASH TRANSACTION HIT

Less than five months after he had heard a jury declare Albert B. Fall guilty of having accepted a bribe from him, Edward L. Doheny listened for four tense hours yesterday to himself being denounced and defended before the bar of justice.

Prosecution and defense counsel were making their final arguments before the nine men and three women who, before the week is out, will retire to themselves to decide whether the wealthy oil man bribed the former Interior Secretary.

Time and again the 73-year-old defendant had heard and told the story of that notorious lease to his company of the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve, on which the bribery charge is based. Yesterday he heard former Senator Atlee Pomerene, for the Government, witheringly proclaim that corruption had occurred.

Hogan Calls It Loan.

With equal vigor, Frank J. Hogan maintained in answer that the $100,000 which passed between Doheny and Fall in 1921 was a loan to an old friend. He belittled Pomerene's contentions, and had two hours remaining to complete his say when the day was done.

After Hogan finishes today, further arguments will be heard. Owen J. Roberts will repeat and emphasize and expand the Government's charge of bribery. The case may not reach the jury until tomorrow morning.

Pomerene told the jury yesterday that evidence before them showed Doheny and Fall conspired in connection with the lease as early as July 8, 1921, five months before Doheny is alleged to have paid Fall $100,000 for the lease he obtained a year later. He stressed that the money had been sent to Fall in cash instead of by check of draft, which would have furnished a record of the transaction.

Had $30,000,000 Cash.

"A loan?" he asked. "A bribe? Doheny, one of the great business men of the country, who openly boasts that on the day he sent $100,000 to Fall he had $30,000,000 in cash.

"Wouldn't it have been just as easy for Doheny to draw his check on one of those banks where he had the $30,000,000 in cash as to have his son draw the money and bring it to Washington?"

The prosecutor ridicules Doheny's contention that he bid on the contract to construct Pearl Harbor oil storage tanks, which contained a clause that resulted in Elk Hills being leased to Doheny's company because of patriotic purposes.

Mr. Hogan, jumping into the verbal battle as soon as Pomerene sat down, charged that the Government prosecutor had misrepresented facts.

"If this case is to be won by sneering at patriotism and sneering at men who served in the submarines during the war, I must admit defeat, for I will not sneer or whine," he declared.

He reviewed the acts of Doheny and Fall and told the jurors that there was nothing in the Government's evidence to show that there was any conspiracy.

Man Found Guilty In Profits Fraud

Emil Levsen, Former Big League Pitcher, Victim of Easy-Money Swindle.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, March 20 (A.P.).—George E. Huckins today was convicted of a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses from Emil Levsen, former major league baseball pitcher.

Huckins' trial was in connection with a business, the nature of which he declined to reveal, but which was reported to pay investors unusually high dividends. At the trial, which continued several days, it was testified this business was the sale of cigars, known to the trade as "seconds."

Several similar charges against Huckins and his father are pending. The elder Huckins is still in Wisconsin, where he and his son operated, fighting extradition. The verdict came 25 hours after the jury had retired. Defense attorneys said an appeal would be taken.

Northwest Cold Wave Halts Spring's Advance

St. Paul, March 20 (A.P.).—Subzero temperatures and snow halted spring's advance in the Northwest today with reports of precipitate drops in temperatures. Thief River Falls, Minn., recorded the lowest mark in the Northwest with 11 below, but Moorhead, Minn., was the champion lightning-change artist, registering a drop of from 60 degrees to zero in less than 24 hours.

Pipestone, in southern Minnesota, fought a return bout with winter as stiff northwest winds drove more than an inch of snow into that section. Several other southern Minnesota points also had snowfall during the night.

Trotzky Heart Attack Stirs Family's Alarm

Istanbul, March 20 (A.P.).—The family of Leon Trotzky, exiled Soviet leader, today expressed alarm at his condition, a serious heart attack having followed a recent attack of the grip.

Several physicians and nurses are attending the former Russian war lord in his villa on Prinkipo, an island in the Sea of Marmora, but his family says he needs a different climate and special medical treatment unavailable here.

Mechanical Engineers Hear Talk by Educator

Dr. Harvey N. Davis, president of the Stevens Institute of Technology, last night addressed the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the Cosmos Club. His topic was "Training Engineers."

Members of the students' branches of the society from George Washington and Catholic Universities, together with alumni of Stevens Institute were guests. Dr. Davis' address followed a dinner of the society.

Merchant Files in Bankruptcy.

Sidney B. Dannheiser, a merchant of 643 H street northeast, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a bankrupt. He lists liabilities of $4,166.21 and assets of $2,588.62. Attorney David Weiner appeared for the petitioner.

New Citizenship Parity Bill Drawn

House Measure Would Ban Women's Expatriation on Living Abroad.

(Associated Press.)

A revised bill to provide citizenship parity between men and women, designed to meet the desires expressed during hearings held on his recent proposal, was introduced yesterday by Representative Cable (Republican), Ohio.

In general, the newly introduced measure is similar to the old one. It was this bill upon which Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, testified regarding her own experience in facing an election contest because she had lost her citizenship by marrying a British army officer. She later was repatriated.

The revised bill would abolish expatriation for women because of residence abroad. It would put the native born woman on an equal basis with the native born man as to citizenship. Also would permit a woman who has married and lost her citizenship to return outside the immigration quota.

The new bill has the approval of the immigration committee and will be presented to the House as soon as Representative Cable completes his report on it.

Hawaiian Princess Asks Reno Divorce

Former German Submarine Commander Sued for Nonsupport.

Reno, Nev., March 20 (A.P.).—Royalty again is in the Reno divorce court, it was discovered today when the identity of Mrs. Helen Campbell Lambert, who filed suit for divorce against Andrew A. Lambert on February 19, became known.

Mrs. Lambert is Princess Kapiolani of the Hawaiian royal family, daughter of Prince David and Princess Abigail. Both parents are descendants of the two old families of Hawaii, from which have come the island's rulers for many generations.

The princess married Andrw A. Lambert, commander of a German submarine during the World War, at San Francisco, November 21, 1923. They have three children, a boy and two girls, and Mrs. Lambert's attorney said he anticipates a contest over the custody of the children. The divorce complaint charges failure to provide.

Report Stalin Has Quit Red Post Is Ridiculed

Moscow, March 20 (A.P.).—Reports published abroad that Joseph Stalin, secretary of the Communist party central committee, had been forced to resign were described by the official News Agency Tass today as ridiculous nonsense.

Berlin, March 20 (A.P.).—The newspaper Tempo today published rumors from Riga, Latvia, that Joseph Stalin, secretary of the central committee of the Communist party, had been deposed.

RICH TIPPLERS HIT BY DRY TESTIMONY

FIVE GIVE THEIR VIEWS

much time, he said, had been devoted by dry forces and the Government to enforcement, of the law and not enough to the education of the people to observance.

The American-born wealthy class was charged by Mrs. Martha Bensley Bruere, of New York, author and a social worker, with creating a market for illicit liquor. She said low wage earners created no demand for liquor.

The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union was placed on record as opposing all of the measures before the committee to repeal the eighteenth amendment by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, of Brooklyn, N. Y., its president. She declared that as long as the women retained their right of suffrage the eighteenth amendment would remain in the Constitution and that regardless of party affiliations they would continue to be "implacable foes of the liquor traffic."

The other two witnesses of the day were James L. Kennedy, of Greensburg, Pa., and Oliver W. Stewart, of Chicago, president of the Flying Squadron Poundation.

Mr. Kennedy advocated observance of the prohibition law on the ground that it "reserved protection by the citizens as long as it was a law."

Mr. Stewart said more than half the population of the United States would oppose any measure to repeal or modify the dry laws sent to the House by the judiciary committee.

Autos Are Scored.

The committee also received a statement from Mrs. Nellie Burger, of Springfield, Mo., president of the Missouri Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in which she declared that prohibition had brought "relief to hundreds of families who never before knew anything but grinding poverty." She added that prohibition had not been the cause of crime increase, but attributed it to automobiles and firearms. "When wet advocates offer a better solution for handling liquor trafficking than prohibition, she said, she would consider it.

At the outset of the hearings, Mrs. Lenna Lowe Yost, a member of the legislative committee of the National Association of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, read a telegram from her brother-in-law, Fielding H. ("Hurry Up") Yost, coach at the University of Michigan, in which he expressed the opinion that the college youth of America was not drinking as much as in preprohibition days.

The telegram said that the Government had tried to regulate liquor and had made a "miserable failure of it," and added that it was unfortunate "that certain people of standing, by example, furnish a leadership to youth in law violations."

The committee received several other communications and adjourned the hearings until next Wednesday, when the dry forces will resume presentation of witnesses. Chairman Graham announced that the drys had indicated they desired several more days before the committee.

Conference Is Suggested.

Roper reviewed the history of the rise and fall of the liquor dispensary system in South Carolina, saying it had "degenerated into a graft and political machine" and had been accompanied by an increase in the consumption of liquor until the people of that State became disgusted and discharged it.

As one means of bringing about better enforcement, he suggested that judges and enforcement officials confer, to determine how best to obtain observance. An exchange of ideas between Government officials, citizens and wet and dry advocates was needed, he said, in deploring a lack of what he described as sound suggestions from both sides of the prohibition controversy.

Mrs. Bruere said she had directed a nation-wide study for the National Federation of Settlements to ascertain what were the circumstances around the lower wage earning group due to prohibition. The study showed, she said, that while immigrants and those of recent foreign extraction manufactured liquor in urban districts, the market was created by what she terms the "wealthier American-born" who were the offspring of the earlier settlers.

Speaking for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Boole assailed the purchasers of liquor.

"The bootlegger is blamed and is blameworthy for violating the law," she said. "He could not exist if people did not buy his liquor, neither could he exist if only the criminal classes patronized him. It is the rich, the influential, who still believe in moderate drinking—those who claim the right to violate the law, who lead the way and are supported by the unthinking and lawless."

EIGHT JURORS CHOSE FOR INDIAN'S TRIAL

Murder Case May Adjourn for Several Days on Defense Request.

NEW NOTE DISCOVERED

Buffalo, N. Y., March 20 (A.P.).—The second day of Lila Jimerson's trial as an accomplice in the murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand closed today with eight jurors in the box. Should the jury be complete by midday tomorrow, attorneys said, the State might accede to a request from the defense for adjournment until early next week.

The State charges that Miss Jimerson, 35-year-old Indian, by witchery and the use of an ouija board, induced an aged member of her tribe, Nancy Bowen, to slay the wife of Henri Marchand, an artist famous for his depiction of Indian life. Lila's infatuation for Marchand caused a desire to get the artist's wife out of the way, the prosecution charges.

A long parade of talesmen today produced six jurors to add to the two selected yesterday. Sixty-three talesmen were refused by the State on the basis of their answers to the rigorous questioning of both defense and prosecution.

Another letter came into the case this afternoon. Written in the Seneca dialect, its writer and consignee both were unknown by the defense counsel and its text, even when translated, was almost as obscure. The letter was one of several found Wednesday in Lila's cabin on the Cattaraugus Reservation, but not translated until today.

The translation read in part: "Grandmother took good luck and lots of hard times and then will tell you not going to get it. And then there is lots of sickness always among the Long House people because it is so they were standing up for not learning. Circumstances show that it is not well with the witches, so they help themselves. So keep on trying. May be you have to cook a meal for the spooks but we will see."

FAMILY OF THREE WIPED OUT IN FIRE

Another Man Is Killed and Eight Hurt in $250,000 Blaze at Knoxville.

FOUR BUILDINGS LOST

Knoxville, Tenn., March 20 (A.P.).—A family of three was burned to death, another man was killed and eight persons were injured in a fire which swept a section of Knoxville's principal business district early today. Four buildings were destroyed and several others partially burned, with property damage estimated by W. P. Chandler, director of public safety, at $250,000 or more. The cause of the fire had not been determined.

Three bodies dug from the ruins of the Arcade Building were identified by police as those of Sylvester Wilkerson, former United States Army sergeant, about 40; his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Sally Wilkerson, 34, and her son by a former marriage, Arthur Sharp, 16.

Carl Melcher, 59, a dealer in barber supplies, died from burns received as he tried to enter his flaming store. Police and physicians, after examining his burns, decided he had stumbled over fallen electric power lines and had plunged into the flames.

A score of other persons, caught in apartments on the second and third floors of the Arcade Building, where the fire started, escaped by jumping, climbing down pipes and power line poles and by fire escapes. Six of these were injured, but only one, Miss Rachel Godwin, 40, suffered severely from shock. Two firemen also received minor injuries.

Chandler said tonight he was inclined to accept the theory that leaking gas either exploded after fire started from some other source or was in some manner ignited, causing an explosion which sent flames shooting into buildings adjoining the Arcade. Gas company officials said this was highly improbable.

Other structures destroyed were the four-story National Building, the Mynatt Building, also four stories, and a small building adjoining the Arcade. Both Western Union and Postal Telegraph lines were damaged, but service was soon resumed. The city's traffic light system also was out of order several hours because of burned power lines.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

At last there comes an answer, clear as the light of opalescent dawn, to the hitherto bewildering query:

Why does a Democratic senator, after proclaiming that high-tariff protection is an affront to the high gods and the low brows, vote for a towering duty on an article produced by his own State?

His excuse evidently is the same as that of the lady who, standing trial in Pennsylvania for shooting a policeman to death, engagingly buttresses her defense with the statement that she was the victim of "an irresistible impulse to rob."

This "irresistible impulse" plea is another gem in the crown of the law's technicalities. And now that it is taken seriously, we may look forward with confidence to a national life characterized by an ample supply of alibis.

In the past the impulse, whether it wrecked a political campaign or ruined a private citizen's reputation, has been distinctly belittled and scorned. Nobody but a child and occasionally a prima donna or a baseball player was supposed to be swayed by impulsiveness.

Now, however, when it is irresistible, the impulse is the Big Shot. Who can criticize a senator's otherwise inexplicable flipflop on the tariff when the helpless statesman is picked up bodily by an impulse which binds him hand and foot and drops him, a complacent but pliable figure, into the camp of his erstwhile political enemies?

Why condemn him any more than a penniless woman who, bitten by poverty and mortified by lack of the latest millinery, surrenders to an irresistible impulse to loot, pillage and lift?

Who, in fact, can denounce anybody for doing anything when in the fell clutches of such overwhelming power as a full-grown impulse all armed and equipped to sweep everything before it?

Somebody may foolishly argue that an impulse to vote on a bill is generated by the voice of constituents and that a politician, through long study of the phenomenon, should know how to prevent its becoming irresistible unless it is loaded with the dynamite of expediency, the only explosive powerful enough to enable a statesman to rise above principle.

* * * *

MERE juggling with words! The mere fact that a coalition senator did not resist the impulse to cease coalescing on this or that schedule is irrefutable proof that it was irresistible!

What could be plainer? There are statesmen, as there are ladies, who can resist anything but an irresistible impulse!

What, then, can be done about it? It has been suggested that Congress, itself smitten by impulses, might create a commission to find out how to choke the things to death before they become irresistible.

duties on hides while the duties on shoes would have cost $148,000,000.

It was the last big rate item in the bill to be considered by the Senate before the measure goes to conference. Leaders expressed the belief that it would be passed by Saturday and a recess taken for a week.

Earlier in the day the celebrated trade on oil, sugar and lumber was consummated, except that, of course, in the publicity that attended it the oil people were left holding the bag.

Duty Put on Soft Lumber.

By a vote of 39 to 38, a duty of $1.50 a thousand board feet was placed on soft lumber. It will perhaps never be explained satisfactorily why the Democrats could not have stopped this rate. Two of them, Hawes and Sheppard, who had previously voted against the lumber rate, switched, and Copeland, who did not vote before, also voted in favor of the levy. Hawes explained that he had received all sorts of letters from his State.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, came in from the cloakroom after the roll had been called and voted "nay," so that it can not be thrown up to him that he was a part of the deal, and then Senator Blease, of South Carolina, whom it is understood the lumber people were holding in reserve if needed, also came in and voted "nay."

The great mystery, however, was what became of Senator Heflin. He was not present. His explanation to fellow senators later was that he just had to go to the Veterans' Bureau to see about a veteran constituent of his but just why there could not have been a transfer of pairs which would have given the opposition another vote went unexplained.

Pairs Could Have Been Changed.

If Senator Heflin was still against the lumber duty as he was when the matter first came up there were any number of senators who were paired who could have switched their pairs to him, leaving any one of them free to vote.

The coalition made a little rally in the late afternoon, though, when it put across Senator Norris' amendment providing that whenever a monopoly is established on any commodity the tariff shall be removed.

In connection with the lumber rate the Senate voted down, 38 to 32, an amendment by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, which would have placed all soft woods on a reciprocity basis between this country and Canada, but Senator Jones, author of the lumber levy, accepted a proposal by Senator Copeland to exempt rough soft wood lumber coming from Canada and Mexico so long as those countries did not levy against this type of lumber from this country.

The Pine amendment, calling for a duty of 40 cents a barrel on crude oil and 20 per cent ad valorem on gasoline and other by-products, which had been defeated yesterday afternoon by a vote of 32 to 28, was revived last night and again defeated without a record vote. However, it was agreed that a record vote would be had at noon today without further debate.

1,000-Gallon Still Nabbed by Police

10,000 Gallons of Mash Is Seized and Three Are Arrested.

Police of the Second and Twelfth Precincts seized 10,000 gallons of mash and a 1,000-gallon still in a raid early yesterday on a dwelling in S street near Third street northeast.

Charged with the manufacture and possession of whisky, John Gotzinger, 48 years old, of Branchville, Md.; George Nekolou, 40 years old, of Branchville, Md., and Frank Henry Ippolito, 28 years old, of H street near First street northeast, were arrested by the raiders. Each was held in $2,500 bond.

The raiders were led by Capt. O. T. Davis of the Second Precinct. Others who participated were Sergt. J. Y. Wittstatt and Policeman J. A. Hunt of the Second Precinct, and Policemen Watson Saikeld, C. D. Poole, J. J. Donovan and H. L. Traux of the Twelfth Precinct.

Sulpician Will Address Taney Law School Class

The Taney Law Club of Columbus University, 1314 Massachusetts avenue northwest, will be addressed this evening by the Rev. Theodore M. Hemelt of the Sulpician House of Studies, Catholic University. His subject will be "The Difference Between Canon and Civil Law."

The public is invited to attend the lecture. Several members of the club are scheduled to read papers on various legal subjects. William A. Roberts, senior attorney examiner in the Interstate Commerce Commission, is the faculty adviser of the Taney Law Club. The meeting will start at 8:10 o'clock.

MAN TRIED TO BURN GIRL ALIVE, CHARGE

Texan Held as She Is Saved After Being Tied to Bed Which Was Set Afire.

FACED FORGERY HEARING

Fairfield, Tex., March 20 (A.P.).—Alleged to have been tied to a bed which was set afire, Miss Wilma Jones was rescued from her smoke-filled hotel room here early today and a few hours later G. S. Moore, prominent business man of Oakwood, was arrested charged with assault with intent to murder.

Hotel guests who rushed to the girl's room, attracted by the smoke, found the bed in flames, but Miss Jones had rolled off it in time to escape being burned. Her feet are alleged to have been tied to the bed with a lace curtain stripped from a window. She did not suffer greatly from the experience.

Miss Jones, 23 years old, brunette, 5 feet tall and 100 pounds in weight, came here yesterday to answer charges of forgery in connection with the attempted cashing of a $250 check bearing the purported signature of Moore, ginner, druggist and land owner, married and the father of one child.

Collapses in Hotel.

She collapsed in the Freestone County Courthouse and was taken to the Cook Hotel, where she was treated by a physician. The attack occurred around midnight and a few hours later Moore was arrested at his home at Oakwood. Officers reported they pursued an automobile toward Oakwood shortly after the alleged attempt to burn Miss Jones but were outdistanced.

Moore denied any connection with the fire. Taken to Groesbeck in Limestone County, adjoining Freestone County, because Freestone is without a county judge, Moore was released on $1,000 bond at a hearing at which no evidence was presented. Bond was set at the suggestion of the district attorney. The charge was filed against Moore by W. V. Geppert, county attorney.

Miss Jones was described as the housekeeper for her father and one brother at their home in Buffalo, Leon County. Buffalo and Oakwood are stations on the International & Great Northern Railway 10 miles apart.

Returned After Collapse.

Mrs. Joe Green, proprietress of the Cook Hotel, said that Miss Jones registered early yesterday, went to the courthouse and was brought back after she had collapsed and was put to bed. There was nothing untoward noticed until other guests were aroused by smoke issuing from Miss Jones' room.

Gov. Moody offered a reward of $250 for the apprehension of the assailant and ordered two Texas Rangers here from Austin to investigate the case.

Fairfield is a town of about 1,200 persons. It is 20 miles from a railroad and without telegraph facilities. Freestone County, of which it is the seat, is largely agricultural and has a population of 25 to the square mile.

Mice Gnaw Trees When Needing Food

Heavy Damage Suffered by Farmers When Winter Is Severe.

Special to The Washington Post.

St. Louis, March 20.—Rabbits and field mice damaged shrubbery and young trees throughout Missouri in the unusual winter periods of ice and snow, H. L. Seaton, St. Louis County assistant farm agent assigned to horticultural crops, has announced.

The bark of trees up to 6 years old, without special protection, was stripped off to a height of 18 or 20 inches when snow prevented their feeding on other vegetation, he reported. He said it was impossible to estimate the extent of the damage, but that he found it "everywhere," especially serious near a ravine or woods where rabbits were numerous. Without bark, of course, the sap can not rise, and the trees die.

For prevention, he suggested a commonly used device, a loose girdle comprising one thickness of 20-inch wire mesh, placed at the base of the young tree when planted and left until the tree is five or six years old. "Bridge grafts" were Seaton's suggestion for treating trees which have been girdled. The wound is pared clean and bridged by year-old twigs 1½ to 2 inches apart, to conduct the sap. Grafting wax seals the connection between the twigs and the edges of the bark, and the whole graft is painted over with white lead.

Papers Halt Crime, Ex-Criminal Says

Publication Best Preventive of Criminal Acts on Population.

Special to The Washington Post.

Toledo, March 20.—Publication of crime news by newspapers is the best method of preventing crime, Robert W. Fenton, Chicago, reformed criminal, declared in a speech here. He based his assertions on actual experiences, he said.

He declared the newspaper is more effective in driving out criminals than the city police.

When a "mob" wants to plunder a town their fear is only of the local newspapers.

During his 23 years as a pickpocket Fenton said he stole property worth $350,000. On one occasion he picked a man's pocket of $10,000 in Quebec while the present King and Queen of England were visiting there, he said.

Only a small part of the stolen money was kept, for after arrest the demands of professional "leeches" for "fixing" were exorbitant. During his career as a pickpocket Fenton spent nine years in prison.

ville jail," he had decided to end his life. This note, however, did not explain the woman's death. No bullet wound was found in her body and no weapon could be found in the small store that might have been used to fracture her skull.

Coroner J. W. Simmons expressed the belief that Howerton had tried to loot the cash drawer of the $200 it contained and that Mrs. Stone drew a revolver and attempted to drive him away. Mr. Simmons further concluded that Howerton, finding that he had clubbed the woman to death, ended his own life. Howerton was released from Martinsville jail, where he served a short term, last Friday.

Kickless Steeds For "Dudes."

Helena, Mont., March 20 (A.P.).—Dude ranches are to have kickless steeds for their guests. Half-breed broncho-Arabian colts are replacing 1,000 or more saddle horses on a Glacier Park dude ranch. The Arab blood is designed to eliminate the Western pony's penchant for shying and bucking.

Midget Pair Is Accused In Brooklyn Burglary

New York, March 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Two Lilliputians, each weighing 90 pounds, who, police charge, because of their diminutive size, were able to crawl through anything larger than a keyhole, were arraigned today before Magistrate Hirshfield in Brooklyn and held by him for examination tomorrow on a charge of burglary.

Patrolman John Dondero was patrolling Church avenue, when he heard a tinkle of breaking glass at a drug store on the corner. He found a hole in the side window, but it did not look large enough for a man to pass through.

He investigated with his flashlight and saw a man standing at the till. He gave his name later as James McCauley, 33. Later the police arrested Leslie Hahr, 30, who, police say, had been named by McCauley as his companion in several Brooklyn burglaries.

LIEUT. VAN WINKLE REPORTS TO PRATT

Explains Her Letter, Criticizing Efficiency Bureau, Sent to Simmons.

CLOSE OF INCIDENT SEEN

Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, police lieutenant in charge of the Woman's Bureau and the House of Detention, yesterday completed her brief report in response to the query from Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, about the publicity attendant on Mrs. Van Winkle's sharp criticism of investigators of the United States Bureau of Efficiency.

Mrs. Van Winkle's criticism was contained in a letter she addressed recently to Representative Simmons, of Nebraska, chairman of the House District appropriations subcommittee. The letter was sent in response to criticisms of the conduct of the House of Detention made by Efficiency Bureau investigators and aroused the ire of Mr. Simmons and some other members of the committee with the result that the matter was referred to Maj. Pratt with a question as to whether he had approved Mrs. Van Winkle's letter.

The matter probably would have ended with Maj. Pratt's reply that he had not seen Mrs. Van Winkle's letter and agreed that communications from subordinates in departments to members of Congress should go through the heads of the departments. That principle, if followed generally by all subordinates and members of Congress as well, Maj. Pratt is understood to have said, would work for better understanding and cooperation all around.

Publication of Mrs. Van Winkle's critical letter in newspapers Wednesday, however, kept the matter open and resulted in a formal demand for an explanation from Mrs. Van Winkle. The request was briefly stated and made no effort to go into the merits of the criticisms expressed by Mrs. Van Winkle.

Her reply, which she would not make public but which she is to submit to Maj. Pratt today, is understood to be equally brief and is expected to meet the exigencies of the technicalities of the situation and bring the episode to an end. Mrs. Van Winkle has explained that her letter to Representative Simmons was in line with his invitation to her two years ago and was merely an offer of her services to aid him and the committee to get at the real facts regarding her work and could not be considered a formal communication from a responsible officer dealing with matters of departmental interest under consideration by the House subcommittee.

Representative Ketcham Will Address Citizens

Representative John C. Ketcham, of Michigan, and Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, will address the Glover Park Citizens Association in an open meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the Industrial Home School, Thirty-seventh street and Wisconsin avenue northwest.

A number of prominent persons have been invited as guests. H. Oden Lake, president of the association, will preside at the brief business session, to be followed by an entertainment and dance.

HAITI APPROVES ROY WITH WILD ACCLAIM

Temporary President Hears Cheers of Thousands After Election.

50,000 JOIN IN PARADE

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, March 20 (A.P.).—Amid scenes of intense enthusiasm an assembly of people's delegates today approved the choice of Eugene Roy as temporary president of Haiti.

Roy will take office May 15, when President Louis Borno's term expires. He will serve until legislative elections can be held next fall and the deputies and senators, in joint session, can elect a president.

After the vote was taken, with 34 ballots for Roy and one blank, the candidate was taken to the Parisiana Theater for a speech. Outside a crowd of several thousand cheered wildly, mingling shouts for Roy, for the republic, for President Hoover and for the Hoover commission which brought calm to Haiti's political situation.

After a brief talk, in which Roy pledged himself to carry out the plan of the Hoover commission and thanked President Borno for his cooperation, he was taken for a triumphal ride through the streets.

Some 50,000 people shouted exuberantly and joined the parade, with bands playing while shouts of "Vive Roy" and "Vive La Republique" were heard on all sides.

Haitians considered that today brought a rebirth of freedom, and they were happy to see delegates from all parts of the country approving the choice announced by the Hoover commission, which gave Haiti this new form of government and now has returned to the United States.

Roy, a dignified and elderly man who has the confidence of everyone, reiterated his desire to return to private life as soon as popular elections are held.

Plea of Relatives Gets Continuance

Three Charges of Assault Against Arone Are Postponed.

Three assault charges against George L. Arone, 55-year-old shoe salesman, were continued yesterday in Police Court by Judge John P. McMahon until April 3.

The continuance was granted on statements that relatives wanted the man examined at a local sanitarium. Arone was brought into the court by Bondsman Patrick O'Connor after Judge McMahon had ordered his appearance. Earlier in the day a physician told the court that the man was too ill to appear, but Judge McMahon refused to continue the case at that time.

Arone is specifically charged with assaulting Miss Virginia Lowe, 18 years old, of the Cordova Apartments; Miss Ethel Fagan, 18 years old, of 1933 Fourth street northeast, and Miss Bentley Noel. The girls allege that the man made improper advances when they answered advertisements for lingerie models.

Reduction in Tax Rate On Sewer Mains Urged

Reduction in the existing assessment rate of $3 a front foot for sewer mains will be considered at a meeting of the Board of Commissioners today on motion of Col. William B. Ladue, Engineer Commissioner, with indications that a reduced assessment may be established.

A reduction to $1.60 a front foot was urged by the Operative Builders Association at a recent hearing. J. B. Gordon, District sanitary engineer, has submitted figures to Col. Ladue showing that the present rate charged abutting property owners brings the District 93.5 per cent of the cost of new sewer mains laid, although the intent of the assessment law was to collect 50 per cent of the cost from abutting property owners. The proposed $1.60 rate will do this, it is estimated.

Woman Hurt in Auto Crash.

Ruth Royce, 25 years old, of 1910 K street northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital yesterday for bruises and shock suffered when a taxicab in which she was a passenger collided with another auto on K street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets northwest. The taxi was operated by Frank Feifer, of 302 Massachusetts avenue northwest, and the other car was driven by Charles J. Southworth, of 1361 Fairmount street northwest.

CAPONE REACHES WINTER HOME IN FLORIDA, PAPER ASSERTS

forcement officers of Miami and Miami Beach. A request was made by the sheriff for twenty Miami police officers to accompany deputies to the Capone home, but the request was not granted.

Frank H. Wharton, city manager, characterized the act as a "grandstand play," and said that he was not in favor of sending Miami police officers out of the city unless there was a riot and the actual need for them by the sheriff.

Home, Says Paper.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—The Jacksonville Journal today says that Al Capone is at his winter home in Miami.

The Chicago gang leader, despite attempts of Gov. Carlton and various sheriffs to prevent his visit to Florida, reached Miami late yesterday, the Journal declared.

Capone was recognized when he stopped his big automobile, bearing a Canadian license, at a filling station at Malabor, a small town on the east coast, near Melbourne, the newspaper continues.

Persons declared to have recognized the gangster were quoted as saying Capone entered the east coast city in a roundabout way in order to escape detection. A boy and a woman were in the automobile with him, the paper adds.

Information that Capone had reached Miami was said to have been brought to Jacksonville by a deputy from the office of Sheriff W. B. Cahoon. The deputy notified the sheriff's office this afternoon.

Plane Officials Silent.

Valley Stream, N. Y., March 20 (A.P.).—A 12-passenger trimotored plane which was reported to have been engaged by "Scarface Al" Capone, returned to Curtiss-Wright Field today from Camden, N. J., where it was taken Monday afternoon.

Employes of the flying field said "the people" who engaged the ship had been "unable to use it," but professed ignorance of the identity of "the people."

It had been reported that Capone was planning to fly in the ship to an unannounced destination.

2 Die, Woman Unhurt As Car Goes Over Bluff

Indianapolis, Ind., March 20 (A.P.).—The plunge of an automobile over a 40-foot bluff southwest of Indianapolis last night caused the death of two unidentified men, while Mrs. Ada Davenport, 25, had a narrow escape from death. The automobile failed to negotiate a curve where the road crosses a creek and plunged off the bank, to be caught by steel cables and left dangling in the air.

One man was decapitated and the body of the other was found in the creek. Mrs. Davenport was rescued from the car by passing motorists. She was not injured. Mrs. Davenport said she had never seen either of the men before she went riding with them last night.

SIX MONTHS METED TO DRUNKEN DRIVER

OTHER CASES SETTLED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

Stanley A. Jadlowie, a cook for the United States Radio Station at Arlington, Va., talked himself into a six months' jail sentence and a fine of $100 and costs for driving while drunk at yesterday morning's session of the Fairfax County Circuit Court.

Jadlowie was arrested last Sunday by Town Sergt. Walter Mitchell in Falls Church and indicted by the grand jury Monday. Jadlowie acted as his own counsel.

The testimony before the court yesterday was to the effect that Jadlowie had acted arrogantly at the time of his arrest and that he had driven a car through Falls Church at a high speed, almost running over several persons, who testified at the trial yesterday. His mad dash ended when the car he was driving ran off the road down a steep bank near the cemetery on Broad street. His demeanor and speech before the jr hearing the case were frowned upon by the court. At the conclusion of the case the jury reached the decision in a very short time and rendered a verdict of guilty and recommended the sentence imposed.

Clarence Allison, of Merrifield, pleaded guilty to a charge of petit larceny and was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 20 days in jail. He was indicted last November for stealing a quantity of meats belonging to H. H. Ankers at Merrifield.

Aubrey Wright, 23, and George W. Briscoe, 35, of Fredericksburg, Va., were arrested Wednesday evening by Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams, Deputy Sheriff W. A. Wheeler and Traffic Policeman A. W. Mills near Pohick on charges of transportation and possession of ardent spirits. They were given a preliminary hearing before Justice of Peace Harry Shephard at Accotink and held for the action of the grand jury. Yesterday morning Commonwealth Attorney Wilson M. Farr opened the case with a presentment to the court. They both entered a plea of guilty before Judge Smith, who fined them $50 and costs and a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail each.

Ernest Foasignone, of Washington, was arrested by Traffic Policeman Carl McIntosh and charged with unlawful parking on the Sleepy Hollow road. He was given a hearing by Justice of Peace John Dowden at Falls Church and fined $10 and costs.

Douglas S. Mackall, of McLean, was unanimously indorsed at a special meeting of the Fairfax County Bar Association for judge of the circuit court of the sixteenth judicial circuit to succeed Judge Howard W. Smith, when he resigns to conduct his campaign for Congress. Mr. Mackall has been an active attorney at the bar of Fairfax and other courts of this vicinity for many years.

A meeting of the Fairfax County Library Association was held in the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce rooms in Fairfax yesterday. There was an unusually large attendance from each of the six districts in the county. Mrs. M. D. Hall, president of the society, was in charge of the meeting.

Prof. J. Armond Stone, of Centerville, addressed the meeting, telling of his ideals and work toward the establishment of a free library in Fairfax County. He also stressed the good of a library to the community. The members discussed ways and means of financing the association.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws for the association. The members of the committee are Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, of Merrifield, chairman; Miss Edith Thompson, Mrs. H. N. Clarke and Mrs. James U. Kincheloe, of Fairfax, and Mrs. H. M. F. Palmer, of Legato. Mrs. Charles Babcock, of Vienna; Mrs. J. B. Davis, of Burke, and Mrs. M. M. Barnard, of Lorton, were appointed members of the finance committee. The membership and cards committee consists of Mrs. George Robey, chairman; Mrs. H. M. F. Palmer and Mrs. E. D. Vosbury. The association voted to make the dues of active members of the association $1 a year, contributing members $5 and sustaining members $25. Mrs. James U. Kincheloe, Mrs. H. N. Clarke and Miss Edith Thompson were appointed a reading committee to select the books that will be placed in the library for use.

It was also voted to begin work on refinishing the room in the old clerk's office building, which is to be used as the library, immediately, and to catalogue the books that have been donated. The association meets next on Thursday, April 3.

The following decisions have been rendered by Judgee Howard Smith in the civil cases at the March term of the Fairfax circuit court:

Howard H. England was granted a judgment of $3,200 against T. J. Linton, of Burke, Va., on a nontaxable note, with 15 per cent attorney's fees and interest from April 1, 1927.

Jacob Scheffel was found to be the only surviving voting member of the religious congregation of the Lutheran Trinity Church of Herndon and the trustees of the church are now dead. The court authorized him to sell the lot and building of the church in the town of Herndon as the congregation had been disbanded for ten years. In accordance with the State law one or more members of such congregation are allowed to sell the property. Mr. Scheffel states in his petition that he will sell the property to M. T. Wilkins, of Herndon for $75 and pay the debt of the church, amounting to $37.62, to the eastern district Evangelical Lutheran Synod, of Missouri, Ohio, and other States.

The court ordered a coupe belonging to E. B. Carr and another belonging to Ord Bush, seized for violation of the State prohibition law and sold at public auction.

Cora I. Tyler, guardian of Doris B. Tyler, 5 years old, was granted authority to use $20 a month out of the principal of the estate for the support and maintenance of the child.

Dr. W. Clyde submitted his resignation as physician to the Ivakota Farm and Dr. W. L. Schaffer was appointed by the court to the position.

Shannon & Luchs, Inc., of Washington, was given a judgment against L. C. Painter in the amount of $287.50, with interest from January 16, 1929. In the suit of the Harrisonburg Grocery Co., against L. C. Painter, the court rendered a verdict for the defendant and the suit was dismissed at the grocery company's cost.

The court granted John A. and Ida I. Ashby permission to adopt Dorothy Jeane Reese, an infant in the care of the Children's Home Society of Virginia, as their legal child, with permission to change her name to Dorothy Louise Ashby.

Permission to sell soft drinks was granted to W. H. Scott, of Engelside, Va.

The study class of the Women's Auxiliary of the Zion Episcopal Church, at Fairfax, will meet next Tuesday at the home of Miss Ida H. Jones, in Fairfax, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Liquor Car Suspects Fire Upon Pursuing Policeman

Marylander Narrowly Escapes Injury When Chasing Two Autos.

Fired upon at close range by suspected rumrunners streaking along the Colesville pike, Corp. Roy Snyder, 28 years old, attached to the Silver Spring substation of the Maryland State police, narrowly escaped injury early last night in a wild gunfire chase near White Oak, Md., about 12 miles from Silver Spring.

Observing two machines speeding close together along the road, one of which he recognized as the car of an alleged bootlegger, Corp. Snyder gave chase in a police automobile and succeeded in approaching to within a few yards of the second car, occupied by two men who, the policeman said, he assumed to be guards for the suspected rum-laden vehicle.

The latter machine raced along in the middle of the road, attempting both to outdistance the police car and to block Corp. Snyder if he outdistanced them. The policeman fired his revolver at the rear fender. At the same moment, one of the pair in the car ahead whipped out a sawed-off shotgun and peppered the radiator and headlights of Corp. Snyder's machine.

The policeman, narrowly escaping injury, jammed off brakes to avoid careening in the semidarkness off the road. The two other machines quickly disappeared, and while police sent out a hasty lookout to block all roads in the vicinity, no trace of either car was found. A check of license plate records revealed the tags on the second car as dead.

Dr. John A. Tyree Dies at Danville

Well-Known Specialist, in Bad Health for Twelve Years, Succumbs.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 20.—Dr. John A. Tyree, well-known Virginia specialist, died at his home here today following a collapse which he suffered early in January. He was 43 years of age and had been in declining health for twelve years, though he carried on his professional activities until early this year.

He was a native of Danville, being a son of the late David Tyree. Educated in Danville, he took his medical degree at Richmond Medical College and served two years as an interne at Johnson Willys Hospital at Richmond. He practised at Blackstone, also at Page, W. Va., going from there to New York where he was identified with Bellevue Hospital for several years, devoting himself to eye, ear, nose and throat maladies. He came to Danville eight years ago.

His widow, formerly Miss Nannie Kelley, six children and two sisters survive him.

Hit-and-Run Driver Nabbed by Major

Trial Reveals How Army Man Chased and Caught Fleeing Car.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 20.—How a major of the United States Army gave chase and captured a hit-and-run driver after his own car had been damaged in collision, was revealed here today at the trial of Frederick C. Greenwood, of Bethesda, Md. The officer is Maj. Julian S. Hatcher who was en route from Washington to Annapolis to visit his family.

Greenwood, who was accompanied by his wife, was bound for Washington, it was testified; Maj. Hatcher was alone. The collision occurred on the Defense highway, 4 miles from Annapolis.

In the collision, Greenwood's car crowded that of the officer off the road and the Bethesda man continued on his way. The fender and the running board of the major's car was badly damaged. Righting it he gave chase and overtook Greenwood after a short distance, and forced him to stop, according to testimony.

Going to a nearby residence, Maj. Hatcher summoned State Patrolman James O. Shockley from Annapolis, who arrested Greenwood for driving while intoxicated, reckless driving and failing to render assistance after a crash, for which he was assessed fines amounting to $130 and costs by Police Justice Louis M. Hopkins.

Virginia Planning Russians' Colony

100 Families to Settle in Prince George County and Study Farming.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 20.—Plans are being completed for the colonization of 100 Russian families near Burrowsville, Prince George County. "Bonnacord Farm," the old plantation of the Hargrave family in that county, has been purchase to begin the development of this new community. The purchase was made by the Rev. T. V. Pennznik, of Moundsville, W. Va., who was sent here by a mission from his church to select a suitable site.

Under present plans the old plantation will be used for demonstration purposes to teach the settlers correct farming methods.

It is not planned to bring in all families at one time, but to bring them in gradually to this section as farms and systems of farming are built up so they can make a living in this section. In selecting this old plantation, Mr. Pennznik feels that the 1,000 acres offer an area that will develop into a valuable live stock and poultry center, since it is well watered and is suitable for developing pasture lands.

Teachers College Birthday Observed

Graduate School Dean Lauds Individualism of Virginians.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 20.—Founders' Day, commemorating the twenty-second anniversary of the founding of the Harrisonburg State Teachers College, was observed today at the local institution with impressive ceremonies. Dr. John Calvin Metcalf, dean of the graduate school of the University of Virginia, in the address of the occasion, stressed the power of "individualism" in the molding of "this great Nation of ours."

He paid tribute to the "individualism" of the early Virginians who became dominant figures in the creation of the Nation, saying that the contributions had made possible its founding.

A silver case was presented as a memorial to four deceased faculty members by Miss Eleanor Beatrice Marable, of Prince Georges County, the first student to enroll in the State Normal School in the fall of 1909. Twenty-two years ago today th bill creating the local institution was passed by the Virginia General Assembly.

Popular Barber Of Staunton Dies

Ernest Nothnagel Served Many Notables During His Lifetime.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., March 20.—Ernest Nothnagel, 78, veteran barber, who numbered among his customers John Wilkes Booth, Buffalo Bill and a dozen other notables in American history, died suddenly here at his home yesterday afternoon.

The funeral was held at Christ Lutheran Church this afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Charles M. Teufel, his pastor, and burial was in Thornrose Cemetery.

Mr. Nothnagel was a native of Hilburghausen, Dukedom of Saxony, now part of the German republic. He came to the United States in 1866, at the age of 16, and for several years was employed in various barber shops in Baltimore. It was while in that city that he served Booth. In 1877 Mr. Nothnagel married Miss Mary E. Pforr, who died in 1920.

Rites for Mrs. R. F. Hardy.

Danville, Va., April 19 (Special).—Funeral services were held near here today for Mrs. R. F. Hardy, 65, who died suddenly at her home near here yesterday. She was suddenly stricken a few hours after rising and died before a doctor reached her. She is survived by nine children.

REAR ADMIRAL DIES IN NAVAL HOSPITAL

Walter L. McLean, Senior Aid to Dewey at Manila, Succumbs at 74.

BURIAL AT ARLINGTON

Rear Admiral Walter L. McLean, 74 years old, U. S. N., retired, senior aid to Admiral Dewey at the Battle of Manila and who commanded the naval base at Hampton Roads, Va., during the World War, died yesterday in Naval Hospital at Annapolis. Services will be held Saturday.

Full military honors will mark the services which will be held from the Naval Academy Chapel at 11 o'clock. At Arlington Cemetery there will be a guard of honor at the Fort Myer gate as the body is transferred to a caisson. Burial services will be conducted by Capt. Sydney K. Evans, of Washington, chief of the Chaplain Corps of the Navy.

Admiral McLean's death was due to a complication of ailments. He was born in Elizabeth, N. J., in 1855, entered the Naval Academy in 1872 and was graduated in 1876. His 47 years of active service included service in wooden sailing vessels, down through the years to development of modern fighting machines.

At one time he was on the Constitution, "Old Ironsides." He served in this city as a member of examining and retiring boards. At one time he commanded the Fifth Naval district and was in charge of operations at Norfolk, Va., during the World War.

He was promoted to the grade of rear admiral in 1914 and was retired in 1919. He had made his home at Annapolis for the past two years. In addition to his widow, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Paul Paterson, of Baltimore, and a brother, Judge Donald McLean, of New York.

He was a member of the Army and Navy Club and the Chevy Chase Club.

DR. G. H. CHEWNING DIES.

Grandfather of Margo Couzens' Husband Expires in Fredericksburg.

Dr. George Heusler Chewning, 84-year-old physician of Fredericksburg, Va., and grandfather of William Jeffries Chewning, jr., who recently married Miss Margo Couzens, the daughter of Senator Couzens, died at his home early yesterday.

Dr. Chewning was formerly dean of the Physicians and Surgeons College at Baltimore. Later he took up the practice of medicine in Fredericksburg, where he lived for 50 years.

Surviving him are his son, Dr. William J. Chewning, of Fredericksburg; a daughter, Agnes E. Chewning, also of Fredericksburg, and William J. Chewning, jr. He was a well-known Mason, having been master of the Fredericksburg Lodge. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

FIRST DAY OF SPRING TO BRING CHILL WIND

of the earth is at right angles to the direction of the sun, the occasion being one of two times each year when day and night are of equal length the world over. The other occasion is the arrival of Autumnal Equinox on September 23, at 1:37 o'clock in the afternoon, which marks the beginning of fall.

Now, while Vernal Equinox is supposed to be the custodian of bright sun, cloudless skies, budding trees and blooming flowers, it is a contrary sort of customer, just as likely as not to fool all who place their faith in it.

Weather Bureau officials last night were certain that the arrival of old Vernal Equinox this morning would not "mean a thing" as far as warmer weather is concerned. It will be cold this afternoon and colder tonight, far from the springlike weather of recent days. Just how cold, the Weather Bureau was unwilling to predict, but it was not thought that additional alcohol would be needed for model A radiators.

With the cold will come fresh northwest winds and at the horticultural division of public buildings and grounds, officials will be hoping that the wind does not grow strong enough to interfere with the blossoming of Washington's famous Japanese cherry blossoms in Potomac Park.

Unless extremely cold or windy weather holds sway before that date the blossoms will flower by April 1, according to Charles Henlock, chief of the horticultural division. That is to say, some 800 trees in west Potomac Park bearing single blossoms will be ready to lure their thousands of visitors on that date.

Two weeks later an equal number of double blossom trees in east Potomac Park are expected to bloom and to retain their soft tints of pink and greenish gold until about May 1.

There will be a note of sadness in the visits of many to see the cherry blossoms this year for the sight will bring to mind memories of the late William Howard Taft, former President. It was during his administration in 1911 that the first of these trees was planted by Mrs. Taft in the presence of the Japanese Ambassador.

Ohio Patrolman Slain By Bootlegger Suspect

Middletown, Ohio, March 20 (A.P.). One of two suspected bootleggers, whose automobile was halted by officers early today, shot and killed Patrolman Daniel Sandlin, 28.

The two men were permitted to get in their machine when they came out of a house and Sandlin and another patrolman followed in pursuit. A few blocks down the street the suspects' car was forced to the curb and Sandlin leaped out to question them. As he did so, one of the men opened fire and Sandlin fell with three bullet wounds in his abdomen. The slayer and his companion fled, abandoning their car.

ILLINOIS JUSTICE HAS 12-HOUR DAY

10 DAYS OFF IN 5 YEARS

After Sitting on Bench Judge De Young Toils Far Into Night.

Special to The Washington Post.

Chicago, March 19.—Twelve and a half hours a day form the customary working period of Justice Frederic R. De Young, of the Illinois Supreme Court.

Modestly and without complaint at its heaviness, Justice De Young told of his labor schedule in an interview.

"A man should be glad to devote all of his energies to it," he said.

The justice does not propose such long toiling for justices in courts which have jury trials; for instance, the Criminal Court of Cook County, the members of which, according to figures of the Chicago crime commission, devoted an average of three and a half hours to the bench and seven-elevenths of an hour to chambers in November. But in this connection he said:

"No well-informed person will contend that an average of three and one-half hours per day should constitute a day's work for a judge. It must be remembered, however, that during the course of a criminal trial a judge has many duties which are not performed on the bench. Certain motions, the hearing of evidence to determine the admissibility of confessions and the consideration of instructions to be given to the jury, for example, engage his attention in chambers. Hours may be devoted to these matters, and no record of his day's work is complete or accurate which fails to take account of them. My own experience in the Criminal Court six years ago convinces me that in a short time a judge can so arrange his calendar that he will occupy the bench an average of not less than five hours a day."

Has Offices in Chicago.

Justice De Young, who represents the County of Cook and four other counties on the State's highest tribunal, has his Chicago office on the tenth floor of the County Building. There he reads and studies trial records, writes opinions and passes upon motions during the 36 or 37 weeks of the year when the Supreme Court is not in session at Springfield.

He was busy with the first draft of an opinion when the reporter called upon him to learn what was his attitude toward judicial labor. Tall, square of jaw and frame, with a strong chin and thoughtful eyes, he sat at an orderly desk, stacks of law books about him.

"Would you mind telling what makes a typical working day for you?" the reporter asked. It was not an embarrassing question to Justice De Young. He replied:

"I get down about 9 in the morning and work here until 6:30, except for about an hour for lunch. At home I usually work from 8 to 12 at night."

"That is your usual program?"

"Yes."

"And vacations?"

Has No Time for Parties.

He smiled slightly before he answered:

"With the exception of time lost by illness I have taken only ten days off in the five and a half years I have been a member of the supreme court."

"There can't have been much time for such things as social functions?"

"They have been seldom. For example, I believe that I haven't gone to more than three shows during my time with this court."

"When court is in session in Springfield is your program much different?"

"I arise at about 7 in my quarters at the Supreme Court Building, and, after breakfast at a hotel, am back at my room by about 8:15. I work then until time to go to court at 9, together with the other judges. We are in session from 9 to 12 and from 2 to 5—six hours on the bench or in the conference room. Also we usually do about a hour of work during the luncheon period and another between 5 and 6. Justice Frank K. Dunn's room is near mine and I know that at night his schedule is from 7 or 8 to 12, as is mine."

That program continues six days a week, he explained. Justice De Young's typical Chicago day is twelve and a half hours. At Springfield it is at least as long.

New British Diplomat Waits on Stimson Aid

(Associated Press.)

Sir Ronald Lindsay, new British Ambassador to the United States, was kept waiting fifteen minutes yesterday for his initial call on Acting Secretary Cotton of the State Department by a conference to which President Hoover called Mr. Cotton slightly before 4 o'clock.

When Mr. Cotton and Ambassador Lindsay met in the Secretary of State's office they shook hands cordially and at once fell into easy conversation. Afterward both posed for newspaper photographers.

regulations, and any abuses of the privilege should be reported by the State Department to the home country of the offender.

"It is surely to the interest of the diplomats to maintain the most cordial relations between the citizens of the District and the United States and themselves and no country wishes to keep a representative here who incurs the enmity of local authorities or citizens."

The Irish Minister declared, however, that he believed an exaggerated idea had been spread about by the police report that 37 representatives of foreign embassies or legations in Washington have been warned by policemen for "driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor, or other traffic violations" between July 1, 1916, and June 20, 1929. Most of these violations, he said, were of a minor character, whereas the impression given is that they were largely for drunken driving. Moreover, the offenders were chiefly minor members of the legations or embassies involved, he added.

Mr. MacWhite said that he thought it wise that every motorist, including diplomats, carry liability insurance so that the injured party would always be protected financially. He cited instances in which foreign ambassadors or ministers have suffered damage to their cars for which they could not recover because the driver of the other auto had neither money nor insurance.

Several months ago Mr. MacWhite was injured at Dupont Circle by a hit-and-run driver whose identity is as yet unknown to police.

Washington inhabitants, as stated in your letter, because some hundred diplomats drive their cars, that danger would be dreadful for the diplomats considering that they may also be run over by some 300,000 drivers in this Capital. We must assume obviously that if this deplorable condition should present itself all of the Washington dwellers would also receive the amiable letter with which the chiefs of diplomatic missions have been honored today.

"One thing you can be certain of, Mr. Editor, and that is that the undersigned as well as the whole staff of this legation will always do their best to respect and observe the traffic regulations and bear in mind the obligations and courtesies which hospitality obliges."

Dental Infirmary Urged in Capital

Support of Cosmopolitan Club in Project Asked by Col. Messner.

Support of a proposed dental infirmary here by the Cosmopolitan Club was asked at its weekly meeting yesterday at the Carlton Hotel by Col. Clinton T. Messner, chief dental surgeon, United States Public Health Service, as principal speaker. He was presented by Dr. G. Albert Smith, chairman of the organization's forum committee.

Col. Messner spoke of the progress of plans for an infirmary now being made by members of the dental profession here with a view to caring for the teeth of children whose parents are unable to pay for the necessary treatment.

He cited the successful operation of similar infirmaries in other cities, notably in Boston, where a survey revealed that every pupil who had attended grammar school continuously there through the eighth grade and received dental care had not lost a permanent tooth.

Safe Withstands Thugs' Attempt to Crack It

A safe in the Big Shoe Store, at 3131 M street northwest, withstood an attempt of yeggs to crack it yesterday. The robbery attempt was discovered by Emanuel M. Cable, manager, when he opened the store. The yeggs broke off the combination of the safe before giving the job up as a hopeless task.

Plumbing fixtures valued at $25 were stolen yesterday by thieves, who ransacked a vacant house at 415 L street northwest. The owner, John Oliver, of 11 Fourth street northwest, reported the robbery to the police.

Two Arrested in Raid On Private Residence

The vice squad under the direction of Detective Sergeant Oscar J. Letterman raided a private residence in L street near First street northeast late yesterday and seized three gallons of whisky, it reported.

The raiders arrested Israel Lindsey, colored, 36 years old and his wife, Mattie. Lindsey was held in $2,500 bail for sale and possession and his wife under $500 bond for possession of liquor.

Boy Seriously Hurt by Auto.

John Gallonzzo, 5 years old, of 959 Maryland avenue southwest, was seriously injured yesterday when he was struck by an auto operated by Lewis J. Bentley, of Alexandria, Va., at C street between Ninth and Tenth streets. The child was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where he was treated for contusions and a possible fracture of the skull.

Mission Society Presents Pageant

Baltimore Branch Holds Quarterly Meeting in Capital.

The second quarterly meeting of the Baltimore Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was held yesterday at the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, John Marshall place and C street northwest.

"Leaves for the Healing of the Nations," a pageant presented by more than 50 young women of the Washington District, depicting epochs of the society since organization, 60 years ago, was presented yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Everat Harvey, of Washington, foreign secretary, spoke of the work done by missionaries in the field; Miss Lulie Hooper, of Baltimore, the home secretary, gave a corresponding report on work done throughout the branch. A financial survey was read by the treasurer, Mrs. Daniel Ennis, of Baltimore. Mrs. Laura Wagner explained the extension work of the organization. Mrs. Foster Davis, of Baltimore, secretary of the young people's section, aided by seven girls, demonstrated work of the section. The noontide prayer and an address on Founders' Day were given by Mrs. H. E. Woolever.

Man Cuts Own Throat, Is Report to Police

Myer Brown, 58 years old, of 4202 Fourteenth street northwest, attempted suicide yesterday, police say, by slashing his throat with a knife in the grocery store of Abraham Tempchin on Fourteenth street northwest.

Brown was taken to the Garfield Hospital, where his condition is regarded as serious. Brown was employed by Tempchin to kill fowl according to Jewish rites.

WHEAT—THE BIG PROBLEM.

Chairman Legge, of the Federal Farm Board, predicts that the Stabilization Corporation will have on its hands at the end of the present season approximately 100,000,000 bushels of wheat. This grain will have been purchased for the purpose of sustaining the price level, in the hope that conditions next year will be such as to permit this surplus to be sold without loss to the Government. To this end, the board has requested growers to cooperate to the extent of a 10 per cent reduction in acreage. "If the growers cooperate," says Mr. Legge, "the Stabilization Corporation will be justified in paying storage charges and carrying this wheat for a time in the hope that a crop shortage somewhere in the world will give opportunity for unloading it; but if, on the other hand, the farmers' attitude is to let George do it all, the natural procedure would seem to be to dispose of this wheat as best it can be done, and write off the loss. But doing this would probably adversely affect the price of the 1930 crop."

Occasionally there have been short wheat years, but they have occurred so rarely that only the most persistent optimist would count upon a short year to solve the farm problem. Acreage curtailment, too, is an uncertain hope; and even if American farmers were to curtail to the extent of 10 per cent there is nothing to guarantee that foreign producers will not expand to meet this curtailment. The alternative is dumping, but since dumping would depress the general price level, it should be realized that the farm bloc in Congress, which mustered sufficient strength to enact the farm relief measure, would step in to prevent it. In addition, other nations will try to prevent the dumping of American wheat within their borders.

In Germany, for example, President Von Hindenburg, in a recent message to Chancellor Mueller, advanced the suggestion that industry should be compelled to turn over part of its revenues for farm relief, thereby establishing a certain equilibrium between agriculture and industry. The suggestion was made in behalf of Germany's eastern provinces, predominantly agricultural, which are suffering no less than the American farm States from depressed farm commodity prices. A few days later, Food Minister Dietrich completed negotiations with the governmental parties for new duties on agricultural products, enactment of which is regarded as assured. The duty on wheat is to be raised from 95 marks to 120 marks, and the government will be authorized to raise the rate still further in the event of an emergency, such as, for example, the throwing of huge quantities of grain now stored in America on the open market. The German government also is encouraging the conversion of rye acreage to wheat in the hope of improving the price of rye.

Germany does not intend to permit America to dump wheat within her borders, and she is encouraging her farmers to grow more wheat. What effect will this have in connection with the disposal of the Farm Board's holdings? What effect will it have on world production? What Germany is doing other nations are planning to do. If the proposed 10 per cent acreage curtailment materializes on American farms, it will stimulate expansion elsewhere. Then American farmers may suffer under the double handicap of a short crop and poor prices.

AMERICAN TOURIST TRADE.

Nothing could so eloquently illustrate the value of American tourist traffic to France as the appointment of a high commissioner of tourism in the new Tardieu cabinet. Housing, transporting and amusing American tourists have become an industry in France.

American tourists are known to spend approximately $750,000,000 abroad annually. Upward of $200,000,000 of this goes to French hotelmen, Parisian shops, government taxes, railways, and to dozens of other agencies equipped to handle the tourist traffic. Great Britain sends France four times as many tourists as does the United States, but little attention is paid to them because they spend very little. The office of high commissioner of tourism may be considered an official bid for more American travelers.

It is hinted, too, that there is special need for drastic action to keep the stream of tourists from being diverted into other countries. Germany has been beckoning to the peregrinating herd, using two new superliners as drawing cards and advertising extensively in America. Italy is awakening to the fabulous profits of the tourist industry. Last year there was a sharp decline in the number of American dollars spent in France, and since the tourist industry brings in an amount equal to one-third of the national budget the government finds it necessary to act.

It will be interesting to see what steps the new commissioner of tourism will take to encourage the traffic. Certainly he will replenish the stream of publicity, but this may have little effect in the United States this year unless it is accompanied by lower prices. Other European countries are drawing tourists away from France because of the increased prices demanded in Paris.

JAMES J. DAVIS.

The candidacy of James J. Davis for the United States Senate from Pennsylvania emphasizes the fact that the United States is as much as ever "the land of opportunity." Whether he wins or loses his fight for the Senate, Mr. Davis' career is such as to encourage young men, particularly immigrants, by showing that the gates of success are wide open to men of energy and character.

James J. Davis came to the United States from Wales when 8 years of age, his father having preceded him. Young Davis began to earn a living when 11 years old. He learned the trade of iron puddler, and eked out scanty schooling by home study. He has always been an enthusiastic trades unionist. One of his characteristics is a gift of fraternization and conciliation. He belongs to more fraternal orders than he can count. One of the secrets of his success as Secretary of Labor has been his wide acquaintance throughout the country.

Living in the principal industrial State, Mr. Davis is, of course, a protectionist. His standard of protection is as high as that of his rival, Senator Grundy. But, like Mr. Grundy, he does not confine his interest to Pennsylvania. They agree that protection is good for the South and West as well as the East. They also agree that agriculture and labor, as well as industry, is entitled to protection. The emphasis which Mr. Davis places upon protection to labor will not injure his cause in Pennsylvania.

As Secretary of Labor in the Cabinets of Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, Mr. Davis has gained a knowledge of governmental affairs that would be invaluable if he should be sent to the Senate. Naturally, he has been an adviser to the President in matters of general policy as well as chief adviser in labor matters.

The factions in the Republican party in Pennsylvania have not fully developed their plans, although it is known that Mr. Davis has the support of the Vare faction and that Senator Grundy is credited with the support of the Mellon faction. No one outside of the State could be expected to keep track of the wheels within wheels that make up the mechanism of Republicanism in Pennsylvania. It may be that the Mellon faction is not preparing to make a finish fight for Senator Grundy; certainly Secretary Mellon and Secretary Davis are not at outs. Mr. Davis is strong in Pittsburgh, his home, as well as in Philadelphia. Senator Grundy is known to be strong among industrial interests throughout the State.

The primary will decide between them, and as the primary goes the election will go. Pennsylvania is to have a stout protectionist senator as the colleague of Senator Reed.

NO DUTY ON OIL.

A determined majority in the Senate, recruited in almost equal numbers from the Republican and Democratic parties, kept oil on the free list. The caustic fight carried on by the independent producers since the previous vote was taken won them but two votes. A substantial majority stood out rigidly against more rapid exploitation of American oil resources.

Since the chief arguments for a tariff on oil were previously expounded, also exploded, the debate on Wednesday turned for the most part on charges of lobbying and countercharges of vote trading. By its action the Senate cleared itself of accusations of bartering away the Nation's petroleum reserves. Senators who resisted this attempt to put a premium on waste and uneconomical production are to be highly commended.

Congress has turned a deaf ear to but few industries that are actually in need of tariff protection. The oil industry is not one of them. Petroleum imports actually decreased last year, while the exports made alarming gains. There is no reason to believe that imports will materially increase with oil on the free list, and there is less reason to suppose that the distress of the independent producers could be remedied through the tariff bill. The importing companies have sufficient oil of their own in this country to supply their needs if imports from Venezuela and Mexico were cut off. It is not foreign competition, but an internal disease that is afflicting the oil industry.

Now that this theoretical panacea has been denied it is up to the oil-producing States to take the situation in hand. The industry is demoralized because of the scramble to turn every independently owned pool into immediate cash without regard to the economic waste entailed. While the States are parleying for advantage, one of the most precious resources of the country is being overexploited on an uneconomical basis. Let the independent producers who swooped down upon Washington now return home, and give their attention to State legislation that may be of some practical advantage.

THE POOR OLD EIGHTEENTH.

The Supreme Court is again asked to invalidate the eighteenth amendment. Counsel for an alleged bootlegger have found that the method of submitting the amendment to the States was irregular, and therefore pronounce it null and void. Their petition points out to the Supreme Court that in order to agree with them it will be necessary to reverse former decisions. But why should that interfere with this new interpretation of the Constitution?

When the House voted to submit the eighteenth amendment to the States, it is set forth, only 282 members answered in the affirmative. This is seven members short of two-thirds of the full membership of the House, and therefore, according to the reasoning of these attorneys, the proposed amendment was defeated. The argument is based on Article V of the Constitution providing that "Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution." Two-thirds of those present at the time the vote is taken, they say, is insufficient.

This attempt at rigid interpretation wholly ignores the provisions in Article I, section 5, to the effect that "a majority of each (house) shall constitute a quorum to do business." As a matter of practice many of the important decisions of Congress are made by a minority of the total membership. Items in the tariff bill are decided every few days by less than a majority of the Senate membership. A majority of those present is sufficient. The statesmen who drafted the Constitution realized that all members could not be present at all times, and very judiciously provided that business should be carried on with only a quorum present.

By a majority of those present Congress may levy taxes, put the Government in debt, coin money, regulate interstate commerce, raise and support armies and a navy, and declare war. It is ridiculous to say in the face of this general rule that a two-thirds of the entire membership is required to pass on the question whether a measure shall be submitted to the people for decision. Even in the vitally important matter of treaties, a vote of two-thirds of the senators present decides the issue.

This is the second scheme concocted this month to invalidate the eighteenth amendment. Snipers fire their legal arrows from all sides, with no other effect than to destroy each other's arguments. The wets will never accomplish anything while their ranks are divided and the drys "march all one way."

MONTGOMERY COUNTY POLITICS.

An investigation into the conduct of the affairs of Montgomery County will be undertaken by the grand jury. The investigation brings to a climax the bitter political strife that has prevailed for many months. Smouldering sometimes under the surface, but more frequently breaking forth in print, the warfare has reacted against the best interests of the county. Earlier in the week, the commissioners and Maj. E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, formally requested the grand jury to act. The investigation, whatever its outcome, should bring about peace.

Montgomery County is one of the wealthiest in the State of Maryland. Situated immediately contiguous to Washington, the beauty of the Capital should be reflected within its confines. Its development should be carefully guided. Political feuds should not be permitted to thwart its development. Torn asunder politically Montgomery County can not progress.

The grand jury that will conduct the investigation is representative of every election district in the county and of both political factions.

The Navy's star parachute jumper is critically injured in an automobile crash. He should have kept out of danger.

THE PHILIPPINE QUESTION

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

The value of Philippine imports into the United States is less than ¾ of 1 per cent of the farm income of this country. The number of farmers, including Mexican contract laborers and children, engaged in sugar production in the United States is but 1 per cent of the farm population of 30,000,000 people.

The coconut oil used in margarine, which is supposed to compete with butter, is less than ½ of 1 per cent of the butter output of the United States. The price of butter is usually around 20 cents a pound over that of margarine. Why compel people to use butter when they can not afford it?

Manila cigars represent less than 2 per cent of the cigars smoked in the United States. The value of Manila cigar imports is approximately equal to the total value of Philippine purchases of American cigarettes, wrapping and chewing tobacco, labels, smoking paraphernalia and the commission, insurance, financing and freight that we pay to American companies.

Manila fiber no more competes with the Kentucky or Wisconsin hemp than banana does with asparagus. Their uses are basically different and their intrinsic qualities are different. Philippine lumber is but one-third of the mahogany imports of the United States from foreign countries.

The favorable balance of the Philippines in merchandise trade is fully offset by our debits in the exchange of invisible items with the United States. Our imports of American manufactures are substantial, and more than half of the total overseas trade of the Philippines is carried in American bottoms.

The two countries have more points of economic harmony than conflict. Business necessity will counsel against the expansion of the Philippine sugar industry. Development in the future will be in those vital but neglected industries like rubber, quinine, camphor and others that are not produced in the mainland.

Of the 26 imported commodities called by the War Department "strategic raw materials," eight of the leading ones are either produced or are producible in the Philippines.

Replying to the assertions of Filipino political leaders that it is better to give up the American market now and absorb the economic shock that goes with it, I would say that to perform a major operation upon the anemic body economic of the Philippines now, against expert diagnosis and the advice of sincere friends, is suicide on the part of the Philippines and murder on the part of the United States. A stronger and more robust Philippines, which we are bound to be in the future if we raise more products and less hell, can stand the shock of a major operation less disastrously.

The United States and the Philippines should work out a well-balanced and mutually beneficial economic and political interdependence. The spirit of the age is interdependence and not absolute independence.

DEEP-SEA FISHING.

Search for new fishing grounds now takes trawlers far over the Arctic Circle, says the New York Times. In waters that once yielded rich harvests the catch has fallen off. Formerly a close season was never thought of; but such a provision is today embodied in treaties to preserve halibut. The Great Banks of Newfoundland are still sought by the French, as they were 300 years ago. Every year the ceremony of blessing the Britanny fleet is observed by high dignitaries of the church.

Fish are no longer so plentiful in the North Sea that it is only a question of casting nets. Herring used to be the commonest of fish, but some of the old grounds have gone barren. It has become necessary to scout in the Arctic. Last year the coasts of Bear Island, half way between Norway and Spitzbergen, were found to be an inexhaustible fish "mine." But the storms are frequent there. Trawlers did well last year on the bleak Murmansk coast between North Cape and Koguer Island, where ships of the British Naval Fishery Protection Service were on patrol. "The trend of deep-sea fishing," says a report, "seems more and more toward those forbidding waters where the permanent ice barrier fences in the North Pole."

Principles May Be Eternal, But Judges Change Their Minds

By ROBERT QUILLEN

In a certain land far away a man named Bill Jones owned a store and sold coffee and soap to the common people.

One day a stranger appeared and rented a vacant store room across the street.

A huge sign introduced him as manager of "The Cheap Chain Store, Inc.," and by nightfall he had captured all of Bill's customers.

Bill was licked, and suspected as much, but he consulted a lawyer to make sure.

"Why can't we drive out these city slickers?" he demanded. "Put a special tax on 'em or something like that."

"That would be class legislation," said the lawyer, "or vox populi ad valorum. Anyway, you can't lay a special tax on a special group."

"I'll show you," said Bill; and he closed his store and got himself elected to the State legislature and squeezed through a bill taxing chain stores out of existence.

Of course there was a great row and the new law was contested in the courts, but Bill's dander was up and he fought on and on until at last he appeared before the supreme judge to defend the law he had fathered.

"Your Honor," said he, "it's a simple measure to raise revenue to educate our children and support our relatives in office. It taxes every store one thousand bucks a year for the privilege of doing business."

"It's unconstitutional," said the judge. "It discriminates by exempting the man who has only one store."

"The income tax exempts little fellows," said Bill, "and you said that was fair and just. "What's the difference between exempting the first four thousand of income and exempting the first store?

"You're a fool," said the judge officially.

"It's the environment," said Bill. "But speaking of this law, it's a good revenue raiser because it penalizes success. The higher you go, the higher the rate. The first store is exempt; the second pays a thousand bucks, the third two thousand, the fourth four thousand, the fifth eight thousand, and so on."

"It's unconstitutional again," said the judge. "It's confiscatory."

"I got the idea from the income tax," said Bill, "and you gave that your blessing."

"Fifty dollars and costs," said the judge, "for contempt of court."

Moral: Any tax law is constitutional if it's necessary, but what is sauce for the goose isn't meant for the gander if he's a little gander.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MR. MUSSOLINI COMES BACK.

Publicity Agent (appearing in response to an imperious summons)—You sent for me, sir?

Mussolini—I'll say I sent for you! Where have you been for the past six or eight weeks?

Publicity Agent (a little embarrassed)—I've been right around the palace, sir.

Mussolini—I thought, of course, you were in Tibet or Afghanistan or some place. Now, just what's the idea?

Publicity Agent—Idea of what, sir?

Mussolini—The idea of letting me drop completely out of the picture! Have I retired without knowing it? Am I supposed to be playing dead or something? Am I dictator of Italy, or just a couple of other fellows?

Publicity Agent—I guess you're dictator, all right.

Mussolini—Well, are you keeping it a secret? Can't we let somebody else in on it?

Publicity Agent—Sir, I——

Mussolini (hotly)—I haven't had a good first-page newspaper notice in three months. I understand in America my name hasn't been mentioned since Christmas. People everywhere are asking whatever became of me.

Publicity Agent—I was quite busy with the royal wedding, sir.

Mussolini—So I noticed. It was all right to make a big fuss over the happy couple, but it doesn't have to go on forever, does it? By standing aside for them I didn't give you the idea I never wanted to be heard from again, did I?

Publicity Agent—Indeed not.

Mussolini—And when interest in the wedding died down, did you start boosting me again? You did not. All the notices have been going to the Pope. Now get this straight:

Publicity Agent. Yes, sir.

Mussolini—I've got to be put back in the news again. I want first-page stories again, and pictures—and everything.

Publicity Agent—Of course, sir. What shall I say about you?

Mussolini—Say anything, but get me over in the manner to which I have become accustomed. You understand?

Publicity Agent—Yes, sir.

Mussolini—All right, get busy.

(The publicity man stands as if puzzled by something.)

Mussolini—Well, what are you waiting for?

Publicity Agent—I just can't think of your name, sir.

Mussolini—Benito.

Publicity Agent—Oh, I remember your first name. I can't just think of the last one.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Display Flag at Cooke School on Washington's Birthday, or Here's One Who Will Become a Second Barbara Fritchie!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your correspondent, a student at Friends School, is correct in his statement, and just in his criticism, that the American flag is not always displayed atop District Columbia public schools on national holidays when the schools are closed. The flag was not displayed on the Henry D. Cooke School on Washington's Birthday of this year, to my personal knowledge. This is not the first time Cooke School has failed to have the flag displayed when it should be.

Two years ago I called to the attention of the superintendent of that school the fact that the flag was not displayed on Memorial Day. His excuse was: "I'm sorry; the janitor forgot, I suppose."

The District Daughters of the American Revolution have twice in the last two years passed resolutions, which were sent to the Board of Education, calling attention to the fact that some of the school buildings failed to display the flag on national holidays, when the schools were closed. A resolution urging action in this matter by the Board of Education was sent recently by the D. C. D. A. R. to the board, and also to the Federation of Citizens Associations. As I understand it the Board of Education is not entirely to blame. The superintendent of each school is expected to look after this patriotic observance.

If there is no one connected with the Cooke School who will see that the flag is displayed on George Washington's Birthday hereafter, I will personally see that it is either placed on the staff of that school on that day, or else will become a second "Barbara Fritchie" and wave it there myself.

CHAPTER REGENT, D. A. R.

Misuse of the Word "Classic" in Senate Debate on Obscene Literature.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It seems to me that, in the discussion of literary censorship which crops out from time to time, the word "classic" is overworked. When I was going to school I got an idea that it applied solely to the works of ancient Greek and Latin authors. A little bit narrow, perhaps, but at least free from obscurity.

Since then I have seen baseball games, horse races and prize fights described as classic. In the recent senatorial debate over the censorship clause of the tariff bill the attempt was made to have it justify obtrusive filth in modern European as well as in ancient writings.

In this indiscriminate use of the word "classic" we have one of the most horrible examples of a good word gone wrong. As applied to works of genius in literature and art we may well wish that it could be kept inviolate, and I myself must protest, at least inwardly, when books that are wilfully immoral are tagged "classic" on account of a European imprint.

Censorship Should Apply to "Morally and Politically Rotten Fiction."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To my way of thinking, censorship over the importation of books should be directed mainly against that class which is likely to be read by the young and the thoughtless; that is, against morally and politically rotten fiction. Such a censorship is needed supplementary to the exclusion of undesirable aliens. The depraved book and the depraved and nihilistic alien are in a class by themselves. The influence of both is alike insidious and un-American, and in its far-reaching consequences the bad story-book is apt to be more dangerous than the bad alien.

The circulation of scientific and other classes of European literature will not be very great, but fiction is read by millions, a large percentage of whom are girls as yet unmarried; and, by way of illustration, it seems reasonable to assume that, on that account, communist propaganda in its most reprehensible aspects will be imported in the guise of fiction if strict censorship is not maintained.

Communism Is Rot and Impractical, Is Warning of This American Youth.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Should those people who are adhering to the ranks of communism pause for a moment and read the history of the development of the United States, their own country, I am sure that they would see their grave mistake and sever their relations with such rot and fight with all their might to suppress it. If they would only recall the oppressions and hardships encountered by the founders of this Nation based on, for and by the people, communism might vanish from this country overnight.

This message comes from a youth, poor but ambitious, and from one who can see the advantages open to every man of intelligence and perseverance. It is for those who have been misled, but are capable of discerning the truth. It is for those who can, when presented with the facts, realize that ours is the best form of government the world has ever known.

Have Trees Occult Attraction for Motorists? Bob Akers Speculates.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Among things which claim my interest in looking over the daily papers is the frequency with which automobilists are injured when "auto hits tree" as a headliner would say. Quite often in lieu of a tree, it is a trolley pole or some other solid obstruction. But why? A tree, for instance, is a right conspicuous object. It is not as a usual thing planted in driveway. Why, then, is it so often struck? Is tree reckless? Has it some occult attraction which driver can not resist? One is tempted to accept this entertaining suggestion. Otherwise the conclusion must be that it is prima facie evidence of reckless driving when auto hits tree.

ATHEISTS IN RUSSIA TO CHECK EXCESSES

Leaders Warn Delegates to All-Union Congress Not to Use Force.

POPE PIUS IS ATTACKED

Moscow, March 20 (A.P.).—Russian atheists, at the opening of the All-Union Congress of Atheists, tonight declared that their propagandists must abandon the idea that religion can be exterminated in Russia overnight.

Successive speakers told delegates to the congress, the proceedings of which were broadcast all over the country, that excesses committed by atheistic workers and village officials in the Soviet war on religion must cease forthwith.

They warned their hearers that no attempt must be made to close churches by force, to remove church bells, to coerce peasants into joining the league of the godless, or to proclaim whole districts as "atheistic regions."

Statement by Chairman.

Only by peaceful argument, persuasion, and propaganda, and by scientific explanation, said Emelyan Yaroslavsky, chairman of the Society of Militant Atheists, should members of the society attempt to remove God and religion from the hearts of the people.

Throughout the proceedings it was apparent that speakers had been instructed by government authorities to call atheist propagandists to account for the extremes to which they had gone in trying to convert the Soviet Union all at once into a land without God, religion or church.

At the same time speakers lashed out at Pope Pius for his recent denunciation of the antireligious campaign, and for his prayers and yesterday's service at St. Peter's. They said there must be no slackening in the Communist war on the church by legal and peaceful means.

Discussing the Atheist Society's 5-year plan for activities against religion, Yaroslavsky declared that propaganda must be particularly intensified among women, who, he said, were more ignorant and superstitious than men. Special attention was also to be given to children.

Games, play, books and all activities of children must be "permeated with atheistic and materialistic principles."

Watchword Is Cited.

"Quality rather than quantity must be the watchword in our activities," he said. "We must not strive for big figures in the number of churches closed, but, rather, for progressive conversion of peasants and workers to atheists by rational, scientific and enlightened work.

"Nor must the closing of the churches be considered the first problem in collective farm areas. We must first make atheists of the peasants, and then the peasants will close the churches themselves. Any excesses or force in this direction will only make them more fanatical and religious.

"We must avoid mistakes, because these are magnified by imperialists abroad and react against us. The government's five-day working week proved to be a great blow to religion, but religious holidays among the peasantry should further be replaced by ordinary days of rest or revolutionary holidays."

Pope Pius Is Attacked.

Under the captain "Your Blood-stained Hands Are too Short to Strangle Soviet Workers" the official atheist organ, the Godless One, today printed a drawing of the Pope sitting wearily on a throne while victim after victim of religious inquisition was hanged and tortured before him.

"Those who overthrew on earth the thrones of czars, manufacturers and landowners," declares the paper, "those who build a new life with their own hands, are in no need of a god or heavenly protector.

"Our laborers no longer wish for the chiming of bells, the light of holy candles, or the burning of incense. They want to build palaces of culture, to erect tall radio masts, and to cover the country with a long chain of universities."

All Men in Village Held After Crash With Police

Bucharest, Roumania, March 20 (A.P.).—Ten villagers were shot and wounded today in a scuffle with gendarmes, as a result of which the entire male population of the village of Cegerbagos, near Satul Mare, was lodged in jail.

They are charged with obstructing the gendarmerie in the search of peasants' homes for contraband tobacco.

VOTE ON COAL BILL IS CARRIED BY LABOR

the delicate situation of the naval conference negotiations to refrain from embarrassing the government in the House of Commons.

This guarantee was formally announced at a committee meeting in the house before the vote today. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader and former premier, said that the party had decided to take no further action in opposing or supporting amendments during the committee stage of the coal mines bill, because hostile Liberal votes would critically affect the conference. He said he understood that the fate of the conference was hanging in the balance.

Because the party felt that it should not seem to put the government in a humiliating position at such a time, he announced that all Liberal amendments were withdrawn.

True to their word, the Liberals refrained from voting on the first conservative amendment, which proceeded to omit a subsection of the bill that provided for the fixing of minimum prices for all classes of coal in all districts.

On the second amendment, however, several Liberals independently voted against the Government, but without even endangering it. The bulk of the party abstained. This amendment proposed to abolish the power of making district levies on coal.

The visitors' gallery provided more excitement than the floor of the house during the debate. There were several interruptions by sympathizers with Indian political aims. A man who threw leaflets demanding the release of Indian political prisoners was on the floor was promptly ejected.

Soon afterward a woman arose and shouted "Release the Indian prisoners." Before the attendants could reach her, she managed to throw a shower of pamphlets down on the heads of the members. Then she, too, was ejected.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

WILMINGTON, Del., March 20.—Apple jack may fairly drip in the rural sections, and Wilmington may be as wet as Philadelphia or Baltimore, but the State is politically dry, Republican leaders insist. They assert and are joined by many Democratic leaders as well that the State will retain its drastic dry law, despite the vote of 39,424 out of 45,640 for its repeal in Pierre S. du Pont's questionnaire.

Election of a senator who will vote dry is also predicted by leaders of both parties, while there is virtually no doubt of the renomination and re-election of Representative Houston (Republican), who not only votes dry but actually does not use liquor personally. It is all very confusing, but then to understand Delaware politics requires a life study, and its three electoral votes do not make it important enough for many outsiders to do that.

* * * *

NATIONAL Democratic leaders who are predicting a net gain of at least six in the next Senate have been including Delaware as one of the "sure" States. Most of the talk in the Capital is that former Senator Thomas F. Bayard was going to run and he would probably beat Senator Daniel O. Hastings because Bayard is wringing wet and Delaware is such a terribly wet State.

Actually the nomination of Bayard is extremely unlikely as the situation stands today. Delaware uses the good, old-fashioned convention system, which is gerrymandered much as the legislatures are in all States having one very large city. The city does not get anything like the proportionate voice to which its population would entitle it.

* * * *

IF he could be nominated and if the poll taken by Mr. du Pont means what the wets think it does, there might be a different story. But those "ifs" are both very sizable. The drys, of course, point out that to get less than 40,000 votes urging the repeal of the Klair law Mr. du Pont had to send out 100,000 ballots. And they point out that they urged their people not to vote at all.

So they blithely claim that the 84,000-odd persons who did not return their ballots are all dry!

* * * *

JOSIAH MARVEL will be the Democratic nominee for senator instead of former Senator Bayard, unless there is a very unexpected upset. Marvel is a brother-in-law of former Senator William P. Jackson, of Maryland, who was a member for years of the Republican national committee.

Neither Marvel nor Senator Hastings, whom he will probably oppose at the polls in November, is 100 per cent satisfactory to the drys. But dry leaders insist that both will always vote dry regardless of any lack of enthusiasm for the cause. Republican leaders say privately they wish very much the Democrats would nominate Bayard. They are so sure the State is heavily dry that they would welcome such a fight and regard it as overcoming entirely any weakness caused by the factional row in Wilmington.

* * * *

INCIDENTALLY they claim there is a big joker in the du Pont referendum. They say it was purely on the repeal of the Klair law. Should this law be repealed, they say, and nothing else done, the only change that would result would be to remove restrictions from doctors' prescriptions. That, they assert, is the only change made by this law over the Loose law, which is still on the books and would not be affected by the repeal of the Klair law.

CUBAN STRIKE GAINS STRENGTH IN HAVANA

24-Hour Demonstration Is Joined by New Recruits; Island Peaceful.

CAR LINES ARE CRIPPLED

Havana, March 20 (A.P.).—Cuba's strike which began at midnight last night progressed peacefully, but gained some recruits during the day.

The newspaper El Pais-Excelsior suspended publication in the afternoon because of the strike, and the Spanish language morning papers were unable to publish.

Street car and omnibus lines were tied up, although some taxicabs, interurban lines and railroads continue to operate. The majority of trade shops were closed, as were coffee shops, cigar factories, sugar mills and sugar cane fields.

Leaders of five Cuban labor organizations called at the presidential palace at noon to assure President Machado the strike would be free of disturbances.

The president told them he was impressed with their attitude and said the government, in turn, was prone to view their strike as legitimate as long as manifestations were peaceful and did not menace property. The president added that recent suppression of the Confederacion Obrera de Cuba (Confederation of Labor) was not yet definite and that the decree banning the body was being viewed by the supreme court.

The labor leaders said they were satisfied with the interview and held hope for reestablishment of the confederation.

Additional indications of the pacific attitude of strikers were seen at the gubernatorial palace, where 15 labor secretaries called this morning to ask a permit for an afternoon parade. After Gov. Antonio Ruiz advised against a parade, the leaders decided to hold a general meeting.

The strike was called partly in protest of unemployment and partly because of the arrest of five radical labor leaders, who are still held, last week. The Cuban police say that it was ordered by the Third International at Moscow.

Five Judges Urged For Sanford's Post

Four From Illinois and One From Texas Are Recommended.

(Associated Press.)

The names of four Illinois judges were recommended to President Hoover yesterday by Senator Glenn (Republican), Illinois, for his consideration in selecting a successor to the late Edward Terry Sanford, justice of the Supreme Court.

They were Walter C. Lindley, Federal judge for the Eastern District, at Danville, Ill.; James H. Wilkerson, Federal judge, Chicago; Frederick D. Young and Clyde E. Stone, both justices of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The name of W. Lee Estes, Federal judge for the Eastern District of Texas, was recommended to President Hoover yesterday by Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, for the vacancy on the Supreme Court.

Delaware Man Is Urged As Successor to Sanford

Wilmington, Del., March 20.—Among those being urged by their friends for the vacancy on the United States Supreme Court caused by the death of Justice Sanford is Judge Hugh M. Morris, of Delaware, who has been on the bench for eleven years in this State.

Because of the corporation law of Delaware, Judge Morris probably has had before him more lawyers than any judge in the country and cases he has handled involved intricate questions of law and millions of dollars. Judge Morris, while active in civic life, has never been a politician.

French Begin Young Plan Work.

Paris, March 20 (A.P.).—The government today introduced in the chamber of deputies a bill for ratification of the Young plan. Premier Tardieu asked the deputies to begin discussion as soon as possible and pass the measure before April 6. The chamber decided, beginning Monday, to hold morning, afternoon and evening sessions until the Young plan is ratified and forwarded to the senate.

a compromise, according to one of the Italian experts. The French also professed scorn at the latest Anglo-American attempt to be helpful.

Some Still Talk Pacts.

Coincident with these technical efforts the British and Americans are still talking pacts, or some of them are. Premier MacDonald, in the House of Commons today, said that no engagements involving sanctions or blockades in the Mediterranean going beyond the obligations of the league covenant "have been contemplated or discussed."

When, however, Norman Angell asked him whether this country is prepared to guarantee that all obligations under the league covenant shall be carried out, Mr. MacDonald remained silent. His silence was significant.

The last hope of those Americans who believe a British security pledge to France is the only chance of ending the Franco-British deadlock is along the lines indicated by Mr. Angell's questions, and Mr. MacDonald has lent an ear to strong representations made to him, although it is believed that he knows that neither his cabinet nor the House of Commons would permit him to go very far in this direction.

Strive to Save Rapidan Figures.

An effort to save the Rapidan figures out of the debacle of the conference still remains the paramount American aim, and there is confirmation of the statement last night that Great Britain may be asked to agree to some formula which would prevent any new British building against th eFrench for a few years, even if Mr. MacDonald can not pledge himself to this for six years. British-informed opinion realizes the importance of this for Anglo-American relations, but it is doubtful whether the country will sanction it if the French program is not modified.

The Japanese issue introduced itself into the situaiton again today when the Australian delegate, Minister of Trade J. E. Fenton, told the British that if the United States permits Japan to build more 8-inch-gun cruisers than the twelve now in existence, then the British empire should go up above the Rapidan figures in order to safeguard Australia.

The Japanese do not expect their counter proposal to the last order of the United States to reach here from Tokyo until Tuesday of next week at the earliest. The general conference opinion is that they will wait to spring it until they are sure whether a three-power or a five-power pact is in prospect and that they are yet far from agreeing to terms that the United States delegation can accept.

Rheumatic?

Are you facing the fate of a rheumatic? Of course, the future looks black—it's pitiful to contemplate a lifetime of aches and pains. And it is easy to grow desperate in the face of such a fate—but it's much more sensible to keep up courage and benefit by the experience of others. "I give Mountain Valley Mineral Water credit for putting me on my feet after being laid up for three months with Arthritis"—is one of the letters we have received. MOVE TO FORCE U. S. INTO PACT FORESEEN

Organized Drive Expected to Materialize in View of Parley Debacle.

BUELL HAS STATEMENTS

By ALBERT W. FOX.

An organized drive of the League of Nations internationalists to persuade President Hoover to accept a political pact with Europe will be in evidence from now until the end of the London conference. The league adherents will make a final desperate effort to convince the President that America's policy against European political entanglements is a serious mistake and is the direct cause of the impending failure at London.

The Foreign Policy Association fired one of the opening international appeals yesterday and this is to be followed by statements of the same tenor.

Raymond Leslie Buell, on behalf of the Foreign Policy Association, declares in a statement that "the London naval conference can be saved only if the American delegation reconsiders its decision in regard to a consultative pact."

View of Association.

The desire of France to exchange naval tonnage for a political agreement in the form of the proposed consultative pact should be accepted by the United States, according to the internationalists, and President Hoover should at once direct Secretary Stimson to repudiate the position which the American delegation has taken on this question. Otherwise, it is intimated, the conference is bound to fail and it will be clear to all that America could have saved the day by purchasing agreement at the insignificant expense of departing from her traditional policy of no entangling alliances.

So far as the Foreign Policy Association is concerned it regards the suggested political pact with France as a harmless alliance in the interest of peace and an agreement merely to confer if war threatens. If there is any doubt on this score, the suggestion is advanced that President Hoover inform the nations of Europe that America will never do more than confer in the event of war.

"If the United States accepted a consultative pact on the express understanding that this pact contained only the obligation to confer," Mr. Buell states, "it is inconceivable that any nation could claim that it would commit us to the use of armed force."

Four-Power Pact Cited.

If the proposed consultative pact is an "entangling alliance," it is added, then the four-power Pacific pact signed at the Washington conference to safeguard the insular possessions of Great Britain, France, Japan and the United States in the Pacific is likewise an "entangling alliance."

Mr. Buell makes no distinction between the four-power pact, under which America has a definite interest to safeguard her insular possessions, and the proposed pact, involving purely European interests which do not involve the United States.

It is further suggested in the Foreign Policy Association statement that if the proposed political pact with France were signed by America, other powers would sign and eventually there would be agreements by all the powers to confer and never engage in hostilities when the next war develops.

Swedish Pilot Believed Planning Flight to U.S.

Stockholm, March 20 (A.P.).—The Swedish aviator Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, who last year unsuccessfully attempted an aerial crossing from Stockholm to New York by way of Iceland and Greenland, is believed here to be preparing for another hop along the same route. Reports here say that Capt. Ahrenberg will be ready to start in a few weeks, using a machine with a Bristol-Jupiter motor.

At the same time, word has come from Germany that the Luft-Hansa organization is planning a similar flight to be made in a Dornier-Wahl plane.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

"Road-hogging" is a violation of the traffic regulations of the District of Columbia.

A motorist may assume that he has a right to stay in the middle of the thoroughfare provided he is driving close to the legal speed limit, but the regulations give him no such right. As a matter of fact, they specifically state that at the sound of the horn of an overtaking vehicle, he must move over to the right and permit the other car to pass before increasing his speed.

Example: A motorist is driving out Massachusetts avenue. Proceeding along at 28 miles an hour, he stays in the middle of the thoroughfare. At the sound of a horn behind him, he refuses to move over, but increases his speed instead to 30 miles. He has violated the regulations.

SUPPORT OF CENSUS IS URGED BY LAMONT

Secretary Makes Appeal for Country's Cooperation in Gigantic Task.

WILL COST $40,000,000

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Lamont last night appealed to the Nation to give its fullest support to the decennial census which will be taken next month.

Speaking over the Columbia system on the radio, the Commerce Secretary urged the people not to hold back or be apprehensive when approached by the census taker.

"We appeal to you to respond unanimously," he said, "with zeal, vigor, precision and typical American frankness, to this great collective effort to advance the common good."

Lamont said the census was one of the foremost tasks of the Government this year and pointed out that it will cost approximately $40,000,000.

"What forces are at work in this America of ours?" he inquired. "What transformations are taking place? Where are the currents carrying us? How is our particular community faring? The census should disclose the answers to nearly all these questions in the economic field. And such answers will provide the basis for prudent action. If we are to take sound, effective measures to keep our Nation on the upward path, we can not guess about conditions—we must know."

National Organization Of Colleges Is Formed

Chicago, March 20 (A.P.).—A nation-wide organization of liberal arts colleges to give mutual aid in drives for money was organized today by the Liberal Arts Colleges conference. The new organization will be known as the Liberal Arts College movement and will be allied with the American Association of Colleges. All liberal arts colleges, who pay a fee of $100, are eligible for membership.

A committee of fifteen was created to determine methods of raising funds to aid the liberal arts colleges. It was ordered to report in January, 1931, in Indianapolis, at the meeting of the American Association of Colleges.

NEW HOUSE BUILDING TO USE MUCH WATER

Ventilating System Will Be Costly Proposition if Plans Go Through.

SHORTAGE IS POSSIBLE

The luxurious new House office building which is to be constructed for the increased comfort of members of the House of Representatives will cost the average District resident a material sum annually unless plans which were outlined to District officials yesterday are changed.

Present plans for the new and more comfortable quarters for the House members called for utilization of 1,300,000 gallons of filtered District water daily for the new building.

This water will be used to purify the air in the new building and to keep the building cool so that members of the House, their secretaries and stenographers will not suffer from the heat. The plans were outlined yesterday by George A. Weschler, consulting engineer, at a conference with Capt. Hugh P. Oram, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and D. W. Holton, superintendent of the Water Department.

A recent survey of the District water system shows that the present water rates will not yield enough revenue to provide for necessary extensions of the system and must eventually be increased and that thousands of dollars of improvements are necessary. Aside from the actual cost of the water which it is proposed to use to keep the representatives cool and the air they breathe pure, District Water Department officials are considerably concerned over the plan because that much water may not be diverted to such use without seriously threatening the water supply for Southeast homes and business houses.

They urged that Congress provide a connection with the mains carrying unfiltered water from the Potomac River for the Capitol power plant.

Customs Agents Seek Huge Drug Shipment

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—Federal customs and narcotic agents today continued their intensive search of incoming transatlantic liners in a search for large shipments of narcotics reputed to have been started Americawards. Three vessels were searched today, but so far as known no narcotics were found.

It was also learned today that two customs guards had been suspended as a result of an investigation made following the seizure of a trunk containing $200,000 worth of narcotics which some one tried to smuggle into this country with the baggage of Sir Duncan Orr-Lewis, British baronet.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm

They Revitalize the System—Induce Youthful Activity—Keep Body in Splendid Condition—Free From Fat.

It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only a few months ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.

All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit also.

Kruschen Salts are taken for their health building value all over the world—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain today.

Kruschen Salts are different from other salts—Kruschen is six salts in one—the very same six salts that nature put into the human body at the beginning of creation and demands you keep them there or your health won't be as good as it should be.

Unlike most salts Kruschen isn't simply a laxative—if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?

When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fiber in the body with nature's own revitalizing and rejuvenating minerals.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85c at Peoples Drug Stores, or any drug store in America—take one-half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.

Before the bottle is empty you'll feel years younger—eyes will brighten—step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation—one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Society Plans To See Shaw's Comedy Here

"Great Catherine" Will Be Given by Capital Player Group.

By JEAN ELIOT.

INSPIRED by memories of the Columbia Players' gorgeous revival of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" last year, many society folk, who are interested in the theater, are planning to attend the production of Shaw's satirical comedy, "Great Catherine," which this gifted amateur group is to put on tonight in the auditorium at Central High School. Mrs. John C. Fremont will entertain guests, as will Mrs. Frank B. Freyer, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker Holcombe, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Van Valkenburg, Col. and Mrs. Harry R. Lee and Miss Frances Lay.

Mrs. George T. Odell, whose husband is one of the stars of the amateur theatrical firmament in Washington and has an important part in "Great Catherine," will entertain a box party, having as guests her cousin, Mrs. Calvin Austin, of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Russell and Mrs. Nina Allender; and Mr. and Mrs. Gilson Gardiner will be hosts to a party of eight. Others who propose to take guests to the show are Mr. and Mrs. George DuBois, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter North, Mr. and Mrs. Willard D. Miller and Mrs. Archibald Small.

"Great Catherine" is said to be presented with professional finish and to contain some most effective characterizations. But one wonders if the sophistication of Shaw will have quite so strong an appeal as the frank and fervid melodrama of such a "ten-twenty-thirty" classic as "Ten Nights in a Barroom." This packed the house when the Columbia Players put it on at the Wardman Park Theater last winter, after a successful tryout in one of the high school auditoriums. And never will I forget the joy with which the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. Jimmie Curtis and others of their ilk watched the old play, hissing the villain, weeping over the passing of the heroine and eating peanuts the while.

The Speaker and Mrs. Longworth entertained a party of eight that evening, having among their guests that most dignified of gentlemen, Mr. Robert Woods Bliss, United States Ambassador to Argentina. The Minister of Sweden, Mr. Bostrom, seemed enormously interested in this revival of a vanished manifestation of American art. And others who can look back upon this evening with amusement are Rear Admiraal and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mr. and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Himes, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Mellett, Mrs. Maurice Crumpacker and Mr. and Mrs. Burt Garnett.

The Columbia Players is one of the groups affiliated with the Community Drama Guild, which since its comparatively recent organization has done so much to promote amateur dramatics and to foster an interest in the work of the nonprofessional groups upon which, many think, the salvation of the speaking stage will eventually depend. Last year the Columbia Players presented "The Monkey's Paw," the play with which it had taken first prize in the Community Play Tournament at the National Theater, as a curtain raiser to the regular performance, its share of the profits being used to take the little company to New York to enter the National Play Tournament held there.

Besides Mr. George Odell, well-known Washington newspaper correspondent, the Columbia Players' group includes Mr. H. R. Baukage, also a newspaperman; Miss Anne Ives, member of the Arts Club and leading lady in many of its productions; Miss Dorothea Lewis, Miss Helen Burton Mr. Joseph Bourne, and Mr. A. E. Dubber.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau has returned to her home in Greenwich, Conn., to be hostess at a house party for her nephew, Mr. Joseph Hall, during his spring holiday. Mrs. Brosseau spent several weeks in Florida and was in Washington for a few days on her way to Greenwich. She will return to the Capital early in April and will remain until after the annual Continental Congress of the D. A. R. She was formerly president general of the organization.

Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong has returned to Washington from Miami where she spent the late winter and has opened her apartment at the Mayflower. Mr. and Mrs. L. Corrin Strong motored to Florida, met Mrs. Strong in Jacksonville and accompanied her back to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Corrin Strong have recently moved into their new home in Massachusetts Avenue Park.

Potter-Davis Betrothal Is Made Public

Daughter of Former Aid to Wilson to Be Wed to New Yorker.

The engagement of Miss Mary Paschall Davis to Mr. John Clarkson Potter, which was announced in New York yesterday, is of some interest to Washington. Both families are well known here, and both of the young people have many friends here. Miss Davis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Davis, of New York and Stockbridge, Mass. Mr. Davis was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in the Wilson administration and later Undersecretary of State. At various times he was financial adviser to the Secretary of the Treasury, to President Wilson and to the American Peace Commission in Paris.

Mr. Potter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Potter, of St. Louis, but now of New York and Southampton.

He attended St. Paul's School and is now a senior at Harvard. He is a member of the Delphic, Stylus and Hasty Pudding Clubs, of Harvard and also of the Racquet and Tennis Club of Boston and the National Golf Links.

Miss Davis is a graduate of Miss Chapin's School and is now a student at Smith College. She was presented to society in 1928 and is a member of the Junior League.

No date has been set for the wedding, but it is probable it will take place this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph du Vivier, of Paris, are at the Powhatan.

Judge William E. Lamb, of Chicago, a guest at the Willard, entertained at luncheon in the crystal room at the hotel yesterday.

Mrs. A. P. Giannini with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Cuneo, are guests at the Willard for several days, having stopped off on their way back to their home in San Francisco from Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Ellison, of Boston, Mass., have taken an apartment at the Cavalier.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

A SMART modification of princess lines interpreted in printed silk crepe in orangey-red tones is delightfully chic for immediate and later spring wear.

It is altogether charming with scarf collar in white crepe tied in knot just below the end of Vionnet neckline.

The normal waistline is indicated at front by horizontal tucks, which is a clever means of detracting from width through the bodice. The scalloped outline at front is interesting detail and attracts one's attention to the smooth-fitting hipline.

The circular skirt is well shaped so as to give the figure a lovely slim appearance.

This attractive model, Style No. 8201, is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It's very smart in black silk crepe with scarf collar in eggshell crepe.

Navy blue crepe promises to be very popular this spring with a touch of white at neckline. The scarf collar in white crepe would be very chic if you selected navy blue shade.

Canton crepe, chiffon, georgette crepe, printed Rayon novelties, wool crepe and lightweight tweed are appropriate.

All patterns of Lucille Lorraine styles are 15 cents each. Mail your order to our fashion department, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City. Be sure to write your name and address clearly and give the number and size of the pattern.

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the ...uction and Contract Bridge beginner.)

Last week we noted that when leading against a No Trump, partner not having bid, it is a good general rule to lead the top of touching honors when the hand contains three honors; but we gave a couple of exceptions to that rule—cases in which a fourth best should be led even with three honors. Today we name cases in which an honor should be led though leading without three honors. The most noted instances are suits headed by:

Queen-Jack Nine
Jack-Ten-Nine
Jack-Ten-Eight

These are two-honor holdings, so it would seem to be a fourth-best lead; but from all these combinations it is wiser to lead high.

Take the Queen-Jack-Nine. Suppose the leader had Queen-Jack-9-3-2 and led the fourth best; if it so happened that his partner did not hold the honor in the suit, the Declarer easily could take three tricks unless it happened to have an Ace-King combination. Even with the Ten in dummy and Ace-King-x in closed hand, the three tricks doubtless would be made; so to prevent this, the Queen is led from that combination. It is also a vitally important lead when dummy has the King and partner the Ace.

When leading from Jack-Ten-Nine or Jack-Ten-Eight it pays to open with the Jack. In this case dummy frequently has Queen or King, the partner a higher honor, closed hand the other honor; and the lead of the Jack is apt to kill the honor in the dummy.

From the holdings headed by Ace-Ten-Nine, King-Ten-Nine or Queen-Ten-Nine, the Nine is of such value that it should be looked upon as a near honor, and the Ten should be led. There is less advantage in doing this with Queen-Ten Nine than with the other two combinations. With Ace-Ten-Nine or King-Ten-Nine the Jack may be found in the dummy and the Queen in partner's hand, in which case the lead of the Ten is especially important.

Players who lead the Ten from the above combinations do not lead it from the top of a long suit headed by Ten-Nine-Eight or Ten-Nine-Seven; and the adoption of this convention gives to the lead of the Ten the valuable significance that the hand contains one higher honor.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, March 20.

In relation to the difference between the elegance of the woman of yester-year and the elegance of the modern woman, as I was discussing with you yesterday, think if you can of the difference between a complete street ensemble of 50 years ago and one of today.

Dress and coat, hat and bag, gloves, stockings and shoes, and very indifferent they were, too, excepting of course the hat, coat and dress. But today! Dress, coat, hat, gloves, bag, shoes and stockings to be sure—and costume jewelry; vanity cases with lipstick and powder, belts, handkerchiefs, cigarette lighters, cigarette cases, wrist watches, complete sports accessories—oh, you can't even commence to count them—these innumerable accessories that the modern woman feels are part of her outfit.

Thus the money that she used to spend on dresses and coats alone is now spread over a multitude of things, things absolutely indispensable to her complete elegance.

I'm reminded at this moment for no real reason, of Lanvin's press collection night of six weeks ago. Jeanne Lanvin is a character, and a delightful one, this little old and not at all terrifying lady with the perpetual and knowing twinkle in her eye. And though she has let herself be a little old lady very much amused and amusing, it is startling how she not only keeps up with the style psychology of the modern young woman, but actually sets the styles herself. Not an item of fussiness, of styles of other days, ever appears in a Lanvin model. New and more than new, modern and beyond, that is what one is forced to joyfully admit of her creations.

• • • •

Your modern Circe, and how? In case you think for a moment that there isn't a very deeply laid plot to beachwear, take another think, because there is. For a beach costume can come so perilously near to being junky, you know—and yet when it is just right, it is altogether delightful.

• • • •

So by way of our idea of a really smart beach ensemble, I have gathered together for you today a Suzanne Talbot beach hat, Alexandrine beach gloves, a Patou bathing costume and jewelry, and Perugia beach sandals!

How much of it do you go to the water with? Well, you'd be surprised—off comes the hat, the sandals, the gloves, the jewelry, the skirt, hold on, don't faint, that's all! But back they go on again when you come out of the water, and a huge soft straw hat lined with printed silk goes down over her face instead of staying turned back as it is now.

No need these days to say you simply can't accept his invitation because you haven't got an evening wrap to wear. Because the latest mode in evening wraps is for them to be short and tiny and mostly unlined—and that can't take so very much material, can it?

It doesn't take much material and neither are they complicated to make, that is, with our illustrated leaflet for which you can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope this week to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

And here's that reminder again! The weekly Dare fashion letter appears exclusively in the Capital in The Washington Post every Sunday.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

BURTON HOLMES came to town yesterday, beginning his thirty-seventh year as a lecturer. The present series, in the National Theater, was inaugurated with a travelogue on London.

• • • •

Mr. Holmes manages to crowd into two hours about all the interesting scenes a visitor might spend an entire summer seeing, and then not seeing, to make an Irish bull; for many a man goes here, there and everywhere and comes home with scantier knowledge than he might pick up from one of Mr. Holmes' travelogues.

• • • •

This lecture on London was dandy, though the Hon. William W. Westcott, under whose direction Mr. Holmes appears, says, "Wait till next week." Of course! Next week Mr. Holmes is going to motor through La Belle France.

• • • •

However, Paris for the French, and London for the English—we say. America, after all, is America. The strange part of it, though, is the manner in which American influences are reaching out and branding the old-line cities of the world.

• • • •

Mr. Holmes, in the course of his London lecture, not only tells of how America is encroaching on the domains of the world but shows pictures where a skyscraper is actually being constructed down Threadneedle street way, on the roof of the Bank of England.

• • • •

Well, if this sort of thing keeps up, Americans may remain at home and enjoy the knowledge that the world is losing lots of its identity. So long as Mr. Holmes is able to travel he will find, no doubt, many interesting places—for his pictures and his lectures.

• • • •

One of the interesting flashbacks in the London lecture was the motion picture of the victory parade held in 1919, when troops of the allied nations were reviewed by the King of England.

• • • •

All the old-timers turned out to welcome Mr. Holmes back to the National—a packed house, and a happy one.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

A NEW TEST FOR PREGNANCY

NONE of the older tests for pregnancy is very much worth while until the state has progressed for more than one month. There are women who can tell they are pregnant by the way they feel. Some have a sense of well-being that they do not readily mistake; on the other hand, some have disturbed appetite and other irritabilities which they recognize from the very start. Beyond these vague feelings there is not much to go by. The signs upon which physicians depend are not very reliable and they are not easily interpreted. As a rule we expect physicians to ask for time when called upon for diagnosis during the first weeks.

Some years ago Abderhalden offered a delicate biologic test from which much was expected. It did not sustain itself in general use. Since then other efforts to find a diagnosis test of somewhat the general character of the Abderhalden test have been made, one proposed by Ascheim and Zondek being favorably reported on. It is claimed for the Ascheim-Zondek test that it is most dependable within the first three or four weeks of pregnancy, just the time when most of the diagnostic signs are absent or not definite. From the standpoint of the woman the test is very simple; all she has to do is to supply a specimen of fresh, unspoiled urine to a laboratory equipped for the test. The laboratory workers inject several portions of this urine into young, immature female mice. This is continued over a few days. The mice are then killed and autopsied. The ovaries are examined with the unaided eye and microscopically. If the woman is pregnant there will be changes in the ovaries of the mouse somewhat similar to those found in the same organ in a pregnant woman.

The test is not one which requires great technical skill on the part of the laboratory worker, but it does require a large stock of mice. None can be used except young, immature females. This will make the test impossible for practicing physicians, and obtainable only in laboratories well stocked with test mice.

NIGHT SWELLING OF TONGUE.

H. J. P. writes: Will you kindly explain what causes a swelling of the tongue in the night? It swells to about twice its normal thickness and this disappears about noontime. There is no pain. Several months go by before it comes again, but sometimes the lip is affected after the same fashion in place of the tongue and becomes normal in the same time.

REPLY.

This goes by the name of urticaria, probably giant urticaria. It follows exposure to something at long intervals.

Prevention should follow discovery and avoidance of the cause.

Sisters.

YOU read the letter from the young girl who was in love with her older sister's prospective husband. She is 19 and her sister 28. The sister is making wedding preparations, all unconscious that her future husband is making love to the youngest of the family, just home from school. Now comes a letter from a man—which sounds pretty heartless, but may be wise.

"I had the misfortune to be picked for best man at a wedding where no one concerned had any idea what it was all about. The girl was 24. My friend was 38. The girl had a sister one year older. The week before the wedding my friend confided to me that it was the older girl he should marry, as he loved her and not the one he was engaged to. He explained that the sister he loved preferred to give him up rather than have her sister despise her for having accepted his attentions. These fools planned to go through with the whole matter just as if love made no difference. I began to watch the 'bride' closely and decided that she herself was marrying very casually, that the man really was no 'big love' to her. So I decided to cut in and see what happened. She responded promptly and wholeheartedly. Well, I asked her why she was going through with the wedding and she said, 'What can a girl do?' To make a long story short, the wedding was postponed and, of course, never took place. My friend and the older sister, who were really in love, eventually married, and after six years of marriage separated. The original 'bride' married happily and is still married. I myself tried to marry her, for I fell in love with her when she was so frank about her situation. My opinion, based on experience, is this: That sisters mean no more to each other than any other two women when a man is involved. They should stand as individuals, not as 'sisters,' and if there is a contest let it be free of prejudice. There is too much bunk about this business of love and marriage. It is rarely that two people really come together who are indispensable to each other. When they do, I for one yell 'Gang way!' Let them have every chance and let all the silly social gestures go up in smoke. Let the darned old wedding be put off till every one concerned sees things straight.

HOMINY MUFFINS.

1 cup cold boiled hominy grits.
1 cup sweet milk.
1 egg.
1½ cups corn flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 tablespoon melted fat.

Beat the milk and egg into the hominy grits, add the melted fat and dry ingredients. Mix well and bake in well-greased muffin pans for 30 minutes.

This makes twelve muffins.

EUROPA, CRACK SHIP, STARTS OCEAN TRIP

Sister Liner of Bremen Runs Into Headwinds on Her Voyage to U. S.

MAY SEEK NEW RECORD

Cherbourg, France, March 20 (A.P.).—Off for New York on her first Atlantic crossing, the new North German-Lloyd liner Europa, sister ship of the blue-ribbon Bremen, steamed out of port into headwinds and westerly gales tonight. She remained in the roads only 65 minutes, a call record breaking for its shortness.

A hundred miles out the big liner wirelessed that she had run into violent headwinds. Nautical men here believe that she will hardly be able to break the Bremen's record for the crossing if the westerly gales hold for several hours.

Officials of the North German-Lloyd Line have declined to comment on reports that the Europa would try to better the Bremen's time of 4 days 17 hours and 24 minutes. Nevertheless, her time will be closely watched.

The new German crack liner steamed majestically out of the roads at 5:20 p. m. (12:20 p. m. Eastern standard time), in a blaze of sunshine intervening between March showers. She received the admiration of every seafaring man in this ancient sea port, although no official reception, contrary to custom on maiden voyages, marked her arrival in the roads.

It was noted that the crew rushed about loading mail and baggage, and that passengers were hurried on board. The Bremen, eastbound, arrived here only a few hours before the Europa.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Weather Bureau. Washington, Thursday, March 10, 8 p.m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia: Fair Friday and Saturday; colder Friday afternoon and night; fresh northwest winds, diminishing Friday night and shifting to northeast or east Saturday.

For Maryland: Generally fair and colder, except snow flurries in the mountains Friday, much colder in north portion Friday night; Saturday fair, with slowly rising temperature in west portion; fresh northwest winds, diminishing and shifting to northeast or east Saturday.

For Virginia: Fair Friday and Saturday; colder in west and north portions Friday afternoon; colder Friday night; fresh northwest, shifting to north and northeast winds.

The northeastern disturbance is now centered north of Newfoundland, Belle Isle, 28.76 inches, and the northwestern disturbance has moved eastward to western Quebec, Doucet, 29.34 inches, with a trough extending southwestward to western Texas and thence northwestward over the Rocky Mountain region to the upper Mackenzie Valley, where another disturbance is centered, Fort Smith, B. N. T., 29.70 inches. Still another is central over the Gulf of Alaska, Cordova, 29.54 inches. The northwestern area of high pressure is advancing eastward over the Dakotas and Minnesota, Moorhead, 30.28 inches, and pressure remains relatively high over the Gulf States and off the California coast, Eureka, Calif., 30.20 inches, and Pensacola, Fla., 30.04 inches. Generally fair weather has prevailed during the last 24 hours, except for local rains in the north Pacific States and light local snows from the northern Rocky Mountain region eastward to Minnesota. The temperature has risen from New England and the Middle Atlantic States southwestward to Oklahoma and Texas, and in the western Canadian provinces, eastern Montana and northwestern North Dakota, while the weather has become colder from the northern Lake region southwestward to Wyoming and eastern Colorado. The temperature has fallen decidedly over the greater part of this area.

The indications are for mostly fair weather Friday and Saturday in the Washington Forecast District, followed by rain Saturday afternoon or night in Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. Colder weather will overspread the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the lower Lake region, and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States within the next 24 hours. Cold-wave warnings have been issued for extreme northern New York and portions of northern New England. There will be a reaction to higher temperatures during Saturday, however, as far east as the Appalachian Mountains.

WHO'ZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was an American.
2. He lived during the nineteenth century.
3. His writings, particularly his poetry, attracted widespread attention.
4. Among the most noted of his poems was one based on an incident in the Greek war against Turkey for independence.
5. Together with a friend he wrote what were known as the "Croaker Papers" which appeared first in a New York newspaper early in the last century.

Answer to yesterday—Gen. Thomas Gage.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaret tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascarets are made from pure cascara, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascarets, 10c.

DOCTORS URGE QUIZ INTO CANCER "CURE"

Johns Hopkins Expert Asks Investigation Into Serum in San Francisco.

DESCRIBED IN CAPITAL

Newark, N. J., March 20 (A.P.).—Plans for leading American cancer experts to investigate the new cancer serum at San Francisco were announced tonight to the Academy of Medicine of Northern New Jersey.

To inform the public quickly is the purpose, Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, of Johns Hopkins University, told the physicians. At the same time he appealed for "some authoritative body of cancer students and scientists to deal with cancer cures announced by the daily press so frequently and in such an optimistic way that it reaches thousands of people dying of cancer and raises false hopes of a cure."

The invitation to investigate, he said, came from Drs. Coffey and Humber, discoverers of the San Francisco serum.

"Drs. Coffey and Humber," he said, describing the testimony on cancer given to a United States Senate subcommittee last week, "repeatedly stated before this committee that in their opinion these injections of an extract of the adrenal glands could not be considered a cure for cancer, or, as they both stated, even a treatment of cancer. It was as yet purely an experiment.

"It is very important to state here that if the Ransdall and Jones-Parker bills and the Harris resolution had been passed by Congress, there would have been an authoritative body to deal with this situation, to send to California cancer students to investigate and announce whether this extract is a cure, or whether it was even justifiable for any one with incurable cancer to take the trip to California.

"William W. Buffum, general manager of the Chemical Foundation, has already offered financial aid for such a commission. It is hoped that other foundations interested in cancer and cancer research institutions will offer sufficient funds to allow representatives to go to California and make this investigation.

"To one who has given education of the public continuous study for almost twenty years, this recent publicity of a cancer cure that is as yet not a cure, raises the hope that ultimately we may obtain the same results through the press with correct information, and that we may influence the readers who have not the disease but need the protection of correct information, just as profoundly as we can influence those dying of the disease."

Man Hurt in Fall Off Truck.

John J. Wolff, 31 years old, of 654 B street northeast, suffered severe head injuries yesterday afternoon when he was thrown from the rear of a truck on which he was riding when it swerved around the corner at Pennsylvania avenue and First street. He was taken to Casualty Hospital. The truck was operated by Edward W. Ireland, of 2616 Seaton street northeast.

G. W. U. Men Debaters Meet N. Y. U. Tonight

The George Washington University Men's Debate Team has gone to New York City to meet the debate team of New York University tonight. The subject for debate will be, "Resolved, that a policy of complete disarmament should be adopted by the nations of the world except for such forces as are needed for police purposes."

George Washington, represented by Robert Parsons and Hearst R. Duncan, will uphold the affirmative.

The conditions of the eleven psittacosis patients who are being treated in city hospitals and homes were said last night by Dr. J. P. Leake, one of the attending doctors, to be considerably improved.

"We think that none of them is in a serious condition at the present time," Dr. Leake said last night, "but of course, the danger is not all past. Relapses in all the cases are possible, although we are hoping for the best."

It was stated last night by Public Health officials that the situation in Washington had been brought under hand, and that there was no immediate danger of others contracting the disease. Study of the disease is continuing almost 24 hours a day. The hygienic laboratory attendants stated yesterday that there was a sufficient supply of serum derived from the blood of recovered victims to use in aiding those now ill with the fever, and that no general call had been sent over the country as had been stated by one of the local newspapers earlier in the day.

Progress in the research work being carried on by the laboratory is confidently announced, and much light on the nature of the disease is hoped to be discovered and disclosed within a few more days.

$40 in Clothing Stolen.

Henry Boykin, of New York, a guest at the Midcity Hotel, 1251 Seventh street northwest, reported to the police yesterday that his valise, containing clothing valued at $40, was stolen from his room.

Bite by Parrot Brings Woman $1,000 Award

Baltimore, March 20 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Litten by a parrot last June, Mrs. Anna Drury today was awarded $1,000 damages by the jury that heard her suit under Judge Duke Bond.

Mrs. Drury asked $2,000. It was claimed that a parrot which was allowed to be in a room at a downtown store, bit her on the finger last June 13. The woman's suit referred to the parrot as a "fierce and vicious bird."

Mrs. Drury's finger was said to be permanently scarred and the nail injured.

Kiwanis Club Told How to Keep Well

Telephone Girls Illustrate Health Methods at Luncheon.

Members of the Kiwanis Club went back to their homes and offices yesterday, following their weekly luncheon in the Washington Hotel, prepared to take "physical stock" of themselves with a view to preventing illness and keeping fit.

The cause of all this sudden interest in health and first aid was a demonstration by three young women of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. on the general subject of "Why a Health Course in the Telephone Business?" Edwin F. Hill, of the telephone company, arranged the program for his fellow members.

Miss Margaret L. Harbin, an employment supervisor, gave a talk explaining the health system in use by the company, followed by an exhibition of ordinary first aid by Miss Helen T. Harper and Miss Mildred K. McLearin. Miss Harper was the patient and Miss McLearin the demonstrator.

$10,000 Suit Filed By Hyattsville Woman

Thelma Miller, of Hyattsville, Md., filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against Raphael Puseti of 1417 H street northeast, seeking to recover $10,000 damages for alleged assault.

The woman tells the court that she entered the man's store on January 28, last, and that he attacked her. She claims to have been seriously injured as a result of the man's alleged rough treatment of her. Attorneys Wilbur N. Baughman and O. L. Rogers appear for the plaintiff.

Senate Adopts Measure To Honor Air Pioneers

The Fess resolution authorizing creation of a commission to prepare plans for a memorial to Orville and Wilbur Wright in Washington was adopted by the Senate yesterday.

The commission would be composed of the chairmen and ranking minority members of the Senate and House judiciary committees, the architect of the Capitol, the director of public buildings and grounds, and the assistant secretaries in charge of aviation of the Departments of War, Navy and Commerce.

STOCK PRICES RISE IN IRREGULAR DAY

Index List Gains One Point, but Profit Taking Sends Some Shares Down.

TOBACCO ISSUES RALLY

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—The flood of money that has sent rates to the lowest level in years began to recede today, but speculation for the rise continued with unabated fervor, despite bear sorties against isolated issues. The price index of 90 leading issues was pushed up nearly a point further into new high territory for the recovery, and the day's turnover again exceeded 4,000,000 shares.

A considerable element inclined to be cautious, in view of the rapidity of the advance during recent sessions, and profit taking imparted considerable irregularity to the price movement during most of the day. Call money, after renewing at 2 per cent for the first time since 1924, rose to 2½ late in the session, which encouraged bearish operations.

Although the Bank of England reduced its rate from 4 to 3½ per cent, the New York Federal Reserve Bank made no further reduction. It was learned that the Government overdraft at the reserve has not yet been paid off, and it has undoubtedly contributed to the extraordinary plenitude of money. It appeared today that lenders were finding the rates too low to be attractive, and were withdrawing funds.

Easy Money Period Predicted.

A period of comparatively easy money seems assured, however, bankers acceptance rates were cut to 2½ per cent asked for the shorter maturities, and the spread of a full 1 per cent between that and the rediscount rate would seem to indicate a lower rediscount rate as soon as the Federal Reserve system can make the necessary adjustments. Gov. Young, of the system, in an address at Washington, clearly indicated that the system is committed to a policy of easy money to revive business.

There are no indications that the system is concerned for the time being, at least, by reaccumulation of brokers loans. At any rate, the week's brokerage loan figures showed another large increase, of $121,000,000. While this may indicate a weakening technical position of the market, it still leaves loans abnormally low, compared to recent standards, in relation to stock prices.

Business sentiment generally seems to be improving with the approach of the spring months, but there was nothing in the day's news to indicate any turn for the better as yet. The flood of call money in a large measure attributable to slack commercial credit requirements.

Coca Cola Gains 11 Points.

High fliers on the market were Allied Chemical and Coca Cola, which amounted to about 14 and 11 points to new 1930 tops. Du Pont sold up 6 points to the best level of the year.

The American Tobacco issues rallied 7½ and 5 points as rumors of a new tobacco price cutting war were emphatically denied in trade circles where further increases were regarded as likely. General Motors rose more than 2 points to a new top. American Car & Foundry, Gillette, National Cash Register, and U. S. Alcohol were driven down about 4 points to new 1930 lows. U. S. Steel closed off a fraction.

Commodity markets were firmer. wheat futures closing 1½ to 2 cents higher, on reports of good flour sales and bullish weather and crop conditions. Corn sold up a cent and more, and cotton closed 45 cents to $1.40 a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges were firm, as the low money rates here evidently began to result in reduction of foreign balances. Sterling cables rose about ¼ cent to $4.86½.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—Declines from an early advance in cotton today were followed by reactions under renewed realizing or liquidation, but, after selling off from 15.59 to 15.25 for May, the market firmed up again on covering and trade buying with the late months relatively firm. May closed at 15.57, with the general market closing very steady at new advances of 6 to 28 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 2 points. There was some overnight selling orders in evidence, but the offerings were not heavy, and the market firmed up right after the call on trade buying and covering, which appeared to be promoted by relatively steady late cables from Liverpool.

If anything, the census report placing the amount of cotton ginned for the season at 14,344,564 running bales was a shade under expectations and may have contributed to the advance which carried the active months about 8 to 18 points net higher. This met a renewal of liquidation, the demand for May contracts was much less active, while the increased premium over the same position in New Orleans to approximately the 38-point differential, seemed to bring in rather freer offerings. This probably promoted some selling of later deliveries, which sent the general list about 8 to 19 points net lower before the end of the morning. Offerings then tapered off, and rather irregular fluctuations during the middle of the day were followed by quite sharp advances in the late trading when there was a renewal of covering combined with trade and New Orleans buying.

The relatively steady ruling of the late months was attributed partly to further undoing of straddle between late and near months. At the close May was 20 points over the new October contract compared with a difference of 30 points at the close of the previous day. The new October contract after selling up to 15.26 early reacted to 15.05, later advancing to 15.39 and closing at 15.37.

The average weight of bales for the season as reported by the Census Bureau was unusually heavy, being 500.5 pounds, and the ginnings in equivalent to 500-pound bales amounted to 14,821,499, or within 98,000 of the Government's December estimate. Port receipts today, 8,177. United States port stocks, 1,951,921. Exports, 11,124 making 5,731,788 so far this season.

BOND PRICES GAIN IN $30,000,000 DAY

GOODYEAR TIRE RALLIES

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—The most vigorous bond market in several years carried prices of leading stock exchange issues 1 to 2 points higher today in a $30,000,000 trading session. This volume just exceeded the total of last October 29, which had been the highest in some time.

Today's demonstration of strength covered the entire domestic list. Some of the low-priced bonds rose several points and the average price of 30 foreign issues went to 100.5, representing an advance of nearly half a point this week.

With call money renewing at 2 per cent, the lowest since November, 1924, after the Bank of England had reduced its discount rate, the flow of funds into bonds assumed enormous proportions. Dealers cut bankers' acceptances a quarter of a point and time money showed an easier undertone. The call rate later went to 2½ per cent on the withdrawal of funds by prospective out-of-town lenders, who had become discouraged by the low rates and the slow demand. The market was convinced, however, that a period of easy money had come to stay awhile and prices rose steadily to the close.

U. S. Shares Eagerly Bought.

Several of the United States Governments were eagerly bought. The fourth Liberties rose ten-thirty-second on a turnover of $500,000, par value. Liberty 3½s and Treasury 4s were also strong.

High spots in the day's dealings included the strength and activity of the convertibles, most of which pushed the new 1930 highs. Of even greater interest, nevertheless, was the inquiry for rails of all descriptions, especially the secondary and semi-speculative issues. Indications that these listings were beginning to catch up with better rated bonds appeared earlier in the week, but today the movement toward this group gained considerable momentum. Atlantic & Danville first 4s rose 8 points, St. Paul adjustment 5s more than 3, New York, Ontario & Western refunding 4s and Norfolk & Southern 5s nearly 6, and Seaboard All-Florida 6s, 3.

The stronger investment rails included Canadian National 4½s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Louisville & Nashville 4s, Pennsylvania consolidated 4s, Northern Pacific 6s, St. Louis San Francisco 4½s, Southern Railway general 4s, and Wabash 4½s, all of which advanced 1 to 2 points. Missouri Pacific bonds were strong and exceedingly active.

American Telephone 5s Gain.

American Telephone 5s of 1965, and International Telephone 5s traded in large blocks, making new highs. Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s and Armour 4½s rose a point, Pressed Steel Car 6s advanced 3, Ajax Rubber 8s soared 11 and White Sewing Machine 6s were marked up 6.

Railroad convertibles led the stock feature group, with gains a point or more for New Haven 6s, Missouri Pacific 5½s, Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s and Atchison 4½s.

American Telephone 4½s closed at the new 1930 high of 164¼ after having touched 165.

Trading in foreign bonds was relatively quiet and profit taking was at work in a few of the recent strong issues, but the group closed generally higher with South Americans again in the van.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold decreased 159,000,000; sight balances abroad decreased 22,000,000; bills discounted at home decreased 197,000,000; bills discounted abroad increased 9,000,000; advances decreased 41,000,000; circulation decreased 403,000,000; current accounts decreased 84,000,000.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve increased 3,180,000; circulation decreased 1,557,000; bullion increased 1,623,000; other securities decreased 1,212,000; public deposits increased 3,895,000; other deposits increased 2,225,000; notes reserve increased 3,142,000; government securities increased 4,150,000.

The National Bank of Norway reduced its discount rate from 5 per cent to 4½ per cent today.

McGraw Electric Co. reported 1929 net sales were $4,875,996, compared with $4,400,355 in 1928. Net profits for 1929 were $1,013,058, equal to $4.05 a share, against $3.58 in 1928.

Compania Swift Internacional reported net earnings of $2,450,888 in 1929, against $2,739,501 in 1928. Earnings were equal to $3.70 a share, against 7 cents the previous year. Compania Swift Internacional controls South American and Australian plants of Swift & Co.

Total borrowings against stock collateral by members of the New York Stock Exchange on March 1 amounted to 5.89 per cent of the market value of all listed stocks, an increase of 0.12 per cent from February 1, the exchange announced today. This is the first increase since the stock market crash last November. The ratio as of March 1, 1929, was 9.29 per cent.

The Richfield Oil Co., of California, has extended its retail distribution of gasoline and other petroleum products, to Arizona, with initial operations at Phoenix and Prescott.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank's weekly statement of gold movements at this port for the period ending March 19, showed imports of $5,331,000, of which $5,239,000 came from Brazil and $92,000 chiefly from other Latin-American countries, and exports of $20,000 to Germany. There was no net change in the amount of gold earmarked for foreign account.

General Motors dealers in the United States last month delivered 88,742 cars to consumers, compared with 110,148 for the corresponding month a year ago. Sales by General Motors manufacturing divisions to dealers in the country last month amounted to 100,904 cars, as against 141,422 in February, 1929. Total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, amounted to 126,196 cars, as contrasted with 175,148 in the same month last year.

Wall street heard today that opposition had developed to the reported plans for the General Banking Corporation to obtain additional working capital through a debenture issue, and that the plans have been indefinitely postponed.

Advice on Investments By CHARLES W. STORM

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

General Baking Preferred.

H. P. W.—Will you inform me as to what cause is assigned for the recent rather drastic decline in the price of General Baking 6 per cent preferred stock? I am aware that the report for 1929 showed only a few cents more than the preferred dividend earned, but it was also stated that the expansion or renovation program, financed from earnings, was completed and that future prospects were good. Assuming the truth of this, I am unable to explain the present low price, unless there is some unfavorable future development forecast.

Answer—Apart from the poor showing of earnings, there does not appear to be much other to explain the recent decline in General Baking 6 per cent preferred stock, which, in the opinion of the writer, is sufficient, unless it be the fact that the balance sheet as of December 28, 1929, showed an excess of current liabilities over current assets of $424,574, comparing with a net working capital on December 29, 1928, of $2,092,885.

In his remarks to stockholders, accompanying the report for 52 weeks ended December 28, 1929, F. H. Frazier, chairman, said that operations in the past year were somewhat interfered with by building and modernization program being carried on two-thirds of the corporation's 50 plants. These physicial improvements involved expenditures of $4,808,024 during the year, of which only $2,712,508 was added to plant account.

At a subsequent date Mr. Frazier announced that sales of the corporation for 1929 approximated $50,000,000 and established General Baking as the largest baker of bread in the world, with 1929 production estimated at 500,000,000 loaves. The remodeled plants of the company, it has been stated, would have an aggregate capacity of 25,000 loaves of bread an hour, increasing daily capacity of greater New York units to a total of approximately 800,000 loaves a day. Instead of there being "some unfavorable future development forecast," it would appear from the foregoing facts concerning the company's modernization and expansion, that the future outlook for business is most encouraging.

Three Motor Stocks.

C. W.—I would like your opinion on the 1930 prospects of Nash, Reo and Studebaker motors. How do they compare with other automobile stocks? Nash Motors looks very attractive at its present price if it can continue to pay $6 dividends.

Answer—While there is still some doubt as to the volume of business of all the automobile concerns, including those named, for the year 1930, the prospects at this writing appear to be considerably better than they were in the closing days of 1929, following the great stock market crash. Both Nash and Studebaker compare very favorably with the other automobile stocks of standing. The writer agrees with you that Nash looks very attractive at present prices, and the same may also be said, in a measure, concerning Studebaker.

Earnings of Nash Motors for the year ended November 30, 1929, were 13½ per cent under those for the previous fiscal year, but, at that, they were slightly in excess of the $6 dividend requirement on the common, which dividend has been maintained since 1927. As to whether or not the dividend can be kept on that basis throughout 1930 is, of course, problematical, all depending upon the volume of business of the company and the prices to be obtained for its automobiles.

St. Paul and Others.

R. P.—Will you kindly answer the following questions for me: What is your opinion of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific R. R. common stock? I have 40 shares, bought in December, 1929, at 27⅜. Would you advise holding for a long pull? Also what do you think of Curtiss-Wright common and Transcontinental Air Transport?

Answer—While Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul common, on which no dividend is being paid, is in the speculative class and not to be considered in the nature of an investment, it, nevertheless, has considerable attraction for the long pull, despite the fact that net operating income of the company for the year 1929 was almost $3,000,000 under that for 1928. However, the company earned in the nine months ended September 30 last, after preferred dividends, 75 cents per common share, comparing with 38 cents per common share in the corresponding period of 1928. Balance sheet dated September 30, 1929, indicated total book value of $154,243,858 applicable to the 1,174,060 no par common shares, or $131.38 per share, compared with $124.53 per share on December 31, 1928. Curtiss Wright common and Transcontinental Air Transport, both in the nondividend paying class, are considered highly speculative, though with considerable attractiveness for any one desirous of holding them over a period of years.

Middle States Oil.

J. W.—Years ago I bought Middle States Oil. Shortly after the company went bankrupt I was asked to exchange my stock for certificates, but did not do it, and I haven't heard from the company since. Now I see the certificates are still listed on the New York Stock Exchange, while Middle States Oil stock is not. Does this mean that the stock has no value and that everything is lost?

Answer—On the face of it, you having failed to turn in your stock for exchange as requested, it would appear that your shares have no present value. However, it was pointed out in December of last year that a recent sale at auction of the assets of Middle States Oil Corporation and several subsidiaries to the reorganization committee was for the purpose of balancing equities and was nothing more than an exchange of securities guaranteed by the old company for securities of the company to be organized. While the time for depositing Middle States Oil Corporation stock and notes under the plan of reorganization expired December 26, 1929, it may be possible that if you were to turn in your stock to the Empire Trust Co., New York City, you might be permitted to participate in the reorganization and formation of the new company. However, this is doubtful. Nevertheless, it is worth trying.

EVERY one reads a newspaper and experience will prove that The Washington Post best fulfills your need for national and local news and entertaining features. By subscribing to this newspaper you not only secure it at lower cost than by purchasing individual copies on the street but you are assured of daily delivery "the first thing in the morning"—a convenience beyond price. To acquaint a wider circle with the advantages of subscribing to The Post this newspaper has offered prizes to the value of $20,000 to men and women of this community who are using their spare time to secure subscriptions. Each subscription counts for a definite number of votes (as indicated in the table on the left) and the person who secures the greatest number of votes by the close of the campaign on April 5, will be presented with this magnificent new Cadillac automobile. Eleven other automobiles and sixteen radio sets will be presented to 27 other candidates in the order of their vote standing and the value of the prizes.... If your neighbor is competing you can help him win!

Vote Value of Subscriptions
PAYABLE IN ADVANCE

Subscription rates in The Washington Post are shown below. The vote values as shown here apply only to new subscriptions. Old or renewal subscriptions entitle the candidate to half the number of regular votes issued on new subscriptions.

OPPORTUNITY FOR NEW ENTRANTS

The extended term for which subscriptions may be taken, combined with the new "Second Payment" vote scale, as explained in the table to the right, opens up a new opportunity for those who have not yet engaged in this thrilling contest. By these means a new candidate may within a very few days equalize his vote standing with that of older contestants and be on an equal footing for the dash down the last lap to victory.

The territory is divided into two divisions and eight districts, in each of which big prizes MUST be awarded. Some of these districts are practically without representation and any ambitious man or woman could enter and easily secure a rich reward for little effort. May we suggest that you call and talk it over with the campaign manager whose office is located on the fifth floor of The Post Building.

$500 IN EXTRA GOLD

and 85,000 Extra Votes for Each $20 Worth of New Subscriptions

During the period between March 13 and March 26, the person who secures the greatest amount in new subscription payments will be presented with $500 in gold. This is in addition to the 85,000 extra votes that he or she, and every other candidate, will receive for each $20 worth of new subscriptions turned in. The winner of this special prize will undoubtedly be in a position to win one of the capital automobile prizes as well.

Favorite Runs Second by 1-2 Length

Eil Weir Never Able to Get to Winner in 2-Horse Race.

Queen Towton Noses Out Guide Right at St. John's.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, New Orleans, March 20 (A.P.).—Over a track that was deceivingly dry on top, but heavy underneath, Coral Beach, running in the silks of F. Swayn, scored a victory in the Right Way Purse, the best offering on the card here today. Eli Weir, the favorite, was second and Hernan Cortes third. The warm sun and the harrows worked wonders in the track proper. The going dried out considerably on top, but under the surface it was very heavy and the boys were instructed to keep well out in the middle of the track with their mounts. All the winners finished out under the judges' stand.

Coral Beach rushed to the front, followed by Eli Weir. They drew away from the rest of the field and had the race between them. Coral Beach proved the best and won by half a length. Eli Weir beat Hernan Cortes five lengths for the place. The winner paid $8.00 and the time was 1:19 2-5.

Queen Towton Scores At St. John's.

St. John's Race Track, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Queen Towton, A. G. Dunlap's 8-year-old mare, scored her first victory for the winter season today in accounting for the Bennett Hotel Purse.

Coming from behind in the stretch, Queen Towton covered the 6 furlongs in 48 2-5 seconds to nose out Guide Right, from the Brannicastle Stable. Mud trailed in third place, while Judge Hay, the well-backed favorite ran fifth. The winner paid $8.00 for a $2 mutuels ticket.

Fred Dainty, who recently graduated from the apprentice ranks, showed the way to the riders with three winners. He brought home Blade in the third, and Nicholson in the sixth, in addition to Queen Towton. The first two were the favorites.

Whitney's Easter Hero Will Start in Classic

Wantage, England, March 20 (A.P.). Jack Anthony, trainer, today said that Easter Hero, J. H. Whitney's noted steeplechaser, was a certain runner for the Grand National, March 28.

Easter Hero was returned to his stable here yesterday after undergoing a course of ray treatment for lameness at a veterinary establishment in Swindon.

When it was first found that Easter Hero had gone lame several days after winning the gold cup at Cheltenham, it was feared that he would have to be scratched from the Grand National, for which he is one of the favorites.

He was immediately put under a veterinary's care and his recovery was viewed as remarkable, considering that he had been found dead lame.

2,000 Watch Amateurs In Bouts at Chicago

Chicago, March 20 (A.P.).—Amateurs, competing in the finals of the Golden Gloves Tournament, have shattered all attendance records for indoor boxing shows.

Twenty-three thousand spectators jammed the Chicago Stadium last night to watch the Chicago team defeat New York's team, 10 matches to 6. The previous indoor record was established by the Mickey Walker-Tommy Loughran light-heavyweight championship match a year ago, when more than 18,000 fans were present.

Receipts for last night's inter-city finals were estimated at $50,000, which will be turned over to charity.

Fourteen of the sixteen matches were decision affairs, one ended in a knockout and another in a foul.

Ross, Golf Architect, Honored at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., March 20 (A.P.).—Warm tribute was paid to Donald J. Ross here tonight at a banquet in honor of the well-known golf architect. John Fahey, of Washington, D. C., former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was principal speaker.

Fahey and others who made addresses praised Mr. Ross for his contribution to the development of golfing in the United States. Among those speaking were H. C. Fownes, of Pittsburgh; Fred Wardell, of Detroit, and A. S. Newcomb, of Pinehurst.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 20.—Eleven baseball games will be played by the Alexandria High School Team this season, it was announced today by Athletic Director Reynolds. Eight of these games have already been scheduled, while arrangements are being made to secure the remaining three. Six of these contests are to be played on foreign fields, while only two games arranged so far are to be played here.

The track candidates at the Maroon and White institution are working out daily under Capt. Pete Williams. The local high school will enter five meets this year—namely: The "C" Club Meet, in Washington; the University of Maryland Scholastic Meet, dual meet with Washington and Lee High School, Third District Meet, and University of Virginia Scholastic Meet. The baseball schedule follows:

April 4—Hyattsville High School, here.
April 11—Open.

The Alexandria High School Girls Basket Ball Team will play the Alexandria Public School Teachers tomorrow night in the second game between the two teams. In the first game the Teachers won by a 2-point margin in the last minute of play when Miss Berger shot a basket from a difficult angle. The game, at Armory Hall, will start at 8 o'clock.

The St. Mary's Celtics Baseball Team will practice every afternoon from now on at 5:30 o'clock. The practice will be held under Coach Brownie Lemeric, who is in charge of the local boys for the second year.

Everything is ready for the benefit games to be played here Saturday night for George Ramey, local sport follower, who is ill. In the preliminary game the St. Mary's Celtics will play the Quantico Marines, while in the feature the Knight Store Five will play an all-high team picked from Alexandria, George Mason and Washington and Lee High Schools. Jeff Williams has charge of picking the all-high team, and it is expected that he will pick three men from each school.

2 EASTERN NINES PLAY TODAY

Regulars to Battle Yannigans in First Season Game.

COMPETITION—that magic factor which can turn an ordinary workout into an afternoon of zest—will hold forth for the first time this season on a high school baseball diamond this afternoon when "Chief" Charley Guyon divides his Eastern candidates into a regular and yannigan nine for a short practice game. It will be the first attempt of any high school coach to get a line on his charges by any means other than batting and fielding practice this year.

That the Lincoln Parkers are well prepared for their initial workout in actual game conditions was indicated yesterday, however, when the two Eastern coaches, Guyon and Jack Ray, put their charges through a brisk workout, which revealed more than a few of the Light Blue and White players even now ready to take the field for combat. While Guyon was knocking them to his outfielders, Ray was driving the ball around for infield practice, and the way those boys were firing the horsehide around the bases would have done credit to midseason form.

Kessler Performed Well at Short.

With the inner works composed of Zola at third, Kessler at shortstop, Wood at second and Veihmeyer at first, not many balls found their way through this quartet, and had any players been at bat or on the bases it would have been extremely difficult to advance. Kessler, at his post, looked especially sweet, handling all balls that came his way in a clean, snappy fashion and pairing off with Wood in performing the double-play function around second base in clever fashion.

Snyder, Seigel and Shirley, working out at intervals from the catching position, looked equally good, with the second-named impressing with direct, low throws to all the bases on his pegs. Throughout the afternoon Curtin, Millar and Noonan were warming up their arms for today's duty on the slab, while a bunch of youngsters led by Jimmy Montague were shagging flies in the outfield.

It begins to look as if Eastern were in earnest about keeping that diamond title gained last year.

"BILL" CHILDRESS NOW!

Bill Childress, brother of the Don of long ago, is following in his brother's footsteps at Central High School. Although only a sub on the football team last fall, Childress is showing promise as a pitcher and may be one of Central's regular hurlers when the baseball season opens.

GRAY DEVELOPED AT G. W.

Bob Gray, captain of the George Washington Basket Ball Team for the recent season, never played the court game in his four years at Central High School. After showing promise on the Colonial yearling five in 1927, he went straight to the varsity on which he has been a regular ever since.

2 COACHES FOR BASEBALL.

Not many high schools have two coaches for baseball, but that is just the case at Eastern. Jack Ray is doing more than his share to help Chief" Guyon to turn out another championship team at the Lincoln Park institution.

Second Baseman Buddie Myer this morning pulled up with a slightly sore arm and confined his throwing efforts to lobs. The wing has not been injured but simply is protesting at the strenuous use to which it has been put recently.

PITCHING HOLDS 1930 FATE OF WEAK-HITTING NATS

College Teams Await Start Of Bouts

Bordeau, G.U., Draws Bye in First Round Match Tonight.

N. Y. U. Team Looms Large in Chance to Score Upset.

As Georgetown's boxers await the bell, sounding the opening of the intercollegiate championships at Philadelphia tonight, close observers of the situation are counting seriously the chances of New York University's team, a late entry, scoring an upset.

The Violet leather pushers have lost but one dual meet this year, that to Army by a 4-3 score, and the luck of the draw, according to the experts, places N. Y. U. in a favorable position at the outset. Penn State, Navy and Western Maryland previously had been considered the dominant figures.

Georgetown's chances of coming through to win the coveted team title won last year by Penn State, are not highly regarded by those who claim to know their college boxing, but nevertheless the local battlers are not one whit awed by the task that confronts them.

Bordeau Gets Bye For 1st Round.

According to a corrected arrangement of first-round pairings, Leroy "Buddy" Bordeau, Georgetown's star light-heavyweight, will advance to the second round without fighting, as Massachusetts Tech, the team drawn with Georgetown in the 175-pound bout, has no entry at the weight.

Bordeau, Mike Tardugno, featherweight, and Capt. Charley Fish, defending welterweight champion, are expected to carry the burden for Georgetown. Gerard McAllister, bantamweight; Henry Murphy, lightweight; Jack Tierney, middleweight, and Don Donaldson, heavyweight, are the other Blue and Gray representatives.

Tardugno's first-round opponent will be Kalman, of M. I. T., while Fish will square off against Borchers, of Western Maryland. In a recent clash at Westminster, Md., Fish easily outpointed Borchers. The draw originally had placed Fish against Hall, Navy, whom the G. U. captain defeated last year in the title tournament and again this year in a meet at Annapolis.

New York U.'s most capable men are Pinsky, featherweight; Siomowitz, lightweight; Gold, welterweight; Hutner, middleweight, and Sirutis, heavyweight. Hutner has been fighting in the light-heavyweight class and recently scored the first defeat ever suffered by Lou Mutzel, crack Bucknell boxer. Hutner's first-round foe is Ted Klepac, Western Maryland's light-heavyweight champion. Klepac

Navy Team Confident Of Winning Ring Title

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 20.—The eve of the intercollegiate boxing tournament to be staged at the University of Pennsylvania tomorrow and Saturday found the Naval Academy boxers in prime condition and confident of their ability to eke out a victory for team honors.

The Tars did not fare favorably in the driwangs for the preliminary rounds to be run off tomorrow night, as tehy will en counter stiff opposition in practically every class. Greatest hope is placed in Capt. Paul Moret, light-heavyweight; Hall, welterweight; Fitzgerald, featherweight, and Dempsey, bantamweight.

Moret has the greatest record in dual meets here for the season. He participated in all but one engagement and won all of his bouts. Dempsey who has engaged in only three contests, lost one to Epstein, of Penn State; Fitzgerald and Hall each lost two bouts. Wallace, lightweight, might be figured in the reckoning but for his decisive defeat by Crosby, intercollegiate champion of western Maryland. Swan is no mean contender in the light-heavy class, but the Middies have been weak in the heavyweight division.

Cobb, Here, Tired of Game, Is Glad to Be Free, He Says

Georgia Peach Happy to Foresake Diamond After 25 Years.

By R. J. ATKINSON.

THE man who dominated the game for a quarter of a century is tired of baseball and glad to be unfettered by 154-game schedules, time tables and the hit-and-run.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb halted at Union Station last night en route from New York to his home in Atlanta long enough to say that he is content to remain aloof from the game that made his name a by-word with fans.

"After twenty-five years as player and manager, following long schedules day in and day out, I am glad to get the chance to live as I want to for the remainder of my days," the original "Georgia Peach" said.

So it's off to Europe again this summer for the man who ranks as the greatest all-around star the national game has produced. Ty spent most of last summer, his first off the diamond, in Europe, and he announced last night that he is making ready to sail for England in the near future.

Much the Same Cobb Who Played for A's.

Showing no signs of excess weight and much the same Ty after more than a year away from the rigors of baseball campaigning, the former Detroit and Philadelphia Athletics star stepped off a train from New York, posed for a photograph, chatted a few minutes and then boarded another train for his home in Atlanta. Cobb gave a brief talk over the radio

SHIRES SAYS HE'LL QUIT WHITE SOX

"Sick of Being Bulldozed" by Comiskey, Declares Holdout.

DALLAS Tex., March 20 (A.P.).—Declaring he was "sick of being bulldozed" by Charles Comiskey, Chicago White Sox owner, Art Shires, erstwhile first baseman, has announced that he never again will play with the team.

In a telephone conversation last night from his home in Italy, Tex., "Art the Great" admitted he had received a telegram from Comiskey asking him "while participating in the fight ring, who suspended you and who produced the evidence that caused the reinstatement?"

"The boxing commissions have records of this," Shires declared. "But I'm not a bureau of information for Comiskey or anyone else. If Comiskey wants to know anything about the fight racket, let him go to the boxing commissions. They have all the dope. I wasn't guilty of any wrong doing."

Will Ask Voluntary Retirement.

He said he was going to ask the White Sox to place him on the voluntarily retired list, then planned to proceed with other plans, probably to play semipro ball in which he believed he could make more money than the Chicago club offered him.

Shires has been classed as a holdout since he failed to sign the first and only contract tendered him by the Sox management.

BURKE LEADS IN LA GORCE TOURNEY

New York Pro's 68 Tops Qualifiers in $15,000 Open.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Billy Burke, young professional of Westport, N. Y., shot below-par golf to lead the field with a 68 at the end of the first 18 holes of the 72-hole $15,000 La Gorce open tournament here today.

Burke knocked 3 off par and turned in 34's on both outward and homeward nines. His card showed four birdies, with only one hole over par.

Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., was second among the 64 entrants, chalking up a 70 for the eighteen-hole round. Wood had a 36 for the first nine, but came back with a 34.

In third place, Horton Smith, Cragston, N. Y., winner of first prize money last year; Bill Mehlhorn, Pensacola, and Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, Fla., were tied with 71 each. Mehlhorn took a 36 going out and a 35 going in, while Gamber and Smith marked up 34's on the first nine and 37's on the second.

Armour in Group Carding 72.

Ed. Dudley, Wilmington, Del.; Tom Rakiets, Cleveland, Ohio, and Tommy Armour, Boca Raton, followed, each with 72. Gene Sarazen, Fresh Meadow, Long Island, found the traps on the par four tenth, running his total up to 74.

Densmore Shute, young Columbus, Ohio, star, couldn't keep his distance shots in step with his putts, and ended with a score of 83 for the eighteen holes.

Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., who took top money in 1928, played a steady game throughout, but the greens took heavy toll in putts. He added a 37 on the final nine to a 37 on the outward trip for a total of 74.

The second eighteen holes of the qualifying round will be played tomorrow and the 64 low scores continue in the tournament.

$75,000 Field House, Plan of Maryland U.

A field house for basket ball, wrestling and boxing, providing accommodations for 3,000 persons, has been planned by Maryland University and may be completed before the start of the 1930-1931 court season. Arrangements for financing the project, which will cost $75,000, have been made.

If the new plant is ready for use within a year, Ritchie Gymnasium, heretofore the scene of Maryland's home basket ball games, will be converted into an armory for the use of the students' military training unit. Along with a nine-hole golf course and a minimum $20,000 swimming pool also contemplated and numerous other facilities now available, the new field house will give Maryland the most completely equipped athletic plant in this section of the country.

Hilltop Nine Defeated in Debut, 7-6

Davidson Ties Score in 9th on 2 Triples, and Wins in 10th.

Poole Knocked Out of Box; McCarthy Is Batting Hero.

Special to The Washington Post.

DAVIDSON, N. C., March 20.—Georgetown University's Baseball Team came miles from home today to strike a snag in its first game of the season. The snag was presented by Davidson College's Nine, more especially by Pitcher Henderson, the hero of the afternoon, and the Presbyterians won a hard-fought ten-inning conte't by a score of 7 to .

Henderson entered the box in the seventh inning when Georgetown was leading, 6 to 5, and held the visitors hitless and scoreless until the finish. He doubled in the tenth as the first Davidson batter and scored the decisive run on Bernhardt's single.

Georgetown started off auspiciously, driving two Davidson hurlers to the showers in an attack which netted six runs in as many innings. Harold Poole, starting pitcher for Georgetown, meanwhile was keeping the home hitters away from the plate in spite of a streak of wildness. Finally in the sixth he lost control, and the Presbyterians clubbed him for four runs before Frank Bauman relieved him with two out.

Goodson and McGinnis Triple in Ninth.

Davidson tied the score in the ninth when Goodson tripled to right and completed the circuit on another three-bagger by McGinnis.

Capt. Ralph McCarthy led the Washington sluggers with a single, double and triple in five chances, while Dunn hit a single and triple, and Rapp a single and double.

Tomorrow Georgetown moves over to Wake Forest to battle the collegians there, and on Saturday will meet Guilford College in the finale of its Southern invasion.

Reds' Infield Practice Pleasing to Howley

Orlando, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—An abbreviated but diversified workout was taken today by the Cincinnati Reds, who left here at noon on a motor bus trip to Fort Myers where an exhibition game will be played tomorrow with the Athletics. Manager Dan Howley was pleased with today's infield practice.

Heilmann, Critz and Kolp, who have been on the ailing list for several days, were reported recovering. They are suffering from sore arms, Charlie horses, and Critz with a severe neck sprain. Critz was hurt in a fall while fielding a grounder.

The Reds will break camp here in about ten days. They will be away on an exhibition game trip until Tuesday, when they will return for for a few days' training and then head North on March 31.

Bookings for Carnera In Midwest Announced

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, the Ambling Alp, plans to continue his fungo hitting through the Midwest and along the Pacific Coast following an engagement in Jacksonville, Fla., tonight.

Carnera's playmates have not been named but it was disclosed today that he will box in Kansas City March 26 and Denver a week later. He is then booked for engagements in Seattle, Oakland, San Francisco and Los Angeles. So far in his American appearances Primo has wiped out ten heavyweights for a net profit of $100,000.

Prep Tournaments Vetoed To Curb College Recruiting

CHICAGO, March 20 (A.P.).—A knockout blow against college and university conducted prep athletic tournaments was aimed by the powerful North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools today.

The association's commission on institutions of higher education approved the principle of a resolution, which would not only discourage such athletic meets, but also would threaten with expulsion all colleges and universities holding them. The resolution, referred to the commission's athletic committee for report next year, is almost assured of coming out in similar form again.

While no open charges were made by the committee that such tournaments were bright-colored cloaks for organized moves to recruit prep athletes, the resolution stated such an evil was possible if not probable.

Many national high school tournaments would be affected by the rule, including the University of Chicago's annual national interscholastic basket ball championship, the twelfth edition of which will be played here next week. The University of Chicago is a member of the association and Vice President Frederic Woodzard today said it naturally would not risk its standing.

C. W. Whitten, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of State High Schools, addressed today's meeting and pleaded with the delegates to "let high school athletes alone and let them choose the colleges and universities they want to attend." Prep stars today are literally besieged with proposals from colleges and universities, he said, and a competitive recruiting program was noticeable everywhere.

Sordid Dollar Drug to Ambition in Sports, Says Stagg, as Primo Welcomes Ill Wind

Success Measured in Cash and Assets, Coach Forgets.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

THESE be significant news in the papers.

Primo Carnera, 255 pounds of tissue, glands and bony structure, animated by an intellect of problematic power, has collected more than $100,000 within three months in the U. S. A. To earn this money, Primo has rushed out of his corner, hurled his physique at ten chumps, knocked them sprawling within six minutes at most, clasped his huge paws, as big as dredging buckets, above his head in token of self-congratulation, and smiled a horrible buck-tooth smile. His earnings thus may be computed at $100,000 an hour, actual working time, or quite a lot more than a union bricklayer, carpenter, mill-hand or conscientious house-to-house canvasser may hope to make in several months.

Also, Sidney Terris, an agreeable young prize fighter with a Tendon Achilles in his chin, appears in the syndicate pictures with his bride. Sidney, never a champion, but always theatrical, what with his elusive skipping and his sudden grovelling, must have earned half again as much as Primo, within the last half-dozen years. Now he has enough money, if he hasn't high-spaded it away, as I understand he hasn't, to withdraw from pugilism, retire to the modest luxury of some pleasant station along the route of the five-fifteen, and live on his coupons to the end of his time.

Sport Not so Nice As Definition.

And yet, Mr. Amos A. Stagg, who would speak for the young chaps of this time, asserted no later than October, last, that the financial consideration was a drug to ambition in sport. I suppose a nice definition of the word sport would let him out but the common interpretation of the word is not so nice as that. Sport, in the generally accepted meaning of the term, now includes the sport industry, and here are two young men who can not be said to have been deterred in their progress by the sordid tintinnabulation of the hard money in the box-office drawer.

Of course, Mr. Stagg meant that sport and the dollar were the asthetic and the material qualities, respectively, and that is correct enough, but it

Burden Falls On Infield, Twirlers

Team Can Not Slug With Rivals Even With Goslin.

Defense Satisfactory; Expect Aid From Liska, Hadley.

Herewith is the last of a series of sixteen articles by first-hand observers dealing with the pennant prospects of the major league teams now in the South.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post.)

BILOXI, Miss., March 19.—Trying to figure out the Nationals' chances in the coming pennant race is about as difficult as it would be for one to select the winner of any particular hole in a golf match between Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen. One might shoot par figures, but the total would not do any good if the other fellow registered a birdie or an eagle.

The Washington Team this spring appears to be an improvement over that if 1929, but some of the teams which trailed them last season may have improved more, making the Nats' immediate future more or less hazy.

Manager Walter Johnson is shooting for a first division berth and, knowing that the holdout disease is never chronic, is confidently looking for Outfielder Goose Goslin to fall in ere long. And, when the Wild Goose of the Potomac does show up, he may be expected to put up a better game than he did last year.

The Nationals, on paper at least, can not hope to hold their own in slugging with many of their opponents, and they must make up for this shortcoming with superior pitching and tighter work in the infield.

Well Fortified In Infield.

Regarding the infield, there is no doubt but what the Nats will hold their own. Third baseman Ossie Buege, out much of last season because of an injured knee, seems to have been cured by his operation of last fall and showing up as well as he ever did; Shortstop Joe Cronin is a comer who looks to be getting added power in his hitting; Buddie Meer, a natural batter, is fast picking up the fine points as a fielder around the second sack, while Capt. Joe Judge's ability as a first baseman requires no comment unless it might be mentioned that he appears to be working in midseason form and has as much pep as any youngster in the camp.

Assuming that Goslin will be in the fold cavorting in left field and also that he can not help but have a better year than he had in 1929, the Nats will have a fair outfield. The veteran Sam Rice may be depended upon to get his share of hits, while, if Emile Barnes beats out Sammy West for the center-field berth, he will add offensive power which may more than make up for his inferiority to West as a fly chaser, and, if the latter wins himself a berth, it is a certainty that he will have improved as a hitter.

Hadley and Liska Carry Hopes.

It is the pitching staff, therefore, which will decide the National's fate, for Herold Ruel and Bennie Tate can hold up the receiving end. Last year the failure of Irving Hadley and Adolph Liska to come through dashed the Nats' hopes. This spring these youngsters are showing their best form, and every indication points to both being consistent winners.

Lloyd Brown is another youngster who gives every sign of having at last found himself, while Bobby Burke, another youthful southpaw, also is displaying plenty of stuff.

With Fred Marberry going like a house afire and sure to turn in close to twenty triumphs, barring an injury, and Garland Braxton, Sam Jones and Myles Thomas capable of turning in their share of victories, Johnson figures that he will have eight pitchers available, any of whom has a good chance of winning his game any time he starts. Carlos Moore, a big fellow with plenty of stuff, appears to be the only rookie candidate to have much of a chance of being any use.

Regarding utility talent, the Nationals are fairly strong in the infield, for Jack Hayes can capably fill

Hitting the Baseball Trail

ST. LOUIS, March 20 (A.P.).—Heinie Manush, slugging outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, who has been a stubborn holdout this spring, has signed a contract for 1930 and will go into training with the team at West Palm Beach, Fla., immediately, Vice President McEvoy of the Browns announced today. The announcement followed receipt of a wire from Business Manager Bill Friel, who has been negotiating with Manush in Florida.

Manush's signing leaves only Pitcher George Blaeholder a holdout.

Robin Second Team Takes 6-5 Loss.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Roy Grimes' home run in the eighth inning gave the Buffalo International Leaguers a 6-to-5 victory over the Brooklyn second team today in a game that was called in the first half of the ninth on account of rain.

Doubles Give Browns 13-inning Victory.

Bradenton, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Consecutive doubles by Gelbert and Mancuso gave the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-to-7 victory over the New York Yankees in thirteen innings today.

Douthit's home run tied the score in the eighth, each side scored one in the tenth and two were out in the thirteenth, when Gelbert and Mancuso doubled to score the winning run.

Gray and Crowder Win for Browns.

Fort Pierce, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Defeated twice in a row by the Brooklyn Robins, Manager Killefer took no chances with the Milwaukee American Association Team here today, and sent his two best flingers, Sammy Gray and Al Crowder, to the mound. The American Leaguers profited by fine hurling by the pair and won an exhibition game, 9 to 3.

Peck Names Indian Starting Team.

New Orleans, March 20 (A.P.).—Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland Indians, made a tentative announcement today of the team that will start the season April 15.

It will face a line-up of Rookies tomorrow in the first regular Yanigan game and will carry the tribal colors against the New Orleans Pelicans Saturday and Sunday.

Woltz Five Defeats Company F, 42 to 22

Continuing its high-powered scoring, the Woltz Photographer Five last night humbled the Company F Cagers, 42 to 22, on the Militiamen's home court at Hyattsville.

Led by Forney and Buscher, the victors took an early lead and were in front, 20 to 12, at intermission, and never were in danger of being headed. Rufus Vincent was the same consistent scorer for the Soldiers, leading the individual point collectors.

TITLE COURT PLAY REACHES TENSE STAGE TONIGHT

School Stars With Teams In Tourney

Outstanding Fives to Clash in Quest of A.A.U. Crowns.

Montrose to Engage Calvary; Stewarts Meet Drakes.

THE thrilling stage will be reached tonight in the District A. A. U. Championship Basket Ball Tournament being staged at the Tech High School Gymnasium and sponsored by The Washington Post. Changes in the schedule made necessary by conflicting league games have served to make tonight's program the outstanding line-up of championship rivals since the tournament got under way. From 7 o'clock to 11 o'clock the Community Center Court should hum with good basket ball.

There is no outstanding feature, but every game appears, on past performances, to carry a "kick." The Crescent and De Luxe Fives who start the program, are topnotch contenders for the 145-pound crown. Each has been a consistent winner, and both number outstanding stars in their line-ups. Everett Russell, Tech's brilliant forward and 1931 captain, will lead the Crescents against De Luxe.

Schoolboy Stars With Emerson Quintet.

Emerson & Orme combination of Eastern and Central High School stars, including Noonan, Everett Cross Dallas Shirley and others, meets the famed Dixie Pigs. The Emersons eliminated the Walter Whirlwinds in the first round, while the Pigs defeated Naval Hospital.

In the 9 o'clock game, the Stewart Brothers' Photographers, who made merry at the expense of the Potomac A. C. in the first round, will have a battle on their hands in meeting the Calvary Drakes. The Drakes won in the first round over the Wallace Memorial Five. Stewarts will depend on Dave Kepple and company against a team which offers Anthony Latona, of Western, as its big star, much interest in the outcome of Calvary and Montrose Promise Battle.

Wetsern High School will have the Montrose-Calvary M. E. clash in the unlimited division. The Thompson brothers, Jim and Herbie; Bob Freeman and others, present and past Western stars, have returned to their old club for the tournament and displayed top form in the open-to 18. Calvary M. E. won a succeeding round, beating the Remsens, 44 aion of Sunday School League itles and has a fighting combination, led by Paul Gotwalls, which may trip the high school stars.

Tomorrow night's four-game program is equally as promising, bringing together evenly matched teams which are contenders in the various classes.

CLOSE COURT SEASON.

The Wallace Memorial Five will end its season tonight in a double-header attraction, with the J. C. C. Flashes and Petworth Mets furnishing the opposition. Manager Hurwitz requests players to report at the gym at 7:45 o'clock.

Changes in Schedule For Tournament Games

Due to league games which conflict, several changes in the schedule for the District A. A. U. basket ball tournament were found necessary. The St. Stephen's-Westerners has been moved to tomorrow at 7 o'clock, while the Arcadian-Fort Myer game will be played at 10 instead of 7 o'clock.

The Calvary Drakes and Stewart game will be played tonight at 9 o'clock, with the Crescent-De Luxe game shifted to 7 o'clock.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THELMA L., $12.20, $5.40, $4.10; DON TINKY, $11.90, $5.20; SOLUS, $2.60.

THELMA L. broke running, displayed good speed, came very wide in stretch and just lasted to win. DON TINKY, on the extreme outside, finished fast, but was bumped right at the end by the winner. SOLUS broke slowly, worked his way up and came with a rush at the finish. BEEKEEPER, well up from the start, ran a good race. LADY TRYSTER was caught in a jam at the start and fell.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won driving, place, easily. Went to post at 2:47. Off at 2:49. Winner, L. M. Emery's b. g. (5), by John P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LOWER FIVE, $32.80, $13.00, $8.60; SHANTY M'CARTY, $14.20, $9.50; DARE DEVIL, $4.50.

LOWER FIVE, under good handling, worked his way up and, taking the lead at the turn, won in a drive. SHANTY M'CARTY, away in a tangle, came around field and finished with a rush. DARE DEVIL was close up all the way. BOOT TOP tired badly under the weight. KING HALMA had speed for three furlongs, then quit. FLORA LEVY was left, but went after the field and closed a big gap.

THIRD RACE—Mile and one furlong. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:17. Winner, Miss Blanche Watson's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TURQUOISE, $7.50, $4.20, $3.60; HAPPY HANLY, $7.30, $4.50; TORCHER, $3.30.

TURQUOISE, under excellent handling, rushed to the front and, nicely rated in front, easily held race safe. HAPPY HANLY was kept close to the early pace and outgamed TORCHER for the place. The latter ran a much improved race.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. The Right Way. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:44. Off at 3:44½. Winner, F. Swain's br. c. NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

SUPERVISOR BOARD DEBATES ZONE PLAN

CENSUS TAKERS NAMED

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

The county board of supervisors yesterday again failed to adopt the zoning ordinance as prepared and approved by the Arlington County Zoning Commission.

The motion of Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, approved by Supervisor Edward Duncan but opposed by Supervisor E. C. Turnburke, that all property from the Key Bridge along the Lee highway and including the Greathouse property be zoned heavy industrial brought strong opposition from Fred Gosnell, chairman of the zoning commission, and Hugh Lee Kirby, resident of Mackey Hill.

Mr. Kirby stated that he had purchased a tract containing eight acres and had built a home at great expense with heavy taxes. He declared that if the Sun Oil Co. is permitted to locate on the site proposed he with others will go to court.

Mr. Gosnell fought to have a section zoned residential, stating that the motion passed making it heavy industrial will seriously injure the main approach over the Key Bridge into Virginia.

A letter protesting against the Sun Oil Co. by residents of Mackey Hill, signed by M. A. Coles, was read by the clerk. The letter, in part, follows:

"As the owner of land on Mackey's Hill for more than 25 years, I urge adoption of the final report of the zoning commission, now lawfully before you, without changes, embracing the hill and the property of Mr. Greathouse.

"The zoning act of the Legislature, effective from April 11, 1927, contemplated and provided that zoning should be done by districts covered in final reports of the commission. It did not intend that single items of property in such districts should be presented for consideration at separate hearings or in special reports upon individual petitions. It is apparent, therefore, that when you acted previously upon the Sun Oil Co.'s application, made separately and alone, you were not conforming to provisions of the zoning statute then in effect, which had superseded any other law.

"In view of the long established and vested rights of the residential property owners in this area, the generous proposals of the Federal authorities and their courteous letter of request to you for the needed cooperation by your board, it would appear extremely unpatriotic, discourteous and unfair on your part, if you now aid and abet the selfish desire of the representatives of the Sun Oil Co. to improperly attain their object by inflicting irreparable injury and untold dangers upon owners of adjoining property."

Another strong protest arose when, upon motion of Supervisor E. C. Turnburke, all property north of the Highway Bridge and between the Government property, was rezoned from residential B to light industrial. The protest came from Supervisor B. M. Hedrick and Fred Gosnell, who claimed it a mistake that that section was most suitable for construction of apartment houses.

Mr. Gosnell informed the board that instead of zoning so that property values would be increased it appeared that it was reducing property values. This section, he stated, with the completion of the Mount Vernon boulevard and other Federal improvements which are contemplated, will be more valuable as residential B instead of light commercial.

Chairman Edward Duncan stated he could give no date when the zoning ordinance will be finally adopted.

The special committee to study and report on legal distribution of the $502,500 received from Alexandria submitted the following report, which applies to Jefferson district only:

For schools, $180,000; road fund, $267,642.96; county fund, $54,857.04.

Supervisor B. M. Hedrick strongly opposed having such a large amount go to the Jefferson district road fund, claiming that it was getting twice the amount collected in that area.

Mr. Gloth stated that neither Arlington nor Washington district contributed 1 cent of the money.

"I do not think such a serious matter as this should be left to the opinion of one attorney; I think we should have a commission of three appointed," said Hedrick.

"If any one objects to this distribution, let him take the matter to court," said Supervisor Duncan.

"We are distributing this money in accordance with the recommendations of the Commonwealth's attorney," said Mr. Duncan.

Upon motion of Supervisor E. C. Turnburke, the report of the committee was adopted. Mr. Hedrick dissented.

The names of nineteen enumerators for Arlington County, comprising the second census district of Virginia, who will start work next month, were given out yesterday by J. C. Spaulding.

They are Mrs. Effie H. Hackley, Frank Sharp, Frank E. Martin, Mrs. Mary T. Webb, Mrs. Arthur M. Dawson, Charles L. Whitlock, LaRue E. Tanner, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Taylor, Davis H. Wilson, Mrs. M. C. McCann, Mrs. Minnie R. Bagby, R. L. Daniels, O. Robert Howell, Ramon C. Bearse, Mrs. Mary C. Meador, Rufus Trice, Herman Wieland, Mrs. Florence Yardley and Max B. Berstein.

According to announcement made yesterday by J. C. Spaulding, who has the contract to furnish the building to house the Clarendon Postoffice, ground for the building will be broken next Monday by Arthur C. McMillan, superintendent of construction.

The estimated cost of the building, including all new fixtures, is $90,000.

In addition to the rooms to be occupied by the postoffice, two other storerooms, fronting on Wilson boulevard, will be included.

The building will be located at the intersection of Wheeler avenue and Wilson boulevard and will be of stone construction.

The sum of $10,260 of the $12,000 needed for the erection of the new manse of the Clarendon Presbyterian Church, has been raised and it was announced yesterday that it is hoped to ask for bids for the erection of the building within the next week.

Plans and specifications for the building have been prepared by A. F. Thelander.

The building, which will contain eight rooms and be of brick construction, will be located on the Key boulevard in Lyon Village. The exact site has not yet been determined, there being two under consideration in the same section.

The Ladies Aid Society presented a two-act comedy entitled: "Listen Ladies," at the Clarendon Presbyterian Church last night.

The cast included Mrs. E. Ranchenstein, Mrs. John E. Eyre, Mrs. M. N. McKnight, Mrs. S. G. Lamberson, Mrs. Charles W. Harris, Mrs. Charles Mann, Mrs. A. I. Richmond, Mrs. H. S. Smith, Miss Ruth Ahalt, and Miss Mary Mann.

The proceeds will go to the manse building fund. The play will be repeated tonight at the Clarendon Methodist Church, at 8 o'clock.

Douglas S. Mackall, of McLean, member of the Fairfax County Bar Association, has been indorsed for judgeship of the sixteenth judicial circuit which becomes vacant in the near future with the resignation of Judge Howard W. Smith, candidate for Congress, who has announced he will tender his resignation within the next 30 days. There are now three attorneys mentioned for the office, the other two being Judge Harry R. Thomas, of the police and juvenile and domestic relations court of Arlington County, and Col. Charles T. Jesse, also of Arlington County.

Gideon Lyon, of Washington, is announced as speaker at the special meeting of the Arlington County Creative Arts Club, to be held tonight in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce. Mr Lyon will speak on his travels through Japan.

Speaking at the meeting of the Arlington County Monarch Club, held yesterday, at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse, Dr. J. Sterling Meade, of Washington, stressed the value of cooperation between dentists and the public, paying special attention to the value of watching children in prevention of disease.

Other speakers were Albert H. Sperden, president of the Washington Monarch Club; E. W. Wickey, vice president of the Washington Club, and E. J. Fredrey, treasurer of the Washington Club.

Arlington Encampment, No. 28, announce a square dance tonight in the Odd Fellows Hall, at Clarendon. Dancing will start at 8:30 o'clock.

The special Friday night Lenten service tonight at St. George's Episcopal Church, at Clarendon, will be conducted by the Rev. G. Freeland Peter, Canon and Chancellor of the Washington Cathedral.

The Creative Arts Club of Arlington County will listen to a lecture on Japan and the Japanese by Mr. Gideon A. Lyon Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce Building here.

Indorsement of the proposal for a Federal postoffice building for Arlington County, as outlined in a recent letter received from Representative R. Walton Moore, was given by the board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at its meeting held last night at Clarendon.

The secretary was instructed to write letters to Representative Moore and Thomas F. Fitch, assistant superintendent of the division of postoffice service, of the action taken by the board.

Henry C. Morris informed the board that it could obtain from the office of County Engineer C. L. Kinnier reports of the county's activities on roads, water and sewers and the program for enlargement for the county schools from the office of Fletcher Kemp, county school superintendent.

It was voted to hold the quarterly meeting the third Thursday in May instead of in April as previously arranged.

The board voted to consolidate the committees on aviation, transportation and communication and elected A. L. Kelley as the chairman of the committee.

Rum Sale Permit Denied Drug Store

Circuit Judge Refuses Its Plea; Law Never Before Used Is Invoked.

Special to The Washington Post.

Strasburg, Va., March 20.—Stricter enforcement of the prohibition law in Shenandoah County received distinct impetus, it is believed, when Judge Phillip Williams, of the Shenandoah County Circuit Court, refused to grant a permit to a Woodstock drug firm to dispense ardent spirits. The movement to have the permit revoked got under way several months ago and several hundred citizens signed a petition requesting that it not be renewed.

However, the petition was not used in court, recourse being taken to a law which has been on the statute books since 1922, but which had never been invoked before in this county, providing that no license to sell strong drinks in any town or within two miles thereof can be granted without first obtaining the permission of the council and then on such terms as may be required by said council. A majority of the Woodstock council opposed granting the permit.

COST OF ANNEXATION TOLD BY ALEXANDRIA

Del Ray Bank Will Reopen to Pay Depositors Part of Funds.

J. B. DEANE RITES TODAY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The city council yesterday received three resolutions from the Citizens Association of Alexandria, composed of residents of the newly annexed territory, the first of which requested that the council publish an itemized statement of the expenditures of the city incident to the annexation of the recently acquired territory; another, that the one block of Windsor avenue, between Mount Vernon and Dewitt avenues, upon which the Community Building fronts, and which is the only exit or entrance for the fire apparatus of Potomac, be paved for its full width, and the third, that the present menace as exists at Hume Spring be removed at the earliest possible moment.

The council ordered that the following statement of expenditures in connection with annexation proceedings be published: Paid to Arlington County, $502.500; paid to Fairfax County, $36,615.35; attorneys' fees and expenses, $16,453.35; engineering fees and expenses, $6,295.20; court costs, $3,645.78, and miscellaneous, $1,251.09, or a total of $566,760.77. This statement will be forwarded to Fred A. Holden, secretary of the Citizens Association.

The council adopted resolutions to the effect that the paving of Windsor avenue be further considered at the time a comprehensive paving program is presented by the city manager, which is expected to be ready by June 1, and that the removal of the existing menace at Hume Spring would be handled at the time of reconstruction of Mount Vernon avenue from Hume Station to Four Mile Run, the city limits.

Two resolutions, which were introduced at the last meeting, one providing for a temporary loan of $50,000, in anticipation of collection of taxes for the current year, and the other appropriating $2,500 for making surveys and designs of the sanitary sewers in the newly annexed territory, were approved.

A communication signed by 86 citizens and taxpayers residing near Hume Spring, on the Mount Vernon boulevard and Glebe road, protested the removal of electric lights from this vicinity and asked that they be restored. The city manager explained that four small lights had been removed and replaced with one large light at the intersection of these two thoroughfares, which affords more protection at the intersection than before. He was instructed to make a further inspection and if, in his opinion, additional lights are essential, to install them.

A petition signed by R. C. Bowton, Herbert J. Baker and R. C. Barrett, who stated that they are the only residents of what is known as Taylor drive, protested a proposed change of name to Rucker street, and suggested that the name be changed to Capitol View or Monument View. The city manager was instructed to inform the petitioners that the committee on renaming streets has not yet made its final report, but that their suggestion will be taken into consideration when the final report is made.

An application for a building permit to increase the size of a store at the northeast corner of Queen and Alfred streets was granted.

The financial statement of the city for February showed a cash balance on hand January 1 of $259,326.52; total receipts for February of $32,180.71, total disbursements of $274,073.23, and a cash balance March 1 of $17,594.77.

A resolution was adopted requesting Robert L. May, who has recently acquired the Mount Vernon Alexandria & Washington Railway, which will be operated between Alexandria and Washington in connection with his bus line, to furnish the council with a schedule of such changes in rates as it may be his purpose to seek to make as early as practicable. The council at a previous meeting adopted a resolution approving the acquisition by Mr. May of the railway line, which carried with it an understanding that reasonably increased rates would receive the approval of the council.

Councilman Fannon introduced a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the painting and cleaning up of the subpolice station at Rosemont, at a cost not to exceed $250, the installation of a telephone and the assigning of a man to patrol the Rosemont section, with his headquarters there, both day and night. The city manager stated he would see that a patrolman makes the rounds at least once each hour.

A petition was received from the property owners at 225, 227, 229 and 231 South Peyton street, requesting that a sewer be constructed at the rear of their property to connect with the Hooffs Run sewer. The city manager was instructed to make a report on the cost of the proposed sewer, and the probable receipts on account of tapping charge.

A resolution was introduced by Councilman Fannon, and approved, reciting the fact that through the generosity of Louis A. Watres, president of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association, a set of chimes have been installed in the tower of the new temple, and providing that a letter be addressed to Mr. Watres expressing the appreciation of the people of Alexandria of his gift.

The doors of the Bank of Del Ray will be reopened Monday for the purpose of making payments to depositors of one-third of the total amount of their deposits in excess of $5, held by the bank at the time of its closing, January 21.

Judge J. R. H. Alexander, who was designated as a special judge to handle the matter, entered an order yesterday permitting the receiver, Courtland H. Davis, to disburse the actual cash in hand to the depositors. The remainder of the deposits will be refunded as soon as the holdings of the bank, which are stated to be sufficient to pay all depositors in full, are reduced to cash, which it is expected will require about 90 days.

The receiver will ask all holders of safe deposit boxes in the bank to remove their effects from their boxes Monday while the bank is open.

At a later date the receiver will set aside sufficient funds to cover the one-third of all accounts of $5 or less, to be disbursed later.

The city school board has established a night school for illiterate persons at the Lee School, according to a report made by R. C. Bowton, superintendent of schools. The attendance at the opening night, Monday, was seven, one additional has enrolled since, and the enrollment is expected to increase rapidly. The school will be held four nights each week until the close of the regular school term. Two teachers will be on duty, and practically all teachers in the local system have volunteered their services.

The Order Fraternal Americans, through Col. John H. Trimyer, has renewed its offer of a flag for the new Maury school, and the board has assured Col. Trimyer that the offer will be accepted as soon as the grounds around the school can be improved and a suitable pole erected.

Supt. Bowton will prepare commissions to be presented next month to the officers of the cadet corps of the Alexandria and George Mason High Schools.

The annual inspection and ladies' night entertainment of Old Dominion Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar, will be held tonight in the George Mason Hotel. General Chairman R. Samuel Luckett stated yesterday that the affair will be attended by more than 100 Masons and members of their families. All Sir Knights have been requested to assemble at the asylum at 7 o'clock and receive Eminent Frank Gravely Payne, grand junior warden of the grand commandery, who will be the inspector for the occasion.

A banquet will be served after the inspection and a short address delivered by Right Eminent G. C. Dunkum, past grand commander of the District of Columbia, and a dance will be given after the banquet.

The committee on arrangements is composed of R. Samuel Luckett, general chairman; E. L. Mankin, C. Philip Heishley, John A. Martin, L. J. Miller, W. L. Norford, A. M. Sherwood, Harry F. Kennedy and Claude W. Fletcher.

The Rev. Carl J. Goette, who has been pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church for nearly twelve years, has tendered his resignation to accept a call to the pastorate of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, at York, Pa. He will be installed in his new charge directly after Easter, as he has been asked to remain here until after the confirmation of the 1930 class of catechumens. His installation will probably take place during the meeting of the Baltimore district conference, which will be held in York.

Mr. Goette, after attending a Christian day school, entered Concordia College, in Bronxville, N. Y., from which he was graduated in 1913. In the autumn of the same year he entered Concord Seminary as a divinity student, graduating in 1916. After a special course of study covering two years at University of Chicago, he accepted his first call to the Immanuel Church here in 1918. He also occupied the pulpit of Calvary congregation of Baltimore, before the congregation had its resident pastor. He was installed as pastor of the local church in September, 1918, by the late Rev. H. Schroeder, of Washington.

James B. Deane, aged 62 years, unmarried, a brick mason by trade and a former member of the city police force, was taken suddenly ill on Wednesday night and carried to the Alexandria Hospital where he died at an early hour yesterday morning. He is survived by a sister, Miss Margaret Deane, of Washington. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Wheatley's Funeral Home, conducted by the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, and burial will be in the Presbyterian Cemetery, and will be private.

Miss Sophia Bendheim died Wednesday evening at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bendheim, 812 Prince street, after an illness of six weeks. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the home, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Abram Simon of Washington, and burial will be in the Home of Peace Cemetery.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence will address the meeting of the Baraca Bible Class of the First Baptist Church, on Sunday morning. The teacher, P. C. Duborg, will have charge of the service, which will be held in the regular class room, which has been remodeled since the recent fire that damaged the church.

CAPITAL IS VIEWED AS TRADE CENTER

Washington Serves 50,000 Rural Homes, Garden Group Is Told.

MARKET PLAN IS URGED

That Washington is the natural trade center of a large back country in Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia which includes about 50,000 rural homes was the claim of Nat Frame, director of extension in West Virginia for the United States Department of Agriculture at the luncheon forum of the Washington, Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association held in the Woman's City Club yesterday.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, president of the branch. Nearly 100 were in attendance, including many from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Miss Florence Ward, chairman of the program committee, arranged yesterday's session.

"Stay on Farms."

Mr. Frame declared that on account of the present unemployment conditions people of the territory surrounding the Capital should remain on their farms rather than move to cities in hopes of obtaining more profitable work.

A plea for the establishment of a farmers' market in Washington to meet the emergency which will be caused by the demolition of Center Market was made by Dr. Thomas Symons, director of extension work, U. S. Department of Agriculture, for the State of Maryland. Such a market, Dr. Symons declared, would mean a greater Washington in the future. He stated that 500 farmers were waiting to sell their produce at such a market.

Mrs. William Barrett Ridgeley, Washington member, spoke briefly in support of Dr. Symons remarks and asked the support of those present for the pending legislation to establish such a market.

Miss Gertrude Warren, under whose direction comes the work of organizing farm clubs for boys and girls, stated that there are 5,000,000 farm girls in this country between the ages of 10 and 20 years.

Mrs. Goff Speaks.

Mrs. Guy Despard Goff, wife of Senator Goff, of West Virginia, told of five Home Industries Shops which had been established to market the handicraft and produce raised by rural women in her State. Six hundred women are sending their wares regularly to these shops with an annual turnover of $50,000, according to this speaker.

Among the topics discussed was the establishment of what is known as "The Green Door Shops" in Washington, where the wares of rural women might find a sale and the development of roadside stands on farms. In this connection it was stated that Mrs. Henry Ford, wife of the automobile manufacturer and national president of the organization, had designed a very attracitve roadside stand which was on exhibition at the recent national convention of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Tablet for Virginia Printer to Be Unveiled

Richmond, Va., March 20 (A.P.).—A tablet in honor of William Parks, Virginia's first successful printer, to be presented here Saturday afternoon as a feature of the 200th anniversary of printing in the State, is later to be unveiled at Williamsburg, where Parks opened his shop in 1730.

John Stewart Bryan, publisher of the Richmond News-Leader, will present the tablet on behalf of the Virginia Press Association, and the printers of Virginia, and Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the College of William and Mary, will receive it for Williamsburg.

Meeting Outlined By Warsaw Rector

Short Course for Rural Clerics to Be Held in Summer.

Warsaw, Va., March 20 (A.P.).—An outline of the work of the first rural ministers' short course ever held at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, set for July 21 to August 1, was announced here tonight by Dr. F. D. Goodwin, rector of the Warsaw Episcopal Church and director of the short course.

Assisting Dr. Goodwin in arranging the program are B. L. Hummel, rural organization specialist of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division and secretary of the Virginia Rural Church Conference Board, and Dr. W. F. Garnett, professor of rural sociology at V. P. I.

During the first few days of the conference, Dr. Goodwin explained, approximately 1,000 boys and girls are expected at Blacksburg, attending the anual 4-H Club short course. During the latter part of the period the Institute of Rural Affairs and the State Farmers Institute will be held. This division was selected in order to give attending ministers the added opportunity of coming into contact with leading State and national country life leaders who will be at Blacksburg.

Undertaker Gains Governor's Pardon

Under Sentence on Charge of Opening Grave to Collect Bill.

Richmond, Va., March 20 (A.P.).—Gov. John Garland Pollard today pardoned Thomas E. Cook, Suffolk Negro undertaker, under a sentence of five years on conviction of digging up the corpse of a Negro woman so that he might collect a bill alleged to have been due him for the woman's funeral.

Cook was sentenced under the grave-robbing statute which has a minimum penalty of five years. Judge J. L. McLemore, Commonwealth's Attorney C. B. Goodwin, all members of the jury that heard the case and 900 residents of the City of Suffolk joined in recommendations for clemency.

The case was presented by a Suffolk delegation headed by former Congressman E. E. Holland.

Police Are at Once Nemesis And Samaritans to Actress

Trip of Stranded Trouper and Companion Halted by Maryland Patrolmen for Lack of License, Who Then Care for Penniless Girl.

This is the tale of a miss of 18, who would be an actress be—and found that the way of the thespian is cold and weary when the show is closed out.

Almost a year ago Betty Sandeler, a country lass of near Troy, N. Y., yielded to the lure of the sawdust and canvas and joined a road show headed South. The show went the way of many another. The troupe found itself stranded in Miami.

In the company was Carl M. Stone, 35, of Marion, Ohio. Mr. Stone was in a better fix than most of the stranded company. He had an old coupe that would run. The only trouble was that there were no funds for license tags. Stone and Betty decided that the only way out was through the use of strategy. They covered the 1929 tags with the loose folds of a tent and proceeded toward New York, the mecca of show people. They managed to get all the way to Berwyn, Md., where the eagle eye of Maryland State Policeman C. W. Cubbage, of the Laurel substation, noticed that the tags were covered and stopped the car.

Result—a fine of $11.45 for expired markers and an additional fine of $11.45 for driving without a permit. Stone found himself faced with 23 days in jail; Betty with the loss of her transportation and meal ticket.

Here taepped in the kindly hearts of Officer Cubbage and Justice of the Peace George Phillips, of Berwyn, who located a rooming house for the girl and provided her with meals. Yesterday the young miss was allowed to say a fond farewell to her quondam companion in misery and found a "hop" back to the hope of all actresses—Broadway.

Stone will continue "at liberty," as theatrical people name no working, for 20 more days before he can return to the bright lights and the hope of another "casting."

100 POTATO DEALERS WILL GATHER TODAY

MEEK EXPLAINS DETAILS

Richmond, Va., March 20 (A.P.).—Potato dealers of two States expected to number 100 or more will gather at Exmore tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock for a meeting of the Maryland and Virginia market subcommittee of the interstate early potato committee of the United States Department of Agriculture. Details of the meeting were explained here today by J. H. Meek, director of the division of markets of the Virginia Department of Agriculture.

Workers in the United States Department of Agriculture, including A. P. Mercker, executive secretary of the interstate early potato committee of the department; Maryland Department of Agriculture officials; N. W. Broome, Virginia fruit and vegetable marketing specialist; Mr. Meek, and workers at Virginia Polytechnic Institute are expected to attend.

Orderly marketing of early potatoes, which are valued in Virginia last year at $21,826,000, will be discussed as affecting both Virginia and Maryland. The dealers intend to plan arrangements which would regulate shipping to prevent overlapping shipments from various regions and to present information relative to potato marketing in States competitive to Maryland and Virginia.

Conference to Set Date For Governors' Meeting

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 20.—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, four other governors and a former State executive, will hold a conference here tomorrow to fix a date and map out plans for the National Annual Conference of Governors to be held at Salt Lake City in the summer.

Other State executives coming are Gardner, of North Carolina; Dern, of Utah; Trumbull, of Connecticut, and Hammill, of Iowa. The former governor in the party will be Hardee, of Florida. The latter is secretary of the association. The conferees will assemble in Baltimore in th morning and come to Annapolis by motor. The conference will be held at the executive mansion, and an inspection of the Naval Academy and St. John's College will be part of the entertainment program.

Maryland Bankers Form Association

Gibson Elected Chairman of Group Two at First Luncheon.

W. Preston Gibson, president and cashier of the Takoma Park Bank, was elected chairman of Group Two of the Maryland State Bankers Association, which was formed at a luncheon held yesterday at the Manor Club, near Norbeck, Md. Representatives of the principal banks of Montgomery, Frederick, Carroll and Howard Counties were present.

Other officers elected were: George R. Gehr, vice president and cashier of the First National Bank of Westminster, vice chairman; Henry H. Owings, ppresident of the Washington Trust Co. of Maryland, secretary-treasurer, and Charles McC. Mathias, vice president of the Central Trust Co. of Maryland, representative to the State Association meeting in Atlantic iCty in May.

Sixty bankers were present at the meeting, which was held in accordance with the plan promulgated at the last annual meeting of the State association to form groups of several counties each. Hayward Boyce, president, and James W. McElroy, secretary, of the State organization, addressed the meeting.

Commerce Party To Visit Virginia

Delegates to Capital Meeting to See Historic Sites in Old Dominion.

Richmond, Va., March 20 (A.P.).—Approximately 300 delegates to the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington will come to Virginia to visit Jamestown, Yorktown, Williamsburg and Old Point Comfort next month, the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce announced today.

The party will leave Washington by boat April 29, arriving in Yorktown the next day. After inspecting the scene of Cornwallis' surrender the visitors will go to Jamestown, where the first permanent English settlement in America was established May 13, 1607, and the first legislative body in America met in 1619.

From Jamestown the party will proceed to Williamsburg, inspect the restoration work there, and travel by way of Langley Field to Fort Monroe, and thence back to Washington by boat.

Husband Is Jailed On Mate's Charges

Estranged Wife Asserts Man Broke Glass of Borrowed Car.

Aubrey Lane, 52 years old, Twelfth street near H northwest, was arrested yesterday by Montgomery County Policemen Shoemaker and Darby on charges of breaking glass on the road, disorderly conduct and destroying private property. He was lodged in the Rockville Jail in default of $100 bond fixed by Justice of the Peace Ward W. Coddington.

The police were called to Colesville by Mrs. Iola Lane, estranged wife of the prisoner, who told them that he had broken all of the windows in the car she was dricing. Mrs. Lane said that she had driven out to Colesville to leave a pair of shoes for her child, who boards there, and had borrowed the car from George Morrow, Lamont street northwest near Eleventh, a friend.

While she was in the house she heard the crash of glass and ran out to find her husband throwing stones through the glass. Lane refused to put up bond and insisted on being sent to jail, finding the police extremely accommodating.

MONTGOMERY QUIZ TO BE OPENED TODAY

GRAND JURY TO JUDGE

The Montgomery grand jury today will begin an investigation into the conduct of county affairs by the present administration. The investigation was asked by the Montgomery County Commissioners and Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader, who went before the grand jury Wednesday and demanded that the county affairs be subjected to the scrutiny of the body and indictments returned against the county officials or against the publishers of the Montgomery Independent, published at Rockville, which has been attacking the county administration.

The county officials declared that the charges that they had misappropriated or mishandled county funds and affairs had proved embarassing to them when they faced their friends and that they felt it incumbent upon the grand jury to clear them by indicting the newspaper publishers for criminal libel or by returning indictments against the officials.

The grand jury had completed its criminal investigations when the county officials appeared with their demand. Fifteen indictments had been returned and the usual preliminaries to adjournment completed. The adjournment has been indefinitely postponed by the investigation.

Philip McAbee, colored, was indicted for larceny of clothing from the Georgetown Preparatory School. McAbee was arrested by Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley several weeks ago as he crouched beneath the porch of the school. McAbee had been released from the Maryland House of Correction that morning and found himself back in jail within four hours of his release.

Robert W. Brisiel was indicted for arson and housebreaking in connection with the entry and burning of a river shack. Joseph Brightfull, colored, was indicted on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of Henson Carroll, colored. Henson W. Gettings, colored, who was captured through the means of "spiked corn," was indicted on charges of larceny. Spikes were driven into corn in a corn crib from which thefts had been noticed and Gettings was found in possession of such corn.

Other indictments returned were Ralph Phillips, colored, larceny of an automobile; John T. Dove, colored, larceny of a shotgun; Alexander M. Page and Raymond L. Wysong, two charges each of housebreaking and larceny; Richard E. Williams, colored, housebreaking and larceny.

Boy Scout officials of Montgomery County are making preparation for a campaign to raise funds for the annual budget of the Montgomery County Council, which is expected to begin about April 1. It is expected to raise $6,000 to care for the salary of the scout executive in charge and other incidental expenses to the supervision of the organization in the county.

The campaign will be in charge of the chairmen of the troop committees of each of the fifteen troops in the county, led by William P. Prettyman, chairman of the county council. S. W. Bogley, cashier of the Bank of Bethesda, has been named treasurer. The chairmen met Wednesday night to make plans for the drive.

Planting of flowering trees on the Rockville Pike will begin within 10 days, according to an announcement by George P. Sacks, chairman of a special committee appointed to discuss the planting of the trees with the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The plans for the planting, prepared by Roland W. Rogers, landscape architect of the planning commission, have been approved by the committee and will be presented to the full committee Monday or Tuesday.

The full committee is made up of representatives from each of the organizations representing citizens of the Rockville Pike. The plan provides for the planting of elms 60 feet apart with two dogwood or Japanese cherry trees between. Special plans are provided for several spots where the road is higher or lower than the adjacent land.

Property owners will have to be consulted before the plan can be put into effect. Inasmuch as the road is planned to be widened from 60 feet to 100 feet, it will be necessary to plant the trees on the adjacent property, it was said.
